HITLER INVITES FRANCE TO HELP HIM AVERT WAR

Hails Saar's Return as Peace Move.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAARBRUECKEN, Germany, March 1.—Almost within hailing distance of France, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today again extended the hand of friendship to that republic as he welcomed the return of the rich Saar basin to Germany after 15 years of control under the league of nations.

The Nazi dictator's voice shook with emotion as he made his peace offer from the steps of the town hall of Saarbruecken. The address was broadcast over the government controled radio system to every city, town, and hamlet in the Saar and Germany.

"This is a happy day not only for Germany but, I believe, for all of Europe," Hitler said. "One of the most beneficial steps ever taken was when it was decided to hold a plebiscite, respect its outcome, and return this land, which so easily could have become an eternal bone of contention, to Germany.

Sees European Crisis Averted.

"It is a happy day for Europe because through the return of the Saarland it may be possible to avert the crisis under which two great neighboring nations are suffering. We hope that through this act of justice relations between France and Germany will definitly improve. We want peace. We hope our great neighbor nation is willing and ready to seek it with us. It must be possible for two great nations to coöperate in common work for averting the difficulty which threatens to engulf Europe.

"This day should also be a lesson for all who disregard the historic truth that through error or might no people can be divested of its innermost self. You cannot tear out one section of a nation and attempt to steal its very soul. Blood is stronger than all paper documents.

Free Germany, Hitler's Aim.

"By your vote you greatly ease my task—which, God be my witness—has no other aim save making Germany free and happy.

"You are not returning into a finished house. We are still working to complete it. It must be your pride and your joy to help us build up this new German house which we all visualize in our hearts and minds."

Hitler's entry into the Saar was dramatic. At 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon a Nazi official raced through the streets of Saarbruecken crying, "Der fuehrer is coming." The residents of the city, swelled by more than 300,000 jubilant Germans from the reich and elsewhere, swarmed toward the center of town to catch a glimpse of their hero. They stood in a pouring rain for several hours as Hitler's automobile sped toward Saarbruecken.

As the automobile entered the city the thousands let loose thunderous cheers. Wild with joy, they shrieked, "Heil Hitler!" and welcomed him as if he were a Roman emperor.

Hitler Acknowledges Cheers.

Bareheaded, Hitler stood up in the automobile and acknowledged the plaudits as he moved slowly along. Overhead fluttered Nazi flags. Buildings, churches, shops, and residences were swathed in bunting.

Taking his position in a stand in front of the government building the leader reviewed a parade of Nazi uniformed forces for an hour and a half. He raised his arm in the Hitler salute as each squad passed by. The crowd gave the greatest ovation to the Schuetz Staffel, Hitler's black uniformed bodyguard, which goose-stepped past the fuehrer as only that crack organization can.

After the parade Hitler received representatives of the league, and expressed thanks for their coöperation in the restoration of the Saar to Germany.

At 6 o'clock the happy Germans, drenched and cold, massed in front of the town hall to hear Hitler. The town hall blazed with electric lights.

Describes Entry of French.

First Hitler's deputy leader, Rudolf Hess, described the days of November, 1918, in Saarbruecken. He said he took off from the Saarbruecken air field in a pursuit plane just a few hours before the French took over the city. He compared those hours with the joy of the Saar's return to Germany on the arrival of a "fuehrer who truly can lead and a fuehrer who is German. It is symbolical that your struggle for the return to the Fatherland lasted as long as the fuehrer's struggle for the liberation of Germany."

Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of

Fears Illness, Kills Himself in Loop Hotel

Roland R. More, 40 years old, of 809 Seward street, Evanston, committed suicide late yesterday by shooting himself with a .32 calibre revolver in a room on the tenth floor of the Morrison hotel. His body was not found until early today.

In a letter he left, addressed to Dr. James Gill, 217 South Central Park avenue, More declared he had learned a blood clot was developing on the left side of his brain, and that he had decided to "end it all" rather than become a burden to his family.

Wife Is Seriously Ill.

He also pleaded in the letter that the news not be broken to his wife, Agnes, until Dr. Gill could be present himself. Mrs. More, the doctor said, is seriously ill, and he wished to be at hand to give her needed medical attention when she learned of her husband's death.

According to hotel officials, More registered shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and apparently ended his life a short time later. His body was found in the bathroom adjoining the room by a hotel employe.

Letter Dated Day Before.

The letter which he left was dated Feb. 28, indicating that he had been planning the deed for at least 24 hours. In addition to Dr. Gill, the letter asked that four persons be notified of his death. They are J. W. Murray, 63 Snowden avenue, Toronto, Canada; James H. More, 5469 Seventh avenue, Los Angeles; Mrs. Herman More, 14 Eighth avenue, New York City, and P. M. Murray, 242 East Park avenue, Highland Park.

Mr. Murray, a cousin of the dead man, left immediately for the hotel with his wife, upon being informed by police of the suicide. According to Dr. Gill, More was formerly a commercial photographer, but he was unable to say whether he had been working during the last few months.

Shot by Policeman When He Attempts Holdup

John Kuzmecki, 27 years old, 1711 Altgeld street, was shot and critically wounded by Policeman Joseph Baginski of the Damen avenue station early today when he and two companions were fleeing after attempting to rob Theodore Geisman, a clerk in the county recorder's office, in front of his home at 3649 Ravenswood avenue. Geisman struggled with the robbers when they demanded his money and the scuffle attracted Baginski. As he ran to the scene the trio fled, and he fired, a bullet striking Kuzmecki in the back.

SLUG PHYSICIAN; TAKE GEMS FROM WIFE AND MOTHER

Jewels valued at $1,440 were taken early this morning by three armed bandits who held up Dr. James R. Webster, 5411 Hyde Park boulevard, his wife, and his mother, Mrs. Ralph W. Webster, as they were leaving the home of friends at 5630 Woodlawn avenue.

Mrs. Ralph Webster is the widow of Dr. Ralph W. Webster, nationally famous toxicologist, who died two years ago.

The three had just got into Dr. Webster's automobile when the trio of gunmen appeared. In response to a command to "Stick 'em up" the doctor lashed out with his foot at one of the bandits and was slugged in the face with a revolver butt, one tooth being knocked out.

The bandits then took from Mrs. Ralph W. Webster a set of jade earrings and necklace, valued at $90; an opal ring set with diamonds, valued at $1,200, and a jade ring valued at $75. Her daughter-in-law lost a $75 platinum wedding ring.

When the bandits had fled the elder Mrs. Webster found to her great joy that they had dropped a 6 carat diamond ring which, she told police, was worth "about $5,000."

Flying Wife of Knight Hunted in African Wild

LIVINGSTONE, Northern Rhodesia, March 1—(AP)—Lady Margaret Young, wife of the governor of Northern Rhodesia, and her physician were lost in an African jungle tonight many hours after their airplane had been forced down.

They took off from here for Lusaka, 300 miles distant, yesterday afternoon. When darkness fell tonight hundreds of searchers who had begun to scour the animal infested terrain reported failure to find any trace of the machine and its passengers.

Country Abounds with Lions.

The trip should have been made in less than three hours. The couple has been missing for 30 hours.

The country between here and Lusaka is ideal safari country for hunters fully equipped. It abounds with lions, rhinoceroses, and other wild animals. Efficient search is difficult even for trained trackers.

Maj. Sir Hubert Young, governor of the colony, organized the search for his wife. He had been awaiting her arrival following her release from a hospital.

Hundreds Comb Jungle.

The Rhodesia railways organized a searching party of 100 men, while 200 native soldiers of the North Rhodesia regiment were enlisted for the hunt.

Two great groups of searchers spread out fanwise southward from Mazabuka and northward from Choma. Lady Young's plane had last been seen near Kalomo, 100 miles from here. Those who reported it said the engine did not appear to be working right.

Sir Hubert, formerly of the Indian army, was appointed governor of Northern Rhodesia only last year. His wife, whom he married ten years ago, is the former Margaret Rosa Reynolds of Dorchester, England. They have three sons.

PROOF CLAIMED FOR TELEPATHY BY MANY TESTS

New York, March 1.—(AP)—Proof of telepathy has been established, said Dr. Hereward Carrington today, by 200,000 tests conducted recently at Duke university, Durham, N. C.

Speaking at the Women's University club, the director of the American Psychical Research institute asserted that probably one person in ten has experienced thought transference, usually in connection with the illness or death of a loved one.

"We get hundreds and thousands of letters about such cases," he said. "If it is true, as we believe, that thoughts exist outside the physical brain, then the whole world of psychology will have to be revised."

RENT PAYMENTS FOR IDLE RAISED BY COMMISSION

Work Will Be Given Men in Shelters.

Straight Dole Urged

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday announced changes in policy which it is estimated will add $10,560,000 a year to the cost of supporting the idle in this state.

Two steps will be taken under the plan, which was approved by the members of the commission at a meeting in their headquarters at 1319 South Michigan avenue. The first step will be taking 10,000 young men from the Chicago relief shelters and placing them on work relief projects. According to estimates this will cost per year $1,560,000 more than is at present expended on the care of the men in the shelters.

Grant More Doles for Rent.

The second step to be taken is expected to cost $9,000,000. This is the granting of additional doles for rent to thousands of relief families, both in Chicago and downstate.

Last year the commission spent a total of $106,841,229. Its estimated expenditures for the present months are $14,318,479, a new high record for any single month.

The relief commission adopted yesterday's changes in policy after listening to a speech in Chicago yesterday by Harry L. Hopkins, head of the federal emergency relief administration. It was presumed that the address of Mr. Hopkins, who demanded support for President Roosevelt's huge work relief program, had some effect on the decision of the commission. Only last week the members had tabled the new rent policy because federal representatives would not guarantee funds from Washington to carry it out.

Yesterday, however, Howard O. Hunter, regional supervisor for the Federal Relief administration, appeared before the commission with an assurance that he would recommend increased government grants to Illinois to cover the cost of the new policy.

Speaks Before Executives' Club.

Relief Administrator Hopkins, whose speech was delivered before a luncheon meeting of 600 members of the Executives' club in the Hotel Sherman, declared that the President's work relief program offered the best and cheapest means of maintaining the existing economic order. The cost of the program, including old age pensions and other social benefits that are expected to be dealt with in new legislation, Mr. Hopkins placed at five billion dollars a year.

"This is a new day and the people will no longer tolerate poverty," he declared. "We may as well make up our minds to pay the bill."

Mr. Hopkins began his speech, the first of nine which he will make in the Chicago area within a few days, by discarding his prepared manuscript. His remarks were delivered in terse sentences and he frequently emphasized his points with vigorous gestures.

Declares People Want Jobs.

"If you ask the people on relief what they want," he asserted, "they will give but one answer. They want jobs. We must let them have jobs. Those who are collecting relief now and doing no work, or only a few hours' work a week, are forming bad habits that will be costly in the long run."

To maintain the present system of half work relief and half direct relief, he continued, would be more costly than the President's method. And reviewing less expensive alternatives, the administrator designated them all as dangerous to the economic order.

He admitted that relief costs could be cut in half by allowing the beneficiaries to produce all the things necessary for their own support, and by a third if the government should purchase supplies for these people from primary producers and eliminate wholesalers and retailers.

Opposes Collectivist System.

"As a matter of policy," Mr. Hopkins said, "I am opposed to setting up a separate industrial economy for the twenty million relief people distinct from the economy we now have. We do not want a collectivist system in this country."

Nevertheless, he warned, it might

Kellogg's Tea for Two Is a Tiff for Three

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Varied versions of how Mrs. Florence B. Kellogg, then the wife of Attorney George Kellogg Jr., confronted Mr. Kellogg and Mrs. Ruth Ritze during a tête-à-tête in a loop lunchroom were told yesterday to a jury before Judge Craig Van Meter of Mattoon, who is sitting in Circuit court here.

After the confronting episode, back in 1933, Mrs. Kellogg divorced her husband and he married Mrs. Ritze. Now Florence is suing Ruth for $50,000, charging the alienation of the Kellogg affections, and this is the circumstance that brought Mr. Kellogg, the two Mrs. Kelloggs, the judge, the jury and an assortment of spectators together yesterday in the courtroom. Mr. Kellogg is an attorney for the International Harvester company.

Closing Arguments Today.

Closing arguments will be made this morning by Attorney Melville Mucklestone, counsel for Mrs. Florence Kellogg, who lives at 7529 Kingston avenue, and by Attorney Royal W. Irwin, counsel for Mrs. Ruth Kellogg, who is the third wife of Kellogg. The case is expected to go to the jury before noon.

The first to testify yesterday, Mrs. Florence Kellogg, pictured a life of domestic bliss in the Kellogg home. She described how happy they had been before the events of 1931 which culminated in his final departure in December of that year.

A short brunette of 48 years, who formerly was head of the Illinois department of the American Legion auxiliary, Mrs. Kellogg turned melancholy eyes toward the jury box, and the down drooping corners of her small mouth curved in a sad smile.

Madly in Love Ever Since.

"When Mr. Kellogg and I were married at Crown Point on June 7, 1919, he had no funds," she said. "He wasn't discharged from the army yet. I had some funds, so we were married. I've been madly in love with him at all times since."

"And in 1931, when you and Mr. Kellogg were living in Wilmette, did you live in harmony?" asked her attorney, adjusting horn-rimmed glasses from which dangled a black cord.

"Mr. Kellogg and I had always been very close—well, very loving," the witness said, pursing her mouth, "until May, 1931, when he began acting very strangely. He stayed out until 2 and 3 in the morning, without a good excuse. Nothing the children [Paul George Kellogg, their son, and Mary Jane Kellogg, her 19 year old daughter by a former marriage] or myself did pleased him."

Handworked Linens Appear.

It was a few months later, she said, that she noticed he was wearing shirts she had not bought him, embroidered in his initials by hands other than hers. He also carried handkerchiefs which were handmade and not made by her, she said.

Attorney Mucklestone then asked Mrs. Kellogg if she recalled seeing Mrs. Ruth Kellogg on Jan. 24, 1933. The two women had exchanged frequent fiery glances across the counsel table. Now the brown eyes of the plaintif Mrs. Kellogg in the witness box challenged the blue eyes of the defendant Mrs. Kellogg seated before her at the table. The defendant is the divorced wife of Dr. John A. Ritze, head of a sanitarium. She is the mother of two children.

"Yes, I do," Mrs. Florence Kellogg replied slowly to the lawyer's question. "I was at the Stop and Shop at luncheon, and saw her and Mr. Kellogg together. Mr. Kellogg said: 'I want you to meet Mrs. Ritze.' I kept my back to her, but she grabbed my hands and said: 'So, I'm common, am I? And so you're the beautiful Mrs. Kellogg, are you?'

Tempest in a Tearoom.

"She said she knew I'd been investigating her and Mr. Kellogg, and that she was doing some investigating of her own. I told her to investigate all she pleased.

"Then I said: 'I'd like you to remember this man is my husband.' She

Howard W. Elmore, real estate operator and former president of the Chicago sanitary district, charged yesterday that his indictment on charges of income tax evasion grew out of the political enmity of Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior and head of the federal Public Works administration. The income tax investigation was started by a disgruntled employé and was pushed to conclusion through the power of Ickes, Elmore declared.

The indictment, returned earlier in the day before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan, charged that Elmore evaded total payments of $51,659 for the years 1929 and 1930. With two felony counts in the indictment, the maximum possible punishment on conviction would be imprisonment of ten years and total fines of $20,000.

Elmore Claims $100,000 Loss.

Told of the government action, Elmore displayed a financial statement showing losses of more than $100,000 during the years mentioned in the indictment. He explained the filing of an income tax return showing a profit in 1929 with the statement that "an accounting firm always took care of the income tax business."

In this year, according to Assistant United States Attorney E. Riley Campbell, Elmore had a net income of $193,703, on which he should have paid a tax of $37,028. The Elmore report for that year showed an income of $19,731, on which he paid a tax of $180.

For 1930, the indictment showed, Elmore reported a net loss of $5,753. The government charged that he should have paid a tax of $14,631 on a net income of $95,107.

"My trouble with the government grew out of my service as president of the sanitary district board," Elmore said. "I went into the district following the 'whoopee era' and was working night and day to clean up the dirty situation and save the taxpayers money.

Blames Former Secretary.

"I had to trust some one and allowed Joseph Weber, secretary of my company and the bookkeeper, to take care of my business. Then in 1931 the H. W. Elmore company was liquidated for the creditors and reorganized as the Howard W. Elmore company.

"Weber lost $6,000 in a syndicate deal through the liquidation and became angry about it. On Dec. 1, 1933, he came into my office with another man and asked me to assume responsibility for payment of the $6,000. He said that he knew something about my income tax and would report it if I didn't pay him.

"I told him that if there was anything wrong with my income tax I didn't know it, and pointed out that all returns had been made out by the accounting firm on figures furnished by him."

On the day after Weber's visit, Elmore said, he went to the United States courthouse and talked to United States Attorney Dwight H. Green. The district attorney assured him, Elmore said, that his income tax was not under investigation.

Refused Appearance Before Jury.

Elmore said that he heard nothing more of the matter until last Wednesday, when he was informed in an anonymous telephone conversation that he was the subject of a federal grand jury investigation.

"I went to District Attorney Green at that time and he admitted that the grand jury was investigating my income tax," Elmore said. "I demanded the right to go before the grand jury myself and was refused. I was told while in the federal courthouse that the 'investigation was being pushed from Washington.'

"I incurred the enmity of Ickes during my one venture into the political world. He was opposed to my campaign for the sale of the Chicago canal to the government, a sale which I believe should be made because the channel has grown from the sewage disposal stage to a ship canal.

"Ickes also resented my charge that the PWA pay roll on sanitary district work had been stuffed with Ickes henchmen. I lay this indictment at Ickes' door and am firmly convinced that he is responsible for driving the investigation to the indictment stage."

Green Gives His Version.

District Attorney Green said yesterday that he had discussed the case with Elmore, but that the story Elmore told to him did not differ greatly from that already obtained by government agents.

"This case arose and was examined in regular grand jury procedure," Attorney Green said. "I doubt that Secretary Ickes knew that the investigation was in progress."

A spokesman for Secretary Ickes said in Washington last night that the PWA administrator "never heard or knew anything about the investigation or indictment of Elmore."

List $235,378 Income in 1929.

In direct contradiction to the claims of Elmore the indictment listed an income of $235,378 for 1929, minus allowed deductions of $41,674. The items of income were listed by the government as follows:

Salaries	$ 20,840
Income from business	57,563
Income from subdivision trusts	36,060
Income from installment sales	108,928
Income from sales of subdivisions	4,767
Interest	5,323
Dividends	1,953

In the year of 1930, when the Elmore report showed a loss of $5,753, the government held that the correct figures should read:

Salary	$ 20,800
Loss from business	42,274
Interest	43
Profit from sales of real estate	116,408
Dividends received	388
Total income	$95,365

A deduction of $257 was allowed for this year. Neither year, it was pointed out, included Elmore's salary from the sanitary district, which was $7,500 a year. As the salary of a public office this was tax exempt.

Elmore, who took office as a sanitary district trustee in December, 1928, served as a member of the district board until December, 1934. He was president of the board during 1929 and 1930. During his last four years as a trustee he was the only Republican on the board.

Elmore came to Chicago from his home in Greenville, Ill., in 1912, and entered the fish and oyster business. He became interested in Chicago real estate and in 1921 organized the first company bearing his name.

Active in Business, Civic Work.

Successful in the real estate business, he sponsored a number of subdivisions, and also was active in south side church and civic affairs. At one time he was president of the Mount Greenwood Trust and Savings bank, chairman of the board of the Oak Lawn Trust and Savings bank, and an official of the Villa Park Trust and Savings bank.

At the height of his success in 1927 he gave a $20,000 pipe organ to the Lindblom High school, where his daughter, Helen, had been a student.

He entered the political arena in 1928 as a member of the Deneen faction, and at the end of his term on the sanitary board in 1934 announced that he would not seek reelection because he must recoup losses caused by neglect of business due to political activities.

Elmore, whose offices are at 29 South La Salle street, is married and the father of seven children. His home is at 10650 Longwood drive.

U. S. IS FLOCKING TO COMMUNISTS, MOSCOW IS TOLD

MOSCOW, March 1.—(AP)—The official newspaper Pravda in a dispatch from its New York correspondent today said the communist party's increasing prestige and popularity in the United States placed it in a position where it was not necessary to try to assume the initiative in a number of ripening class struggles.

The article said the party in the last year succeeded in penetrating more deeply into the mass of workers and also gained much support among farmers, intellectuals, and the small bourgeois. It declared the party has taken the leadership along a broad front in a fight for social insurance and its ideas are now considered sober and its method practical by the broad masses.

The dispatch quoted communist leaders in America as saying the ice is broken and the people's fear of the Reds has disappeared. There is increasing unity, it continued, between the Negro and white workers in America and communists are now organizing Negroes in their churches in New York to fight for their daily material needs and to "defend their elementary human rights." It also said there is an increasing demand for communist literature.

FORT SHERIDAN COMMAND TAKEN BY GEN. MERRILL

Brig. Gen. Dana T. Merrill yesterday took command of Fort Sheridan, relieving Col. Harry D. Chamberlain, who has been in charge there since Maj. Gen. Frank C. Bolles was transferred two weeks ago to take command of the Eight corps area, with headquarters at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.

The only ceremony accompanying yesterday's change in command was the firing of an eleven gun salute when Gen. Merrill and his party entered the gates of the reservation. Gen. Merrill left his previous command at Fort Thomas, Ky., yesterday morning. Accompanied by his wife, his daughter, True, and his aid, Lieut. Surratt T. Hames, the general motored to Chicago.

FRENCH CHAMBER PASSES BILL TO LET WOMEN VOTE

PARIS, March 1.—(AP)—The chamber of deputies this evening voted, 453 to 124, to give women the right to vote in all elections, after discarding another bill limiting the ballot to municipal elections. The measure now will be sent to committee together with numerous amendments specifying when and how women shall be allowed to vote, later to be returned to the chamber for a final vote. If approved it will then go to the senate, which has several times killed chamber bills providing for woman suffrage.

CHINA MAY GET U. S. CASH AID IN BLOCKING JAPAN

Joint Loan Considered by America.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—America is considering the possibility of joining with other nations to block Japanese penetration of China through financial means, an official spokesman said here today.

International action, in which the United States may coöperate, would take the form of a consortium loan to China, enabling that country to straighten out its precarious financial condition. Such joint action would block Japan's present attempt to force its own financial aid on China in return for virtual Japanese domination of Chinese commercial and military affairs.

May Be "Obligatory."

"China undoubtedly has a shaky financial condition, and until something is done about it there is always the chance that Japan will try to take advantage of it," one official remarked, adding that under the nine power treaty the United States may actually be obliged to join in aiding China.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, had a lengthy conference with William Phillips, undersecretary of state, today, at which it was understood the question of joint aid to China in order to block Japanese penetration was discussed. The meeting revived reports that Britain and the United States had informally agreed to cooperate in the far east after Japan junked the naval disarmament treaties.

Consider Joint Protest.

A joint protest to Japan signed by the nations participating in the nine power treaty, including America, may be agreed upon even if the actual loan to China is not arranged, according to intimations here. Japan's attempt to turn China's financial distress into a profit for Japan is regarded here as dangerously close to violation of the treaty.

Japan under the nine power pact agreed with the other nations that none of them would attempt to profit by unsettled conditions which might develop in China. Although she has surrounded her moves with mystery, Japan is believed to be doing precisely this. She has already taken a "scrap of paper" attitude toward the nine power treaty during her Manchurian conquests.

Japanese demands on China, as nearly as they are known here, are that in return for a substantial Japanese loan China shall grant Japan extensive commercial privileges to the exclusion of other countries and that China shall replace its foreign advisers, especially its military advisers, with Japanese.

CALLED GROUNDLESS

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, March 1.—Eiji Amau, the foreign office spokesman, today stated that Shanghai reports that concrete measures for Japanese economic cooperation with China were being discussed were "entirely groundless."

Inquiries here were referred to Foreign Minister Koki Hirota's answer to a question in the diet Wednesday, when he declared he had asked nothing of Judge Wang Chung-hui, who was on a visit from China, except cessation of anti-Japanese agitation as a fundamental condition of better relations.

All information here confirms the statement that the friendly moves originated in China. The Chinese evidently feel that the difficulties arising over the silver situation may compel them to seek foreign assistance and realize that this is unobtainable while relations with Japan remain unsettled.

The Japanese, whose desire to liquidate the Manchurian struggle is at least as great as that of the Chinese, welcomed the approach, but intimated that abandonment of anti-Japanese boycotts was an indispensible preliminary.

It may be opposite to point out that a naval conference is pending, at which Japan hopes to be able to show that the far eastern outlook is peaceful.

Says U. S. Not Unwanted.

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, March 1.—"If China decides on economic and political cooperation with Japan, there will be no disposition on the part of Japan to bar the United States and Europe from sharing the prosperity certain to follow large scale development," declared Maj. Gen. Kenji Doihara, chief of the Japanese general staf in Manchukuo, on the eve of his departure for Canton after what he described as gratifying consultations with leading Chinese officials.

"Phrases like 'far eastern Monroe Doctrin' and 'pan-Asian bloc' are, after all, only phrases," he said. "We have no idea of attempting to crowd out the rest of the world. In fact, the problem is so great that international coöperation is needed.

"However, being the nearest neighbors and because of our common culture, we expect to play a leading part in the direction of the assistance. It is best for each cultural unit of the world to realize the wisdom of concentrating the efforts in its own area."

CHINESE CABINET MOVES TO CURB ANTI-JAPBOYCOTT

SHANGHAI, March 1.—(AP)—The Chinese government today adopted a resolution, sponsored by Dictator Chiang Kai-shek and Premier Wang Ching-wei, which provides that all government departments be instructed to extend full protection to life and property of individuals and stipulates that no private property be sealed or confiscated execept in accordance with law.

While Japenese are not mentioned in the resolution, Japanese here believe the law was aimed at outlawing anti-Japanese boycott organizations.

Reports that Japan had submitted a rapprochement plan to China were described as "highly imaginative" by a spokesman for the Japanese legation. He said that while the Japanese have been asking the suppression of anti-Japanese activities, "there has never been any official talk of a loan by Japan to China."

ATTACK CHICAGO RECORD OF WIFE IN "PRINCE" SUIT

"Call House" Operator on Stand.

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Mrs. Wilma E. Gould sat in the Supreme court today and heard the recital of alleged episodes in her "past life," while the jurors listened to testimony in her $500,000 conspiracy suit against her brother-in-law, former Congressman Norman Gould and two others.

The tables were turned upon the plaintif by Mrs. Marian Petersen, 57, a defense witness, who admitted she conducted a "disreputable house" in Chicago from 1918 to 1921, and said one of the inmates was Mrs. Gould.

In the present case, Mrs. Gould alleges that her brother-in-law conspired with others and engaged "Prince" Mike Romanoff, nee Harry Gurgeson, to trap her in a bedroom raid, so that her husband, Edward B. Gould, could sue for divorce. Her husband is in a sanitarium.

Came from New Orleans.

The witness said Mrs. Gould came to her Chicago house in the fall of 1918 with an introductory letter from a Harriet Holland, in New Orleans. Mrs. Gould thereafter visited her house "a couple of times a week" to meet men, she said, until her marriage to Gould of Seneca Falls, N. Y., May 23, 1921.

Mrs. Petersen was the first witness for the defense. The usual motions to dismiss the suit had been made by defense counsel and Justice Edgar J. Lauer had reserved decision.

Leon Prince, defense counsel had Mrs. Petersen relate a conversation she said Mrs. Gould had with her upon Mrs. Gould's arrival in Chicago:

"Mrs. Gould came to me and asked, 'do you think you can do something for me? Do you think I look too old?' I said, 'no, but you'll have to fix up your hair and you'll have to dress differently.'"

Mrs. Gould, dressed in black, sat and looked intently at the witness through a lorgnette.

"And did she say she wanted to be a call girl?" Mr. Prince asked.

"Yes, she told me that."

Mrs. Petersen said she took Mrs. Gould's telephone number and thereafter telephoned her to come to the house and meet men.

"Known as Billie."

Prince told Mrs. Gould to stand up. "Is that Mrs. Gould? Prince asked. "Yes, she was known as Billie then."

The witness appeared increasingly nervous as Uterhart persisted in asking her about her former occupation. Finally she said: "I don't want to use the word any oftener than possible. That would make Mrs. Gould one, too, because she was with me. I don't want to be as rough as you."

JAPAN DEMANDS SHANGHAI CITY COUNCIL CONTROL

Insists U. S. and Britain Curtail Powers.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 1.—Officials of the international settlement here today admitted that Japan has demanded a controling voice in the local government, which has been dominated by the British since the city was opened to foreign trade and a foreign settlement established in 1842.

The Japanese demand the election of four Japanese members to the municipal council, with the recommendation that the American councillors be increased from two to three, which would relegate the British to third position in the local governing body.

The council now has five British members, two Americans and two Japanese.

Report Sent to Washington.

The Japanese pointed out the rapid increase in their local population and their financial investments and industrial development.

The British and American authorities are worried by the outlook, and the situation has been fully reported both to London and Washington.

Since the city's public utilities, including light, power, telephone, water, and transportation, are owned by American and British interests, the feeling prevails that Japanese control would result in a situation similar to that in Manchuria, where foreigners are being squeezed out.

Fear Japs May Seize Land.

The Japanese pressure for a controling voice in the settlement was accompanied by an anti-British campaign in local Japanese newspapers. Chinese fear a repetition of the crisis of 1932, when Chinese-Japanese fighting resulted in the destruction of Chapei, with thousands of casualties.

American missionarics stationed on the outskirts of the city reported to the American consulate yesterday that their Chinese converts and school pupils have become frightened and are beginning to move into the settlement.

The Chinese business community, which was granted five representatives on the municipal council several years ago, opposes Japanese domination of the settlement government. The business men fear, however, that Japanese failure to achieve their ambition may result in the Nipponese arbitrarily seizing local Chinese territory and creating a separate Japanese settlement.

2 BRITISH CHURCH MEN REPORTED SLAIN IN CHINA

CHANGTEH, Hunan Province, China, March 1.—(AP)—Two British missionaries, R. A. Bosshardt and A. Hayman, captured by communists in Kweichow province last October, have been executed by their captors, Chinese reports said today.

A Chinese asserted he saw the hacked bodies of the two missionaries lying in the street in the village of Fengchiangkan, ten miles west of Tayung in northwestern Hunan province. He said the alleged double murder occurred Christmas day.

The eye-witness said Bosshardt and Hayman were slain along with other captives after the time limit specified in ransom demands had expired. The plea of the two missionaries for extension of the time was fruitless, he said, and they were cut down together with their Chinese companions.

TURKEY RE-ELECTS KEMAL AS PRESIDENT; 4TH TERM SINCE 1923

ANKARA, Turkey, March 1.—(AP)—Mustapha Kemal, who was first elected president of Turkey in 1923, was re-elected to the same office again today.

This election, his fourth, was done by the fifth national assembly in which, for the first time in the history of Turkey, women were seated.

HITLER INVITES FRANCE TO HELP HIM AVERT WAR

Hails Return of Saar as Peace Move.

propaganda, addressed the Saarlanders as "soldiers of peace who by voting clearly for the Germany of your blood and race ended once and for all doubt about the nationality of the Saar.

"You have rendered a service to Germany and also to the whole continent of Europe," he added.

Trumpets Sound for Hitler.

Then the trumpets sounded and Hitler strode to the platform to deliver his oration of jubilation.

Early this morning, in the Saarbruecken castle, Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy, chairman of the league's committee of three which arranged details of the transfer, formally delivered the Saar to Germany.

"In the name of the league of nations and in my capacity as chief of its three man commission, I have the honor today to complete the actual transfer of the Saar to the reich," Aloisi said. "This closes a page of history and with it disappears an element of unrest in the relations between the nations of Europe. I expressly wish that it will prove good for quiet and peace."

Immediately after the signing of the protocol Frick gave an order over the radio to hoist German flags in the liberated Saar. Church bells pealed and sirens shrieked. At seven places along the Saar border uniformed Nazis marched into the Saar.

Thus was fulfilled the mandate of the plebiscite of Jan. 13, at which Saarlanders overwhelmingly voted to rejoin the reich.

All Germany Celebrates.

BERLIN, March 1.—(AP)—Germany welcomed the Saar back home today in the greatest fanfare since the Nazis seized power two years ago. The reich, from one end to the other, was on the march until well after dusk. Bands played and crowds sang Saar songs.

The biggest celebrations took place in Berlin. The city's entire population appeared to have joined storm troopers and reichswehr (regular army) forces in tramping through the streets.

Linked with 3 Germans in Subversive Ring.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, March 1.—(AP)—Czechoslovakia clapped ten high officials into jail today as the investigation of the arrest of three Germans last night led to the doors of an alleged espionage ring.

Three of those arrested were described as personages of the ministry of war.

Although authorities refused to reveal the names of the officials held, they indicated their belief that an "espionage syndicate" existed. The ten, together with the three Germans, were said to be spying for Austria and Hungary.

The arrest of Fritz Kamm, Nazi German student leader, was the key to the alleged spy ring. A midnight search of the German students' organization, of which Kamm was formerly president, followed, and two other Germans, Adolf Borstendoerfer and Milos Meixner, were seized.

News Is Suppressed.

Although officials refused to discuss the arrests and the Supreme court forbade publication of news concerning them because "it is an espionage trial which still is pending," it was learned Borstendoerfer claimed to be correspondent for the Munich edition of Chancellor Hitler's official newspaper, the Voelkischer Beobachter.

Since his credentials apparently were not in order, however, Borstendoerfer had been refused admission to the Prague Press association. He showed letters from the Munich paper, but failed to complete the press association questionnaire.

Meixner, 32, is son of the former secretary of the minister of defense. He has been known for Nazi activities since 1926.

Nazis Begin Investigation.

BERLIN, March 1.—(AP)—Nazi officials today began investigating the alleged relations with "some foreign power" of one of three Germans held in Prague for espionage. The German police let it be known they were seeking to determine Adolf Borstendoerfer's possible foreign connections.

Borstendoerfer claimed to be the Prague correspondent of the Nazi official organ Voelkischer Beobachter, but this the newspaper's foreign editor denied.

"He used to write articles for us from time to time," it was explained, "and then tried to become our regular correspondent. On account of certain incidents, however, we declined."

The police also revealed they were investigating the relations between Milos Meixner, described as publisher of the ultra-Fascist organ Prague Narodni, and Fritz Kamm, German student.

Earlier Nazi officials, declaring "we know nothing about the arrests or about German espionage in Czechoslovakia," said the arrests could be "only in connection with the students' pro-German attitude in university affairs."

Siam Prepares to Crown Boy King as Monarch Abdicates

BANGKOK, Siam, March 1.—(AP)—Prince Ananda, 11 year old nephew of King Prajadhipok, probably will be named to succeed to the throne with the abdication of the monarch, an authoritative source said tonight.

Ananda is the son of the late Prince Mahidol, who studied medicine at Harvard university under the name of "Mr. Songkala." Ananda lived with his parents in Cambridge, Mass., between 1926 and 1928.

Authoritative quarters said it was believed the government would accept King Prajadhipok's abdication and proclaim the prince a king under a regency.

Army to Be at Helm.

Should this decision be made it was considered probably that the army would play the principal rôle in future administration of this nation of 10,000,000 inhabitants.

Phya Bahol, prime minister and commander in chief of the army, and his chief lieutenant, Luang Bipul Songgram, generally determine the policies of the army. The army has played an important part in Siamese revolutions and was responsible for the maintenance of internal peace in the country since the first coup d'état in June, 1932. At that time the absolute monarchy toppled in a bloodless military revolt. The king was stripped of considerable power. He resented it and left for England.

The constitution does not specify exactly the methods of succession in the event of an abdication. It broadly states that in case the king fails to appoint some one to perform his functions the peoples' assembly may act. The assembly is authorized to name the king's successor or substitute to carry on the affairs of state.

Demands Are Refused.

The diminutive monarch has been officially informed of the parliament's refusal of his conditions outlined in last September's abdication ultimatum.

It was learned the king strongly insisted he would not return to Bangkok's palace unless the government recanted and made a complete about face on two of the most serious issu s in the dispute: the monarch's demand for trial in an ordinary court of persons suspected of opposition to the government, instead of summary judgment in a secret trial, and his objections to provisions specifying that half of the members of the national assembly shall be nominated by the government.

King Frames Abdication.

CRANLEIGH, England, March 1.—(AP)—King Prajadhipok tonight framed his formal abdication of Siam's throne while a phonograph in his study played American dance music.

At Knowle house, his great country mansion, M. R. Smaksman, the king's private secretary, declared that his "father," as the king is known in his native land, is absolutely through.

"The abdication will not properly be official until it is announced from Bangkok," the secretary said. "But I am not denying that the king has abdicated to all intents and purposes."

Not Rolling in Wealth.

It was learned from Smaksman that the king is not rolling in wealth. When he is cut off from the royal coffers he will seek more economical quarters, the secretary said.

"He and the queen probably will spend most of their time in England," he added.

Prajadhipok, who is 40 years old, became king in 1925.

In April, 1931, the king and queen visited the United States where he had a cataract removed from an eye.

BOSS M'LAUGHLIN, 39 REINDICTED IN U. S. MAIL HOLDUP

Outgrowth of $237,000 Robbery in Loop.

John J. [Boss] McLaughlin, gambler and politician, and thirty-nine others were named yesterday in a blanket indictment charging them with conspiracy to dispose of bonds and securities stolen in the $237,000 mail robbery which took place at Clark and Adams street on Dec. 6, 1932. The indictment was returned by the federal grand jury before Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

A second indictment charged twenty-two of the 40 defendants with actual possession of the bonds. All of those named have been indicted previously in groups of three and four in various parts of the United States. The present action, according to Assistant United States Attorney Edward A. Fisher, was taken in order to bring all the defendants together for trial in Chicago.

Most of Bonds Recovered.

The indictments yesterday concluded an investigation which began when five gunmen leaped from their car at Clark and Adams streets, overpowered a mail carrier and his guard, and escaped with the securities. All of the $100,000 in Liberty bonds taken have been recovered by postoffice inspectors, and most of the other stolen bonds also have been regained.

McLaughlin and Louis Wolfe, identified by investigators as a salesman who specialized in stolen bonds, were named as the ringleaders of the plot to sell the securities. Also named in the indictment was Attorney Clarke B. Richie, in whose office, according to the government, the conspirators met.

Murder and suicide marked the two year investigation of the theft and the disposal of the bonds. Edgar Lebensberger, once owner of the 225 club, Chicago night spot at 225 East Superior street; Gus Winkler, north side gang leader, and Ted Vergilio, Chicago labor racketeer and robber, met death as postal inspectors rounded up the gang.

Trail of Suicide and Murder.

Lebensberger shot and killed himself when news leaked out that he was to be named in an indictment in October, 1933. Winkler was riddled by gangland guns in front of Charles Weber's beer distributing company, 1414 Roscoe street, on Oct. 9, 1933.

The conspiracy indictment charged that the 40 conspirators met in groups of three and four throughout the United States to make plans to dispose of the bonds. In Chicago, Attorney Richie's office, the 225 club, and a basement rendezvous at 20 West Lake street were used for planning sales and splitting profits, government agents said.

Besides McLaughlin, Wolfe, and Richie, the defendants named in both indictments include Sam [Baby Doll] Levick, Chicago professional bondsman; Sam Labow, Chicago druggist now serving a term in Leavenworth prison for another stolen bond deal; Rocco F. De Grasso and his brother, Vincent, New York and Chicago gamblers.

List of Other Defendants.

Also named in the two indictments are Louis Fratto, former Capone aid; Bud Gentry, said to be a former Chicago night club owner and friend of Al Capone; Gus Anders, once a follower of the late Thomas Maloy, head of the movie operators' union, and Ralph Berger, Chicago restaurant owner. Others are James Weinberg, Chicago; Louis C. Perrott, Chicago; Charles [Cherry Nose Charlie] Joye, John M. Minnec, Al Miller, Chicago bond salesman; Harry A. Sodini, St. Paul jeweler; Ernest C. Henning, Chicago importer; Joseph L. Vodak, Byron Carey, a man named only as "Joe," and Robert Polhamus, all of Chicago.

The following eighteen defendants are named only in the conspiracy indictment: Dave and Murice Fishman, Julius Riseman, and Attorney Thaddeus S. Stevens, all of Springfield, Ill.; Edgar Bagarozy, New York attorney; Dominick Gentile and Robert Roberto, New York; Doddridge Farrell, St. Louis; F. E. Colvin of Kansas City, Mo.; Clem Ehringer, Leon H. Winters, William H. Schultz, Louis Krilow, Bernard F. Spangler, Thomas H. Baird, William Graves, Joe Levine, and Edna Lovig.

NEWPORT KILLING STARTS DRIVE ON CITY'S GANGLAND

Newport, Ky., March 1.—[Special.]—The typical gangland murder here last night of Johnny Rosen, 40 years old, of Chicago, apparently has spurred police to a determined effort to clean up this and the adjoining city of Covington, which have been called sanctuaries for criminals.

Known hoodlums and "wide open" gambling establishments were to be targets of the first police activity, it was announced.

Rosen was shot to death in a taxicab by a man who, according to Police Lieutenant Charles Johns, had been following the cab in a large sedan. Lieut. Johns, who was only a short distance away, captured the man.

He is Albert [Red] Masterson, formerly of Columbus, O., and two pistols were in his hands when he was seized. Arraigned in police court Masterson protested that he shot in self-defense. However, he was held for trial in the Campbell county court with bond denied.

Conditions in the Covington-Newport area received widespread notice when Canada sought extradition of several men charged with the Labatt kidnaping of last August. Ministers of the cities, as well as a few public officials, openly declared that vice and gambling were unchecked, and that criminals used the cities as "pirate lairs" from which they could sally forth to rob, then return to safety.

"Scene" in Tearoom Told at Kellogg Love Trial said, 'George, make her get out of here.' I told her if anyone got out it should be she, that he was my husband.

"He said, 'Come on, you're making a scene,' and left. When she left she bumped into me and tried to push me over."

Mrs. Kellogg, who obtained a divorce on grounds of desertion May 15, 1933, one week before Kellogg and Mrs. Ritze were married, declared under cross-examination that she had "never consented to the divorce."

How She Met Kellogg.

In 1906, she said under questioning by Attorney Irwin, she married Louis Bristol and lived in Indianapolis, later moving to Sioux City.

Q.—When did you first meet Kellogg? A.—In 1913 in Sioux City.

Q.—What was the occasion? A.—I was singing in the choir in St. Thomas' Episcopal church, and he asked to be introduced to me.

Q.—You were married and living with your husband? A.—Yes.

Q.—And he? A.—Yes. I knew his wife, Grace. We lived a mile apart.

Q.—And you saw him at choir practice and in church on Sunday? A.—Yes.

Bristol obtained an uncontested divorce from her in Sioux City in March, 1917, less than a year after she moved to Chicago, she said.

Attorney Irwin brought out that Kellogg had come to Chicago in August, 1916, from Sioux City, a month after she came, and that he lived "two squares away" from her.

A fellow Legion auxiliary worker, Mrs. Helen Sewell, 6528 Lakewood avenue, testified after Mrs. Kellogg that she was in the Stop and Shop to attend a board meeting of the auxiliary when the "scene" occurred.

Mrs. Ruth Kellogg Testifies.

Later Mrs. Ruth Kellogg, who is 40 years old and lives at 6237 St. Lawrence avenue with her 48 year old husband, was questioned by Attorney Irwin as a witness for herself. She was asked about the luncheon episode.

"She [Mrs. Florence Kellogg] came up in a very unladylike manner as we were seated in the Stop and Shop," said Mrs. Ruth Kellogg. "I said, 'How do you do?' and nothing else."

Q.—Did you shove her? A.—Absolutely not. I felt that it was not the time or place for anything like that.

Attorney Mucklestone, questioning her under cross-examination, said: "You say she was unladylike. You were with her husband, were you not?"

Mrs. Kellogg's blue eyes blazed and she bit her lips before replying quietly: "Yes, sir, I was."

Q.—And you said to her, didn't you, "So this is the beautiful Mrs. Kellogg?" A.—Of course not.

Kellogg on Stand.

When Kellogg's turn came to testify he settled his large, well dressed figure into the witness chair and proclaimed blandly to the jury that "the battle lasted about 10 years."

A handsome man with iron gray hair and flashing brown eyes, Kellogg declared when questioned by Attorney Irwin that he met Mrs. Ritze in 1921. His explanation was brief.

"You never would suspect it," he said, "but I was teaching an adult Bible class in Christ church at 62d street and Woodlawn avenue.

"She was in my class, and I knew her just as I knew other mothers, to say 'Good morning' to. I didn't see her for four years.

"In 1929 I met her at the Art institute at an exhibit for ex-soldiers, and in October, 1931, I saw her again when her brother took me to her home."

Edward Altz and John Davis, two detectives employed by the plaintif, then told of shadowing Mrs. Ritze and Kellogg in April, 1932, and seeing him in her St. Lawrence avenue house on several occasions.

28 ARRESTED IN STRIKE VIOLENCE GO FREE ON BOND

Twenty-eight officials and members of the Chicago Coal Teamsters' union, which is on strike, were released by the police last night on bonds of $25 each after victims of the violence that has marked the strike failed to identify them at a detective bureau showup.

All are charged with disorderly conduct, however, and will be arraigned Monday in Municipal court. The 28, led by Milton Booth Jr., head of the union, were arrested on Wednesday after six working coal drivers had been shot in a campaign of terrorism.

The release of the 28 men will make unnecessary a Criminal court hearing this morning on habeas corpus writs obtained in their behalf.

Only half hearted attempts to continue the strike violence occurred yesterday. Without drawing guns several hoodlums made efforts to dump loads of coal. Drivers either frightened them away or escaped with the loaded trucks.

Dominick Albano, 32 years old, 5315 Greenwood avenue, former Capone gangster, was arrested by state's attorney's police for questioning about the strike violence.

RICH TOBACCO DEALER GOES TO JAIL TO TEST NRA

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Morris Kaplan, 57, who could bail out the whole Tombs prison with his tobacco millions, declined to put up $25 for himself today and grimly remained in jail as a living protest against the NRA.

The 57 year old wholesaler and his firm, the M. Kaplan Tobacco Company, Inc., of Delancey street, are charged with selling cigarets below the minimum price fixed by the tobacco code.

Although Kaplan could furnish any amount of bail, he refused to do so when arraigned before Magistrate George B. De Luca. His lawyer, Judah Braunstein, announced the case would be carried to the United States Supreme court.

Kaplan spent an hour and a half in the detention pen in Trafic court and then was sent in a patrol wagon to the Tombs.

LOFTON, FACING CONTEMPT CASE, SEEKS NEW WRIT

Acts in Lake Co. Court to Free Convict Again.

On Jan. 18 Attorney Joseph B. Lofton got Milton Panateles, a convicted Chicago robber, out of Joliet penitentiary in a habeas corpus hearing before Judge Max Allaben of the Du Page county Circuit court at Wheaton. This incensed Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Cook county Criminal court, who promptly had Panateles rearrested and started contempt of court action against Lofton.

Yesterday Attorney Lofton appeared before Judge Ralph J. Dady of the Lake county Circuit court in Waukegan and filed application for another writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Panateles. A hearing on the matter is set for 1:30 p. m. today.

Tried and Convicted in 1932.

Panateles was tried before Judge Harry M. Fisher in the Criminal court in March, 1932, and was sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary. Later two lawyers interested themselves in his plight and pleaded for a new trial, alleging that additional evidence had been found favorable to the defendant.

Judge Fisher in April, 1932, granted Panateles a new trial. The case was reassigned to Judge Joseph B. David, who held that the allegations of the attorneys properly belonged in an appeal. He voided the order for a new trial and committed Panateles to the penitentiary on the original order.

While in prison, Panateles wrote to the Chicago Bar association, and after some investigation the association assigned Attorney Lofton to represent the prisoner. Early in January of this year the lawyer went to Chief Justice Sullivan and obtained from him permission to have a record of the case made without cost, on the ground that Panateles was a pauper.

Writ Brings Contempt Action.

Judge Sullivan since has stated that he instructed Attorney Lofton to appeal for a new trial. Instead of doing so, the attorney went before Judge Allaben at Wheaton and gained the release of his client.

When the chief justice heard of this he ordered a citation for contempt drawn up against Lofton and also issued a capias under which Panateles was seized and thrown into jail. The prisoner is still in the custody of the sheriff.

In his petition filed before Judge Dady yesterday Lofton asserted that a hearing on a motion to quash the capias was continued, contrary to law, from Feb. 25 to March 6.

Assistant State's Attorney James V. Cunningham said last night that both the contempt matter and the motion to quash were to be argued next Wednesday.

HOLMES REFUSES TO UPHOLD VIEW OF PHYSICIANS

Aged Justice Denies He's Seriously Ill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—Indomitable as ever he had been on the bench of the United States Supreme court, former Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes today filed a dissenting opinion against his physicians in his fight against an attack of pneumonia.

While attending physicians were agreed that the condition of the 94 year old jurist was serious, he carried assurance to his friends that there is no cause for alarm. His dissent came in thumbing his nose impudently at one of the friends who came to visit him.

To prove that his condition was not alarming the jurist insisted that friends be permitted to see him. Among them came Prof. Felix Frankfurter of the Harvard law school. As the professor paused at his bed Justice Holmes raised a weak hand, put his thumb to his nose and extended his fingers.

Friends of Justice Rejoice.

Attendants gasped as the jurist's eyes twinkled and his mouth stretched into a wide grin. Prof. Frankfurter carried the story to his friends, who rejoiced that the former justice is vigorously battling his attack.

Mark Howe, a former secretary, was at the residence of Justice Holmes most of the day and reported him in good spirits and "kidding the nurses." Evidence of the jurist's opinion about his friends' concern over his condition is found in Justice Holmes' laconic remark:

"It's a lot of damn foolery."

Following the incident physicians agreed that the patient was "a shade better." Before the gesture they had said that his condition was unchanged.

There was grave concern for the legal philosopher yesterday in the quaint home at 1720 I street where the jurist has lived for many years and where, in a snug improvised law office, he wrote many of his brilliant dissenting opinions.

Discontinue Use of Oxygen.

At that time Dr. Thomas J. Clayton ordered several tanks of oxygen and the administration of several other emergency measures to combat the congestion in the patient's lungs. After three tanks of the gas were administered the condition of Justice Holmes improved so that the treatment was discontinued.

The physicians were not optimistic, however. They said the advanced years of the patient were against him. After the visits of this afternoon they said there was a slight hope that the patient's remarkable constitution and fighting spirit were tending to offset the disadvantage of age.

The type of pneumonia from which Justice Holmes is suffering was described as having no crisis. He was stricken early this week.

VOTE ON STRIKE ISSUE IS CALLED IN AUTO UNIONS

Detroit, Mich., March 1.—[Special.]—The National Council of United Automobile Workers, in session here, today voted to call for a strike vote by the 176 unions of the American Federation of Labor in the automobile industry.

It will take from three to four weeks to complete the vote, because the unions are scattered throughout 17 states, according to a statement by F. J. Dillon, chairman of the council and national organizer. Only paid up members will be allowed to vote and the strike call will require a three-fourths vote of those present in each local. Dillon said that the poll will be by secret ballot.

Balloting First Step.

According to Dillon the strike vote will not necessarily mean that a strike will be called even if voted, as the national office of the A. F. of L. alone has the authority to authorize a walkout. Under the rules of the A. F. of L., however, the members themselves first would have to approve the strike move before any call could be issued.

The action is regarded as providing a weapon for William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who was requested by the national council last Saturday to enter into negotiations with the Automobile Manufacturers' association. He was to seek a conference with the manufacturers on wages, hours, and conditions of employment in the industry, disregarding the automobile labor board established by President Roosevelt for collective bargaining.

Bargaining Chief Issue.

Dillon's instructions to the unions make it clear that bargaining through Green is the paramount issue. His statement says that "until such collective bargaining is achieved all other issues should be subordinated to it because only through collective bargaining can we hope to gain our just and reasonable demands."

Elections held by the automobile labor board in 22 automobile plants so far show that the A. F. L. candidates have received 4 per cent of the total vote cast out of 86,666 employés participating. Employé associations [company unions] received 11 per cent, and the unaffiliated employés totaled 75 per cent. The A. F. L. trailed the independent union, the Associated Automobile Workers of America, which was given 5 per cent of the designed votes.

86 Per Cent Voted.

The A. F. L. officials asserted their members were instructed not to vote or not to designate their affiliations. The board reported, however, that approximately 86 per cent of the eligible employés took part in the elections.

The instructions state that the local union "under no circumstances shall place a strike in effect until ordered by the president of the American Federation of Labor through the national council, inasmuch as any unauthorized action will defeat the success of our plans."

Dillon said no results of the votes would be announced until at least a majority of the elections had been held and instructed unions not to disclose the results of their vote, except to general headquarters.

Vote in Fisher Body Plant.

Lansing, Mich., March 1.—[Special.]—Results of the election in the Fisher Body company unit of General Motors corporation, made public today, revealed less than 20 per cent of Fisher employés have outside union connections.

Of the 2,607 ballots cast only 510 revealed union affiliations. The tabulation showed: Unaffiliated, 1,684; Fisher Body Employés' association (company union), 297; American Federation of Labor, 383; Associated Automobile Workers of America, 126; Automobile Workers' union, 1. About 80 per cent of the eligible employés voted.

District 3 of the plant chose as one of two nominees for collective bargaining representative the Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin, Royal Oak radio priest.

YOUNG ROBBERS GIVEN LENIENCY ON GUILTY PLEA

Four young men who pleaded guilty to bank robbery before Judge Cornelius J. Harrington in the Criminal court yesterday each received a sentence of one year to life imprisonment and by their pleas saved themselves from sentences of five years to life, which they were certain to have received had they left their fate to the jury.

Those sentenced are Ralph Tardi, 20 years old; Fred Lombardo, 30 years old; John Anselmo, 19 years old, and Frank Mayleo, 22 years old. All confessed having robbed the Aetna State bank, 2375 Lincoln avenue, last Oct. 30.

Assistant State's Attorneys Charles S. Dougherty and Frank Christensen began piling up conclusive evidence against the quartet yesterday after Judge Harrington had ruled Thursday night that the confessions obtained by police might be read to the jury. The four were subject to the five year minimum sentence because a machine gun had been used in the bank holdup. However, by agreement this point was waived when they pleaded guilty.

The robbers' machine gun was found by police in the home of Charles Anselmo, brother of John, at 736 North Trumbull avenue. The defendants said they had paid $200 for it in Gary.

Drake Contract for Free Rent Argued on Appeal

Arguments in the appeal of John B. and Tracy C. Drake and their wives from the abrogation of their contract for free rent in the Drake hotel were heard by Judges Samuel Alschuler, Will M. Sparks, and Louis FitzHenry in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday. The case was taken under advisement. Charles K. Williamson ousted the Drakes when he became receiver for the hotel in April, 1933. Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson upheld Williamson's action and ordered the Drakes to vacate, which they did on July 19, 1933. Then they appealed.

CONFUSION OF TRAFIC AT DEATH CORNER

Here at 63d street and Cottage Grove avenue, Chicago's No. 6 death corner, the photographer has pictured the confusion of cross trafic of pedestrians, automobiles and street cars that resulted in thirty-two injuries in twelve months.

OVERHEAD, NONE HURT; ON STREET 32 ARE VICTIMS

Death Corner No. 6 Cited as Trafic Lesson.

BY HAL FOUST.

An elevated railway, the Jackson park branch of the Chicago Rapid Transit Lines, passes over Chicago's No. 6 death corner, 63d street and Cottage Grove avenue. On the street level, thirty-two persons were injured in trafic in twelve months. Overhead, no one was hurt.

"The situation at this one intersection," said George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club, "should answer any question as to whether elevated rapid transit lanes for automobiles would save lives."

Sorry Plight of Pedestrians.

On the street level, men, women and children were dodging street cars, automobiles and trucks in crossing the pavements. The conventional red and green lights directed cross movements of vehicles but the directions were sometimes uncertain as drivers entered the intersection at the beginning of the green while crosstrafic was leaving the intersection at the close of the red. Other disputes over the right of way occurred when an occasional car made a left turn.

In these conflicts, no accident resulted as long as all drivers were careful, considerate and polite. Otherwice—well, read the police reports of thirty-two personal injuries in twelve months.

The pedestrians on the lower level, as at all busy Chicago intersections, were in a particularly sorry plight. A man or woman afoot can not argue the right of way with a vehicle without disastrous results. Even when walking across the street with a green light there is a chance of being hit by a turning car.

Contrast with Elevated Road.

Overhead, there was an entirely different picture. The outstanding factor of safety was the absence of pedestrians from the traveled rights of way. The same would be true of the elevated automobile routes planned for Chicago. Seventy per cent of the city's fatal trafic accident victims are pedestrians.

Also overhead, trains were traveling with virtual assurance of freedom from collision with each other. As long as the cars stay on their tracks, headon and crosstrafic crashes are physically impossible.

In the designs proposed for Chicago's automobile elevated highways, crosstrafic and headon collisions likewise would be physically impossible. Cross movements would be handled on separate grades, as on rural grade separations. Turning vehicles likewise would be segregated. Even opposing trafic would be physically separated by medial curbs.

How Some Accidents Occurred.

A review of the accidents on the lower level shows them all to be of a nature that could not happen on an elevated highway. There were two headon collisions in attempting left turns. A boy and a woman were struck by cars making a right turn on the green light, the maneuver favored by Chicago officials to the exclusion of the right turn on the red as practiced in New York, Detroit and Los Angeles.

Six other pedestrians were hit while crossing with the red light by automobiles traveling with the green. Three were injured while jay walking, going across the street several yards from the designated paths. One person was hurt standing on a safety zone and another while running to catch a street car. Two motorists were injured as they ran through the intersection in cross directions both on the amber light.

"There can't be any argument but that the elevated highways would sharply reduce such accidents in Chicago," said the motor club engineer. "The only possible difference of conclusions from the study at this intersection is whether an elevated highway would be as noisy and ugly as the elevated railway.

"My contention is that an elevated highway could be ornamental."

SAVES 560 ANIMALS IN ZOO FIRE; ROLLS DRUM OF GAS AWAY

San Francisco, Cal., March 1.—(AP)—George Wentworth rolled a 50 gallon drum of gasoline from a blazing toolshed at Fleishhacker zoo and was credited with saving the lives of 560 animals valued at $500,000.

Wentworth, a café owner, was nursing a pair of scorched hands today. Authorities said if the gasoline had exploded the entire zoo would have been sprayed with flames.

In the confusion an emu was shot and a zebra escaped but was recaptured by police.

LITTLE MAN OF 4 HAS ADVENTURE IN HIGH FINANCE

The attempt of Rodney Jansen, 4 years old, of Aurora, to end the depression in his home town was disclosed yesterday. Rodney hurried about his neighborhood handing out dollar bills, an activity with which his father was not acquainted until he received a telephone call.

"Did you know," inquired the informant, "that your son is giving dollar bills to all the kids in the neighborhood?"

"He is what?" demanded the father, Bert Jansen, an oil company employé.

"Giving away dollar bills," the caller insisted. "He came to my house and gave one to my son. He said it was just to spend as he had a mess of them.'"

Asked by his parents if he had found some money, Rodney answered:

"Yes, in the dining room buffet."

Rodney was dissuaded from the activity and the money was returned by neighbors.

TWO KILL SELVES IN LEAPS UNDER N. SHORE TRAINS

A man and a woman leaped to their deaths beneath the wheels of trains on the North Shore electric line yesterday.

The first victim was Mrs. Helen Schmaltz, 38 years old, 949 Sherman avenue, Evanston, whose husband, Edward, is an employé of the Evanston parks department. She jumped in front of a southbound train at School street in Niles Center. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide while temporarily insane.

The second victim was identified through cards found in his pockets as Charles Berndt, 36 years old, 2739 Best avenue. He plunged from the elevated platform at Fullerton avenue under a southbound train. Paul J. Muzik, motorman of the train, said the man waited until the train was nearly even with him before jumping. Trafic on the northwestern division of the elevated lines was delayed for several minutes.

ALIBI WITNESS TRAPPED IN LIE GETS 6 MONTHS

Joe Lascola, owner of a candy store at 227 West 31st street, yesterday was sentenced to six months in the county jail for contempt of court by Judge Michael Feinberg of the Criminal court.

Lascola admitted having given perjured testimony as a trial witness in an effort to establish an alibi for Nick Rogulich, who on Thursday was convicted of robbery and sentenced to prison.

Lascola and Martin Gusich, 3224 South Wells street, were trapped in their false testimony by the judge, who, refusing to believe their alibi testimony, halted the trial and sent detective bureau squads out to investigate. The witnesses had stated that Rogulich was working at Lascola's candy store at the time of the robbery with which he was charged. Detectives learned the defendant had never been employed at the candy store.

In sentencing Lascola for contempt Judge Feinberg said an indictment for perjury also was possible. Gusich, who confessed he was induced by Lascola to testify falsely, was ordered taken to the behavior clinic for a mentality test, after which the court will decide what his penalty shall be.

Attorney Max Lurie, defense counsel, was advised to "be careful" in the future with alibi witnesses.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT DELAYS TRIAL OF VLCEK AS QUACK

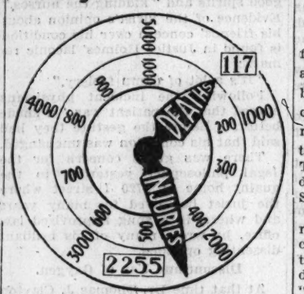
Frank Vlcek, 38 years old, alleged quack who is on trial charged with practicing medicine without a state license, attempted suicide in his home at 2111 South Central Park avenue yesterday, it was disclosed in the court of Municipal Judge Eugene Holland shortly before noon. As Vlcek's trial was about to be resumed Assistant State's Attorney William Kearney informed the judge that the defendant had opened a gas jet in his bathroom at 3 o'clock in the morning. Vlcek's wife found her husband unconscious and summoned physicians and an inhalator squad which revived him. Judge Holland continued the case until March 8.

SEEK MISSING DOG 'NURSE' OF STRICKEN BOY

Police were asked yesterday to seek Boots, a Boston terrier that has been a "nursemaid" for Carl L. [Buddy] Wilquin Jr., 15 years old, 4711 Kenmore avenue, since he was stricken with infantile paralysis five years ago. Boots disappeared Wednesday night and has not returned. His disappearance was reported by Dr. Alice Johnson, Wilquin family physician, who said that the dog had been trained to call members of Buddy's family when the boy required attention. Buddy became the dog's master seven years ago.

AVOIDABLE

Chicago's 1935 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile accidents are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

AUTO CRASHES INTO TRAIN AND BURNS; 4 HURT

Two men were seriously injured yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding with two young women crashed into a moving Soo line freight train in Half Day road two miles west of Half Day in Lake county.

The automobile, dragged a short distance, overturned in a ditch and then caught fire. One of the girls, Agnes Jost, 19 years old, 1826 North Rockwell street, Chicago, who suffered only slight cuts and bruises, dragged the others from the car.

Ralph Hoffman, 25 years old, 1410 Sunnyside avenue, the driver, incurred fractures of both legs. The collarbone of the second man, Ray Carlson, 24 years old, 2846 Lyndale avenue, was fractured. Marjory Rockett, 17 years old, 2046 North Albany avenue, the fourth member of the party, was cut and bruised.

Mrs. Hazel Glass Taylor, a bride of two hours, was injured yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband, Robert Taylor, 800 Tower court, overturned near Gary. The couple were returning to Chicago after their marriage in Crown Point.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday the 1935 motor toll within the Chicago limits was 117 and the number of injured 2,255. With one fatality yesterday, the Cook county motor death toll since Jan. 1 stood at 144. The victim:

Olaf Rammes, 45 years old, 3028 North Tripp avenue. Killed by a hit and run driver in front of 3111 North Cicero avenue. Cragin police began a search for the car, which, witnesses said, contained two men.

George Folds of Lake Forest narrowly escaped death when his automobile stalled on the Wabash railroad tracks at Lakeville, Ind., in the path of a freight train. He leaped out just before the engine struck the car and was unhurt. The automobile was demolished.

2 IN ALDERMANIC RACES SEEK TO FORCE RUN-OFF

Ald. James C. Moreland [41st] and former Ald. John J. Hoellen [47th] announced yesterday that they will begin separate actions in the county court today to require runoff aldermanic elections in their wards. On the basis of the unofficial returns in Tuesday's voting, William J. Cowhey defeated Moreland and Ald. Albert F. Schulz defeated Hoellen.

The state law requires that a winning aldermanic candidate receive a clear majority of the votes cast, and the two actions will seek to have defined the terms "majority" and "votes cast." Both plaintifs will allege that their opponents did not get a majority of the votes placed in the ballot boxes and that the law requires that spoiled ballots be included in computing a majority.

MASSAGE PARLOR MORALITY GIVES JUDGE A PUZZLE

11 Arraigned, 4 Released in City Court.

Ten women and one man, seized recently in police raids on disorderly houses masked as massage parlors in the loop and near north side, marched into the Women's court in the Police building at 11th and State streets yesterday and then marched out again. Municipal Judge Edward S. Scheffler was on the bench.

During the brief appearance of the defendants, most of whom were highly rouged and a bit bored with the proceedings, detectives on Police Commissioner Allman's vice squad told a graphic story of the conduct of "the girls" in massage parlors "for men only." They spoke of "nude blondes parading."

Helen and Her Girls Called.

A typical case was that of Helen Williams, 40 years old. She was arraigned on two charges, one of operating a disorderly house at 935 North State street, and the other of violating the city ordinances on decent management of a massage parlor at 7 West Division street.

She shuffled before the bench, keeping well behind her attorney, Maurice J. Slater. She was followed by two young women, Shirley Lewis, 23 years old, and Lee Ray, 24 years old. The police charged they were inmates of the Williams woman's places.

On Feb. 21, Sergt. James O'Sullivan told Judge Scheffler, he went to the massage parlor on Division street. He was met at the door by Helen Williams, who greeted him by asking: "Do you want Shirley or Dorothy?"

Shirley Wears Bath Towel.

He chose Shirley, he continued, and was ushered into a tiny room containing a table upon which a double mattress, covered with a sheet, had been placed. Pointing to Shirley Lewis, the sergeant went on: "This girl came in in a few minutes wearing a bath towel. She told me to take off my clothes."

"All your clothes?" asked Judge Scheffler.

"Yeah. Then she gave me a little rubdown with talcum powder. I asked her if I couldn't see her some night. She laughed and said: 'Why wait? There's no time like the present.' I paid two dollars."

Sergt. O'Sullivan stopped.

"This is an open and shut case of entrapment," announced Attorney Slater immediately. "There can be no violation between a person and the governing body. This man was a police officer. He invested his $2 and he'll get it back from the city. This is the sort of thing that has been condemned in every court in the land."

"I have to follow the law as it's handed down to me by the Appellate and Supreme courts," said the judge. "I don't know that a case has been made out here."

Finds "Parlor" Has Moved.

"Well, here's another case," said the policeman. "I got warants for their arrest and when I went back I found they'd moved to North State street."

Going there on Feb. 28, he said, he again was met by the Williams woman who took him to the kitchen, saying: "I've only got one girl here and she's busy just now."

At that moment, O'Sullivan recounted, a man stepped out of the front bedroom. Then "a nude blonde, this girl [here he tapped Miss Ray on the shoulder] paraded through the door," O'Sullivan said. He arrested the girl and the man, William Wieand, 2127 Potwyne place, who also was present in court.

"There's nothing wrong in anything he's told so far," remarked Lawer Slater.

"It certainly isn't orderly when a woman runs around a place of business, a massage parlor, with no clothes on," insisted the policeman, blushing a bit.

"Well," said Judge Scheffler, "there's the question of morals and then the distinction between morals and crime. I don't just know about this case. I'll continue it until March 8 and look up recent law on similar cases."

Similar charges against Pearl Thomas, 32 North State street, and Elizabeth Lee and Jessie Arnold, both of 1229 North Clark street, were continued to the same day. Bertha Miller, Hilda Swanson, Isabel Johnson, and Ida Gabor, arrested at 32 North State street on Thursday, were freed when they were able to prove that no law violations occurred in their massage parlor.

Deny Two a Separate Trial in Pipe Line Fraud Case

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday denied a motion asking a separate trial for two defendants who are scheduled to go to trial on April 2 with Frank P. Parish and Samuel Maddin on charges of using the mails to defraud in connection with the collapse of the $35,000,000 Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company. The two refused a severance are Attorney Ralph G. Crandall of Chicago and James McMaumon of Tulsa, Okla., both former officials of the company. Judge Barnes ruled that all the defendants should be tried at one time.

LAKE FOREST'S TREES GET TAGS IN CENSUS PLAN

Case Card on 'Health' of Each Is Kept.

Twelve thousand trees on public property in Lake Forest are achieving personalities in a "census" now in progress to safeguard their well-being. This was revealed yesterday by Mayor Francis E. Manierre, author of the plan.

For two months City Forester Alex Pirie, his assistant, Donald F. Rogers, and their men have been placing identification tags on the trees in streets and public parks, noting the health of each tree as the tagging is done. More than 7,000 trees have already been thus identified.

Card Filed for Each Tree.

Each tree is given a card in a file in the Lake Forest forestry department, bearing a notation as to its health or illness. By a series of periodical inspections it is planned eventually to have a case history of every publicly owned tree on file. It is even hoped that the owners of some 100,000 other trees in yards and on private estates will coöperate to make the tree census complete for the suburb.

Already the novel work has paid dividends, in the discovery of a rare disease that attacks elms, known technically as cytosporum wilt. The exact cause of the disease is unknown, but it is believed that last summer's drouth may have been contributory. Discovery of the blight at this stage will enable Lake Forest to take action to halt its spread, Forester Pirie said.

Some May Be Destroyed.

About 5 per cent of the 7,000 trees examined are ailing, and the destruction of 1 per cent may be necessary for the good of the rest, Pirie said. However, no tree will be removed without the sanction of the city council and the Lake Forest Garden club.

The experiment station of the United States department of agriculture in Wooster, O., is aiding in the work of discovering disease. Branches from suspected trees are sent there for diagnosis.

About 50 per cent of Lake Forest's trees are elms, and 20 per cent maples. A large proportion of the remaining 30 per cent are oaks.

Grandma Plays Dillinger to Feed Hungry Baby

San Diego, Cal., March 1.—(AP)—Officers said a 60 year old grandmother, holding a toy pistol in one hand and a hungry baby in the other, robbed a grocery here and made off with a can of milk and six oranges. Police traced Mrs. Louise Knapp to her home. R. L. Perkins, the store manager, declined to prosecute and permitted the woman to keep the groceries.

MOVE IN HOUSE TO KEEP INCOME RETURNS SECRET

Committee Seeks Repeal of "Pink Slip" Rule.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—The house today declared war on the senate over publicity on income tax returns. A house ways and means subcommittee voted unanimously to recommend to the full committee repeal of the "pink slip" section of the revenue act which would make tax returns public.

The action of the subcommittee followed a senate rebuff and challenge to a house invitation to the senate to act first. The subcommittee was named to call upon the senate to ask that body to remove the provision it had inserted to make public property the summarized tax affairs of individuals.

La Follette Plan Worse.

The senate answered the delegation by stating that if the house repealed the pink slip provision the senate would substitute the La Follette program which was defeated last year. The La Follette plan would publicize not only all income tax returns as the pink slips provide, but also make public the source of income, specific items deducted, depreciations and the like.

The present provision for the "pink slip," recording gross income, deductions, net income and tax paid, was a conference compromise on the original amendment of the revenue act of Senator La Follette.

Rush Repeal Bill Action.

Following the senate challenge the subcommittee went into conference at the insistence of representatives outraged by the senate rebuff. They voted to introduce a special repeal bill in the ways and means committee Monday.

"We hope it will be voted out of the committee by Wednesday," said Representative Thomas Cullen [Dem., N. Y.], chairman of the subcommittee. "We hope to take it up in the house Thursday and pass it at once."

Sentinels Fight "Pink Slip."

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Launching a nation-wide campaign against Senator Robert M. La Follette's income tax publicity plan, the Sentinels of the Republic today placed in circulation petitions and individual appeals to congress to repeal the "pink slip" law.

In the petition the law requiring all persons filing federal income tax returns to answer the questions contained in the "pink slip" attached to the forms was denounced as un-American and humiliating.

"The practice of no free nation requires such exposure of the private affairs of citizens to satisfy the morbid curiosity of the envious and of gossips," the petition said.

Will Apply Pressure

Stoked with a combination of fuel oil, kerosene, and wood, the brick house at A Century of Progress erected by the Brick Manufacturers association from plans by Andrew Rebori went through a fire yesterday watched by several hundred insurance men, firemen, real estate men, builders, and engineers.

The fire reached 1,600 degrees Fahrenheit instead of the 1,850 planned. The building will be allowed to cool and on Monday morning pressure of 125 pounds per square foot will be applied to the parts exposed to the flames to determine the building's strength to withstand fire.

WINS $19,800 AT MONTE CARLO AND SETS A TRADITION

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, March 1.—(AP)—Edward Robson, an Englishman, had established something of a tradition today for amazing good fortune in last minute whirls at the roulette wheel.

As train time approached today the Englishman, having lost all his funds, borrowed a small sum from a friend. He placed it on No. 17. The number came up three times running. With only ten minutes to catch his train, Robson dashed off richer by 300,000 francs [approximately $19,800].

SNOW IS MELTED AS TEMPERATURE HITS 50; 1935 TOP

Rising temperature yesterday melted the snow which fell earlier in the week and turned Chicago streets into miniature rivers of slush. The maximum of 50 degrees, registered at 3 and 4 p. m., was the highest thus far in 1935. The normal maximum for the day is about 37 degrees.

Forecaster W. P. Day said that today would be fair, with moderate temperatures. He added that mild weather prevailed generally over the country. Unsettled and slightly colder weather is expected in the city tomorrow.

SHOOTING SUSPECT SEIZED.

John Thompson, alias John Thomas, 25 years old, colored, was arrested yesterday in an apartment at 731 East 43d street and held for police of Lansing, Mich. Thompson is alleged to have shot Joseph Dedefoe, 22 years old, attendant in a Lansing filling station, in a robbery on Feb. 15.

SMASH PLOT TO SWINDLE BANKS WITH FORGERIES

Chicago Money Houses Targets of Gang.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 1.—[Special.]—The arrest of five men, two in New York and three in this city, in connection with an ambitious scheme for looting banks through the use of forged checks, was revealed here tonight. Not only banks in the east but some in Chicago would have been targets for the swindlers.

Federal agents said that if a "tip" had not been given the department of justice by a Philadelphia banking official the plan might have resulted in defrauding banking institutions out of between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 within a short time. The practice depended upon speed for its successful execution and it had scarcely been put in operation before the investigation halted it.

Two Philadelphia Banks Caught.

The South Philadelphia National bank and the Industrial Trust company have suffered losses of slightly under $5,000, and the Chase National bank of New York, according to federal agents, was the third institution marked for operation of the scheme. It, however, has suffered no loss, as far as could be ascertained.

The men arrested are: J. B. Haynes, Abraham Hart, and Max Block, all of this city; Benjamin Atlas and Abraham Spiser, both of New York.

The Philadelphians will be arraigned tomorrow before Commissioner William Wacker. Atlas and Spiser are being held in New York, but will be brought to Philadelphia within a few days for arraignment.

Although the investigation is not complete, the agents believe the scheme would have involved banks in many cities throughout the east and in parts of the middle west. Several additional arrests are expected in the course of a week or ten days.

How Scheme Is Worked.

Agents would not discuss one phase of the matter—namely: The suggestion that to be successful the plan must have depended upon a certain amount of "inside" assistance, either in the collecting bank or in the commercial firm whose checks were to be forged.

The practice was explained as follows:

One of the gang deposited $1,400 in cash in a bank. A check issued by a commercial firm, ordinarily one having a large volume of checks constantly in circulation, was forged and deposited in another bank where the firm had no account. The check was returned to the bank upon which it was drawn and, since it appeared to be in the familiar and authentic form of all the others, was honored. Immediately upon the check's being cleared the deposit was withdrawn by the forging gang.

It was pointed out that if the proceduce could be used on many firms simultaneously in a large number of cities the "profits" to the conspirators would be substantial.

SENATOR CLARK INJURED IN FALL; DELAY ARMS QUIZ

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—Injuries to Senator Bennett C. Clark [Dem., Mo.] received in a fall down stairs in his home here caused postponement of the senate munitions inquiry today. He was to have directed an inquiry into the activities of William B. Shearer, "big navy" lobbyist.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] said that hearings would probably be resumed on Wednesday.

Senator Clark's injuries were described as minor.

AGREE TO DOLE, BALK RADICALS, PRESIDENT TOLD

Senate Teachers Urge a Retreat Strategy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—Administration leaders in the senate are urging President Roosevelt to agree to a straight dole bill, which would leave the radical prevailing wage bloc in the position of defeating their own hopes of a vast public works program.

The deadlock on the McCarran prevailing wage amendment continued, with both sides tendering rephrased propositions that made no concessions and secured no results. Under this apparently hopeless situation some of the President's most loyal supporters stated privately that they were urging an abandonment of the public works proposition.

Would Mean Surrender.

This would constitute a surrender on the part of the administration, but it would nevertheless be a severe blow to the twenty-one Democrats and the Radical Republicans who voted for the McCarran amendment. All of them are clamoring for a huge public works program. Senator La Follette [Rad., Wis.] has an amendment pending which would increase the appropriation to 10 billion dollars.

One Democratic leader who has consistently supported the New Deal expressed the opinion that President Roosevelt would receive hundreds of thousands of telegrams congratulating his stand if he would ascribe the defeat of the works program to the McCarran followers and substitute the least expensive form of relief.

The President, however, was represented as refusing either to compromise on the prevailing wage or to approve a straight work relief program at this time.

Rejects McCarran Qualification.

Senator McCarran [Dem., Nev.] tendered a qualification of his amendment, which was promptly rejected by Majority Leader Joe Robinson of Arkansas. It merely provided that the President could limit monthly earnings to any desired figure by prescribing the aggregate hours of work. The prevailing hourly rate of pay would still be required.

"The proposal makes no substantial change in the so-called McCarran amendment," Robinson said.

The administration leaders were said to have submitted their own proposition in revised form to McCarran, who rejected it. This was a rephrasing of the amendment submitted by Senator Richard B. Russell [Dem., Ga.], whereby the President would be authorized to institute the prevailing wage if federal projects interfered with the private scale.

Glass Awaits Word.

Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], chairman of the appropriations committee which has the 4 billion 880 million dollar works bill lying on its table, said no meetings would be called until the administration leaders made the request.

"I would be willing to vote out a bill for 1 billion 880 million dollars for direct relief and, in my opinion, there would be no trouble whatsoever in passing it," Senator Glass said. "This would give us time for more deliberate and detailed consideration of this work relief proposition and perhaps to get some more information about it."

Majority Leader Robinson said he could give no indication as to what the outcome of the conferences in progress would be, or how long the conferences would be continued. He still refused to discuss his conference of yesterday with the President. At his press conference today Mr. Roosevelt dismissed inquiries about the relief bill situation by saying he had been too busy to consider it.

While the fight over the McCarran amendment was raging in the conference rooms of the senate office building, Senator Harry Flood Byrd [Dem., Va.] cited the experience of his native state as an example of how future generations are saddled with the burden of a public works program long after the works disappear.

Tells of Virginia Plan.

"This plan to revive prosperity by expending borrowed public funds to construct public works is not new and has never been successful in any country," he said. "Nearly one hundred years ago Virginia tried the same plan. From 1829 to 1861 Virginia issued bonds for $33,000,000 for the construction of canals, railroads, turnpikes, and toll bridges. The projects were supposed to be self-liquidating.

"Today Virginia has left only the stock in the Richmond, Fredericksburg, and Potomac railway, valued at $1,368,744. Nearly $13,000,000 of the bonds are still outstanding. More than 100 million dollars in interest has been paid on these bonds."

Aurora Submits Budget Under Work Relief Plan

The city council of Aurora yesterday listed 24 projects at an estimated total cost of $1,979,000 which will be submitted under the President's proposed work relief program if congress passes that measure. The applications will be filed with C. M. Osborn, state engineer for the public works administration. The projects include an airport, a water softener system, dredging of the Fox river, and building of a dam in the Aurora area to keep the stream from running dry.

BOOST COST OF RELIEF IN STATE BY TEN MILLION

Payments for Rent Increased.

be necessary to adopt such alternatives if funds for the Federal Relief administration are not furnished in sufficient quantity.

After the luncheon the federal administrator visited the Illinois commission headquarters, where a little later the $10,000,000 additional relief burden was approved.

Specifically, the new IERC rent plan will mean that rent will be paid for 25 per cent of the entire group getting any form of relief, either in Cook county or downstate. At present 4.4 per cent of the downstate relief population and 19 per cent of the Cook county group have their rent paid.

Costs of Rent Payments.

The lion's share of these rent payments will be made for work relief clients—50 per cent of this classification to have their shelter paid for. At present 50 per cent of the work relief people in Cook county have their rent paid, but only 10 per cent downstate.

It was estimated that this greater liberality for rents will raise costs downstate $586,000 a month and in Cook county $174,000 a month. This feature, it was held, might serve to pacify downstate legislators who have been severe critics of the Illinois relief administration. So, perhaps, will a home rule provision in the policy that will allow county relief committees to draw up rent schedules for their own territories. The maximum will be $25 a month per family.

Mr. Hunter, making one of his rare appearances before the state commission, declared that the present rent tangle is intolerable and fair neither to the relief clients nor to landlords, with evictions and nonpayment for use of property frequent. The commission, he said, could be justly criticized for its handling of this problem.

Shelters Called "Indefensible."

Speaking of the relief shelters, which now house about 20,000 men, Mr. Hunter asserted such congregating of the idle is "indefensible."

"Boys of 16 and 17 are being thrown in with tramps and bums much older," he continued. "There must be segregation. Our researches show that if the young unemployables are put on work relief there is some chance of rehabilitating them."

Under the new shelter house proposals these men "unable to located themselves satisfactorily in any community or in employment" would be kept in the shelters. These, it is figured, are about 10,000. All youths under 21 are to be handled through the county bureau of public welfare, an IERC division, and will be handled as families now are. Unemployable adults not ordered to the shelters also will receive budgets from the county welfare bureau. Institutional care is to be given those who are ill.

Great Increase in Costs.

The shelter house system was adopted because of its comparative low cost, now about $7 a month per man, and until recently only $5 a month. Support of the men without families who are taken from the shelters will run from $11.65 to $27.90 a month, depending on whether they are given work relief.

Although it was not mentioned at the meeting, there have been reports that the shelter houses are hotbeds of communism. Also, there have been theft scandals involving the staffs of a few of these houses.

STIFFEN LIQUOR LICENSE LAW; HIT WHOLESALERS

The Illinois liquor commission will immediately move to revoke licenses of all distillers, brewers, manufacturers, and distributors who have violated the law by selling products to retailers who have not purchased state licenses. This was announced yesterday by Joseph De La Cour, secretary of the commission.

The Illinois liquor control law provides that no distributor or manufacturer may sell any product to a retailer without a state license. In effect, De La Cour pointed out, the law makes all wholesalers enforcement agents of the state. Also resulting in license revocation will be the sale by any manufacturer or wholesaler, other than a brewer, of his product to a consumer. Brewers may deal directly with a consumer if the product is purchased for personal use.

SHOT BY WOMAN IN QUARREL.

James Arnold, 41 years old, colored, was shot in the left leg yesterday by an unidentified colored woman during a quarrel in Arnold's apartment at 2943 Federal street.

ROOSEVELT TO SPEAK SOON ON RULINGS OF COURTS ON NEW DEAL

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt announced today that he may soon comment on recent district court decisions hostile to his New Deal legislation.

What form his comment will take, whether it will be a chastisement for the courts or a suggestion of new legislation to circumvent decisions, the President did not say. He remarked only that next week he may comment on the decision of Federal Judge John P. Nields in Wilmington, Del., holding that the federal government cannot regulate manufacturing under the guise of interstate commerce.

Today, however, the President refused to comment on a sentence from the Supreme court's gold decision, saying that he had quit the practice of law in 1928. The sentence quoted to him, by a reporter was the one in which the Supreme court held that the obligation to pay Liberty bonds in gold remained binding on the conscience of the government.

BUSINESS FLAILS 'SOCIALIST' BILLS IN LEGISLATURE

Calls Proposed Wage and Hour Laws a Peril.

In a report to its membership yesterday the Illinois Manufacturers' association assailed a number of bills pending before the general assembly in Springfield. These measures, if enacted, the report said, would cause serious injury to industry and business.

One hundred eighty bills affecting the association membership have been introduced, and the members have been asked to let the legislators know what added burdens the proposals involve. Comment is made particularly in the report on bills sponsored by labor organizations relating to working hours, wages, and compensation for death and injury.

Short Week Is Criticized.

The five day week bill, according to the report, would paralyze many of the businesses affected. The report said that the measure would not increase employment, as it is intended to do, but would cut the pay of those employés who have five and one-half days' work in any week. Remarks on other bills were:

House bill 233—workmen's compensation rates: "It would cause a material increase in the cost of workmen's compensation coverage. It would render it practically impossible for the employer to secure insurance, particularly in those instances where a dust hazard was involved in the business."

Senate bill 104 and H. B. 166—state workmen's compensation insurance fund: "Sets up a state workmen's compensation insurance business to take the place of all insurance companies. This bill is a step into state capitalism or socialism."

H. B. 225—Women's eight hour day bill: "This legislation, which we understand has the indorsement of the state administration, would seriously handicap Illinois manufacturers in competing with other states. Would eventually throw many women out of employment."

Fight "Prevailing Rate" Wage.

H. B. 69—Prevailing rate of wage: "Would result in the payment of exorbitant wages out of the public treasury for all public work, including relief work. Would make 'prize' money of public funds."

S. B. 98 and H. B. 138—Anti-injunction bill: "Would deprive the courts of the power to enjoin labor unionists where necessary to prevent destruction of persons and property. If this bill should be adopted Illinois would be a much less safe place in which to operate a business than now."

S. B. 99 and H. B. 139—Limitation of liability of union officials: "This bill is another effort of labor unionists to be made immune from the law. It is a menace to public safety."

On old age pension and unemployment insurance bills the report said that it would be futile to attempt such schemes in Illinois until the form and disposition of the federal economic security act has been determined.

SEIZE 2 IN SALE OF FAKE REMEDY TO A BLIND MAN

Two men accused of defrauding a blind man and his mother of $3 with fake medical treatments were arrested yesterday by Capt. John Cartan of the Pekin Inn police district. They are Rupert McCarthy, 26 years old, an ex-convict, and Randall Baron, 27 years old, 2903 South Michigan avenue.

The victims were Robert Wynne, 40 years old, and Mrs. Lillian Wynne, operator of a rooming house at 2222 South Wabash avenue, where Al Capone's notorious Four Deuces café once was housed. McCarthy, who recently moved into the house, learned that Wynne was blind and told him that he had a doctor friend who probably could cure him.

He then introduced Baron, a dapper young man, who went through the motions of examining the patient and prescribed three kinds of medicine, which he delivered for $3. When Wynne failed to improve his mother notified police. The medicines were concocted of Lake Michigan water and about 5 cents worth of aspirin. Charges of obtaining money by false pretenses were placed against McCarthy and Baron.

ROBBED OF $450 IN TAVERN.

Alex Topor, 21 years old, was robbed of $450 yesterday by three men in a tavern at 1621 West 43d street, of which his father is owner. The victim said he believed the trio had followed him from a bank where he drew the money.

BILLS TO EXTEND SCOPE OF SALES TAX CONDEMNED

Can't Stand Burden Is Plea.

Opposition to proposals to extend the state sales tax was expressed yesterday by members of professions and occupations that would be brought within the scope of the tax by bills pending in the legislature. Conceding the need for relief funds, the objectors questioned the necessity for raising as much as $36,000,000, the amount demanded by the federal government, and declared their business in no position to stand the added burden.

Physicians, dentists, engineers, barbers and beauty culturists were among those who would be brought under the act by the provisions of bills introduced in the house and senate this week. In the same program are bills increasing the sales tax rate from 2 to 3 per cent, the gasoline tax from 3 to 4 cents a gallon, and placing the public utilities under the sales tax.

"Saturation Point" Reached.

"In behalf of 15,000 registered beauty culturists," said Marc Gartman, president of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association, "I protest against any bill that would add to the burden already on the backs of our citizens.

"While we realize the dire need of funds for those unfortunate unemployed, we are equally cognizant of the terrific burdens already placed upon the people of Illinois because of taxes. We believe that the many taxes now being levied in the state have reached the saturation point."

Speaking for himself, and not as president of the Barbers' union, which includes many who own their shops, W. S. Leidig echoed Mr. Gartman's statement. In Mr. Leidig's opinion, the barbers wouldn't like to pay the 2 per cent tax, or 3 per cent if it is raised, or pass it on to their customers. He said there are taxes enough now.

Sees Blow to Recovery.

A hindrance to recovery was seen by M. E. McIver, secretary of the American Society of Engineers, in the proposal to include all branches of engineering under the sales tax.

"The proposed occupational tax on engineering services," said Mr. McIver, "would tend to increase costs which would greatly retard recovery in the construction and heavy industries, two fields which should be stimulated instead of being burdened with extra costs.

"Engineering is more or less interstate in its activities, and such a tax would work a hardship on the engineers of Illinois who, since 1930, have been the 'forgotten' men."

Dr. Charles H. Phifer, president of the Chicago Medical society, remarked that many physicians now make a contribution of their services to relief, and that the bill is unfair. Dr. Stanley D. Tylman, president of the Chicago Dental society, said that he doesn't believe the dentists would favor the tax.

"Barking Up Wrong Tree."

Elmer C. Jensen, president of the Illinois Society of Architects, said the state is "barking up the wrong tree" if it believes it could get any revenue by taxing members of that profession. "We wouldn't object if we had any business," he said.

The Chicago Motor club, according to its officials, would make its protest against the increase of the gasoline tax unless there should be a companion reduction in the state automobile license fees.

Members of the Illinois Bus association attending the annual meeting of the organization in the Congress hotel yesterday went on record as being opposed to the one cent federal gasoline tax and the proposal to increase the state tax on gasoline.

TOOL DESIGNER WINS COMPANY AWARD 3D TIME

Schenectady, N. Y., March 1.—(AP)—August Kayser, a tool designer at the General Electric plant at Fort Wayne, Ind., today was awarded the Charles A. Coffin Foundation, the highest honor the company can bestow upon an employé, for the third time.

Kayser, who has been with the company for 44 years, receives a cash award and a certificate for "his unusual ingenuity in designing, building, and making improvements in special automatic machines." His two previous citations were in 1925 and 1929.

The company also announced 41 other men and two women have been cited for awards under the foundation.

STATE NRA BILL PASSED, 28-22, IN INDIANA SENATE

Indianapolis, Ind., March 1.—[Special.]—The Indiana senate late this afternoon passed a much revised state NRA bill. Even with many of the original features of the bill removed it was approved only by the narrow margin of 28 to 22.

The battle brought out the entire senate membership of fifty.

The bill was slipped through the Indiana house of representatives three weeks ago without even the formality of a public hearing. When protests became state-wide against price fixing, compulsory adherence, prohibition of loss leaders, and jail sentences for offenders, Gov. Paul V. McNutt and his state administration leaders slowed up the bill.

When President Roosevelt replied "no" to a press inquiry as to whether he favored state NRA legislation at this time Gov. McNutt appealed twice to the White House before he finally received the President's "explanation" that he would expect "state coöperation" after the fate of the federal NRA is determined by congress.

Kill NRA Bill in S. Dakota as Harmful to the Farmer

Pierre, S. D., March 1.—(AP)—The state NRA bill was killed by the South Dakota senate this afternoon, 29 to 15.

Defeat of the measure, submitted by the national administration to authorize the state "codes of fair competition" in South Dakota, was preceded by argument that the NRA had been detrimental to agriculture.

Democratic farmer members lined up with Republicans to turn down the measure, which was supported only by "administration" Democrats.

MRS. DAVIDSON DEATH MYSTERY CLEWS SOUGHT

Theories of Murder and Suicide Studied.

Pinehurst, N. C., March 1.—[Special.]—The death of Mrs. H. Bradley Davidson Jr., socially prominent and wealthy young bride, which had been considered accidental, assumed a mysterious aspect today with the intimation that it might have been suicide or murder.

An inquest into the death was postponed until 10 a. m. Tuesday to give authorities more time to investigate the case in which perplexities have steadily increased since Mrs. Davidson's body was found Tuesday in her closed garage at Edgewood, her winter home.

A preliminary autopsy indicated carbon monoxide poisoning caused death, but it was also reported that a number of bruises, less than 48 hours old, were found on the young woman's hips and thighs.

Heiress of Hotel Man.

District Solicitor Roland Pruett of Wadesboro arrived here this afternoon and began a vigorous investigation into the death of the Radcliffe college graduate who was the adopted daughter and heiress of the late E. M. Statler of hotel fame.

"I am not satisfied with the facts," said Solicitor Pruett. "To be perfectly frank I am puzzled. I do not know whether it was a case of suicide, accident, or murder. I have heard enough since I have been here to make me feel that a full investigation is necessary because of facts surrounding the case and to meet the ends of justice.

"It is a peculiar situation for a woman to go for an early morning ride with only mules, a skirt, and a sweater on. Other facts include the one that the butler got up at 7:30, looked in front of the home for the car and discovered it was in the garage.

Body Still Warm.

"He made no investigation immediately, but later went to the garage to wash the car and found the body. The body was still warm at the time it was found, which was 9:05."

Neither the solicitor nor Dr. C. C. Carpenter of the Wake Forest medical school, who is seeking clews in an examination of the rigor mortis, commented on the bruises said to have been on the body.

Among those Pruett said he had subpenaed to appear at the inquest were the dead woman's husband, H. Bradley Davidson, Washington social leader; Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Campaign of New York City, house guests of the Davidsons, and household servants.

Told of Golf Date.

Authorities were told that the 22 year old victim had arisen early Tuesday morning to keep a golf engagement and had apparently been overcome while warming up the motor of her car. The previous night she had accompanied her husband and the Campaigns to a charity ball and later to a night club, arriving home in the early morning hours.

BAR SENDS ALIEN REGISTER BILLS TO LEGISLATURE

Bills sponsored by the Illinois Bar association, which would require the registration of all aliens in Illinois, were sent to the state legislature for consideration yesterday. Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Americanization committee of the association, sent copies of the bills to Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan, presiding officer of the state senate, and Speaker of the House John P. Devine. It is expected the measures will be introduced next week.

Under the provisions of the bills, every alien in Illinois would be required to register every 90 days. Aliens applying for first papers would not have to register any more until the five year period had elapsed without an application for second papers.

Failure to register would be punishable as a misdemeanor. In addition, the offender would be subject to deportation action. The association estimates that more than five million aliens are in this country illegally.

Gen. Clinnin said the National Bar association is investigating the possibility of national legislation requiring the finger printing, photographing and registering of all persons, citizens as well as aliens.

NYE BLAMES U. S. FOR WORLD RACE INTO WAR PERIL

Munitions Profits Assailed Here.

The United States was pictured as the leader and instigator of an international armament race in an address by United States Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota last night. The senator, chairman of the senate committee investigating munitions and author of the Nye arms embargo act, spoke before the Junior Institute for World Coöperation at the Oak Park High school. The conference, organized by civic groups of Oak Park four years ago, was attended by several hundred adults and by representatives of the seventh and eighth grades in the elementary schools and all the high school classes of the Oak Park schools.

The senator assailed American munitions manufacturers as "national racketeers" and held them responsible for a situation which he said may easily lead the world into a new war.

President Roosevelt and the leading officers of the army and navy likewise were charged by Senator Nye with responsibility through "their support and connivance" for creating a world condition fraught with peril of warfare. The pending appropriations for national defense calling for the expenditure of nearly a billion dollars were termed by Senator Nye as the largest in the world.

"The interests that raise the cry of 'Look out for Japan'," he said, "are the same persons that are making the Japanese say, 'Look out for Uncle Sam.'

"The channels of American diplomacy, commerce and national defense are available to American munitions and naval armament manufacturers in peddling their wares to foreign nations," Senator Nye asserted, "and their use has resulted in an international naval race."

DR. BUTLER DECLARES LABOR TRIES TO RULE U. S. PROSPERITY DRIVE

LONDON, March 1. — (AP) — Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler told American newspaper men today that labor is attempting to dominate American efforts to come out of the depression.

"President Roosevelt," he said, "performed a very marked service for all of us when he took the grip of selfish and politically organized big business from our necks.

"But now politically big labor is trying to take its place the same way. I feel that President Roosevelt will not yield to any such domination and in that stand he will have the solid backing of the intelligent voters of the country."

REVOLT FLARES IN GREECE; GUNS ROAR IN ATHENS

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

ATHENS, March 2 (Saturday).—A revolt, said to have been led by army and navy officers loyal to former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, vigorous opponent of the present government, broke out in three places in Athens at 6:30 o'clock last night. Martial law was declared at 9:20 p. m.

Troops loyal to War Minister Kondylis subdued the revolt in the officers' school without bloodshed. An infantry lieutenant was killed and ten soldiers were wounded when loyalist guns blasted a battalion of revolutionaries from their position on the southern shoulder of the Acropolis. The surrender of the Acropolis garrison at 1 o'clock this morning gave the government control of the capital.

At 3 a. m. the naval arsenal on the Island of Salamis rebelled, with five destroyers and one cruiser in the hands of the revolutionaries. These rebels are besieged by governmental artillery on all sides.

The civilian population is orderly and the provinces are not affected.

START HEARINGS ON BONUS; VOTE DUE NEXT WEEK

Three Plans for Payment Before House.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—The house ways and means committee today decided to begin hearings Monday on three 2 billion 100 million dollar bonus plans pending before congress. Under the plan a vote on bonus legislation may come in the house late next week.

Committee Chairman Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.] said he did not expect more than two days would be required for hearings on the administration opposed measure. Therefore, he added, it is likely that the house will vote upon one of the plans late in the week.

Administration leaders concede that the house will pass one of the plans overwhelmingly, despite the expressed opposition of the President, as a canvass has shown virtually every representative vors bonus payment. Little hope is held out for blocking the legislation in the house.

Expect to Override Veto.

Bonus advocates are confident they will override a presidential veto. The President has indicated he will carry his opposition so far as to veto any plan adopted by congress.

The first of the bonus plans is that sponsored by the American Legion, which was introduced by Representative Fred Vinson [Dem., Ky.]. It calls for immediate payment of the veterans' adjusted compensation certificates.

The Vinson bill leaves it up to congress to provide the revenue. Sponsors of the bill favor payment through a bond issue and are strongly opposed to inflation.

In that respect the bill differs from the second bill introduced by Representative Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.]. Patman and his supporters would have the printing presses grind out a flood of greenbacks to pay the veterans.

Fish Compromise Plan.

The third bill, a compromise drafted by Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. [Rep., N. Y.], would pay the bonus in five annual instalments. Possibility of adoption of this plan is considered vague, as it comes from the minority side of the house.

The ways and means committee decision to begin hearings was forced by Patman, who was seeking to force a vote on his inflation payment bill by a discharge petition. The petition has 140 names on it today and needed but 99 more to achieve its purpose.

The house passed the 58 million dollar interior department appropriation bill without a record vote. There was little opposition to the bill, the only important change was made in striking out a $10,000 appropriation for a proposed undersecretary of the interior to Secretary Ickes.

JUDGE TO ANNUL TVA'S PACT ON POWER LINE SALE

Towns in 3 States to Be Affected.

Birmingham, Ala., March 1.—[Special.]—A contract between the Tennessee Valley authority and the Alabama Power company providing for transfer of the utility's transmission lines in northern Alabama will be annuled in its entirety, United States District Judge W. I. Grubb said today.

Judge Grubb also said that power interchange agreements under which the TVA supplies current to towns in Mississippi, Alabama, and Tennessee will fall under the decree he is preparing to sign.

A week ago the judge gave an oral decision in which he held that the TVA was without authority to sell surplus power generated at the huge wartime hydro-electric plant at Wilson dam and at other dams now under construction.

Confer on Final Decree.

A conference was held today to work out the final decree. Present at the meeting, in addition to the judge, were attorneys for the TVA and Forney Johnston, who represents the group of Alabama Power company, preferred shareholders who asked an injunction against the government agency.

Judge Grubb announced at the conference that he would annul the TVA's contract with the power company as well as the agreement for the interchange of power. The government agency has been serving a number of southern towns with current through an interchange agreement with the Alabama Power company.

Four Months Proposed.

Attorneys suggested that a period of four months be allowed for the TVA to work out a plan of withdrawal from competition with the Alabama Power company, and also to permit the towns and areas served by the agency to make contracts for obtaining electric energy elsewhere.

Judge Grubb held today that the TVA is entitled to the site for the Wheeler dam, nearly half completed 15 miles above Wilson dam. He also ruled that it was legally built. However, the purchase price of the dam site is involved in the contract that the judge held void.

Attorney Johnson suggested that the price for the site be worked out in negotiations or that the government condemn the property, if other means of obtaining it failed.

GRAND JURY SETS LOW RECORD IN CASES HANDLED

The February grand jury made its final report to Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Criminal court yesterday, showing that it had considered 270 cases during the month of its existence. The grand jurors returned 194 true bills, 67 no bills, and passed 9 cases to the March grand jury.

Assistant State's Attorney Edwin Spiro said this is a record, the number of cases considered usually running well over 400 a month. The Felony court's disposal of many minor cases, a reduction in crime, and the progress of the Criminal court in the quick dispatch of cases are reflected in the report, Spiro said.

WOMEN'S GROUPS OPEN SESSION ON LOCAL PROBLEMS

Hear Judge's Appeal for Revised Criminal Law.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Old Illinois was theoretically made over again in its vital governmental functions at the opening yesterday of the conference on local problems which was held at the Chicago Woman's club. The conference was under the joint sponsorship of the Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs and the City club. Criminal law, state constitution, administration of justice, and form of city government were torn apart and rebuilt in the course of the all day discussions.

Judge Harry Fisher of the Circuit court told of the hopes of the judiciary advisory council, of which he is a member, for the passage of legislation in line with the new criminal code which has been proposed.

Involves Change in Viewpoint.

"At the heart of our change," he said, "lies a philosophy which differs from that in the present code. We are putting the emphasis on the offender, not on the offense.

"This is not due to sentimentality. We are interested in the social defense. We are not building that by simply punishing crime. If the penal laws are of any value it lies in the administrative view of keeping segregated those likely to become dangerous and letting those not likely to become dangerous remain free, instead of keeping them incarcerated and breaking them down mentally and spiritually. We propose to write into the law that the character of the individual enters into the treatment applied. The recidivist, of course, is on a different basis. We propose to abolish the distinction between felonies and misdemeanors.

Seek to Curb Technicalities.

"We propose extension of the parole laws downward to minor offenders. We propose to extend the benefits of parole to all cases except ten of the first grade, such as treason, murder, rape by violence, armed robbery, etc. We definitly abolish all technical inhibitions that surround the present system."

Dr. Harry Hoffman, head of the behavior clinic of the Criminal court, said that the first thing to determine about the mental defective charged with crime is whether or not he is guilty of the crime. He proposed that the judge have the power of disposition of the case. This might come into conflict with the constitution, he said. He wanted the psychological and social study of individuals carried into the House of Correction.

Police Problem Discussed.

E. W. Puttkammer, professor of law at the University of Chicago, spoke on law enforcement, emphasizing the necessity of keeping the police free from politics. The city manager plan was discussed by Clarence E. Ridley, executive secretary of the International City Managers association and by Jerome G. Kerwin, associate professor of political science at the University of Chicago.

Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the state Supreme court, urged that a constitutional convention be called as soon as possible. He gave as three reasons the refusal of the legislature to obey the constitution in the matter of proportional representation, the necessity of a more flexible taxing system and the reformation of the judicial system.

The conference will continue today.

CARY T. GRAYSON TAKES OFFICE AS RED CROSS HEAD

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—Pledging a "vigorous" administration, Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson (retired) assumed office today as chairman of the American Red Cross, a post to which he was appointed two weeks ago by President Roosevelt.

Admiral Grayson announced the intention of "carrying on" along the lines laid down by the late John Barton Payne, to whom he paid a tribute of personal affection and great admiration.

"Mr. Payne, my distinguished predecessor, has left a sound program and fine organization, so there are no policies to be announced at this time other than that we shall go ahead with the work vigorously and effectively," he said.

Following his first meeting with the press Admiral Grayson faced a barrage of news reel cameras, before which he delivered a brief statement of the hopes and purposes of the Red Cross and an appeal for the support of the American people in helping to relieve suffering.

"MY LIFE," AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY

That Churchill was aware of the dangers of war in Europe three years before the actual outbreak is evident in his autobiography. When he is offered the admiralty he accepts the proposition with alacrity, and thus begins four of the most memorable years of his active life.

BY WINSTON CHURCHILL.

The year 1910 with its political excitement and stormy scenes was rendered brilliant by the coronation of the king. The splendid national celebrations in which all classes and all parties joined might fittingly remind English men and women how much greater is the inheritance they always hold in common than the differences which sometimes divide them so hotly. It was my duty as home secretary to stand at the side of the new sovereign in many of the most important ceremonies and to advise his majesty upon the replies which he should make to the loyal addresses presented by delegations from all parts of the empire and from all the great institutions of our island life.

When, according to custom, the royal progresses were made throughout London and the addresses were presented at all the historic crosses and halting places, I attended in accordance with precedent to hand the king the speeches which he delivered. This meant that I had to drive rapidly from place to place through the crowded streets so as to be in my place when the procession arrived.

His Reception Varies.

The better to discharge this task I borrowed from a friend a perfectly appointed Victoria with a beautiful pair of bay horses and with my wife drove to and fro. Needless to say the reception which I got varied considerably. As we drove down Pall Mall past the Carlton club and other great buildings thronged with spectators in stands, I was most heartily booed by the gentlefolk, or shall I say the well-to-do. Whereas when we entered the poorer districts I received a most vociferous welcome. One could not help feeling how sharply England was divided and what a good thing it is that politicians can come and go with the parties they serve and the changing moods and needs of the times, while the strength and traditions of the nation and the glory of its ancient monarchy rise ever stronger from the frothy turmoil of wordy strife and faction.

Few people realised how nearly the great war was antedated to the summer of 1911. The crisis of Agidir passed away without making any impression upon the public mind, yet France and Germany and the whole of Europe were separated from Armageddon only by the thinnest of screens.

This stern episode produced changes in the British government. It had been found that the war office and the admiralty were entirely at variance about what should be done in case of war. It was thought that the fleet had been too widely dispersed at the critical moment, and that the admiralty required to be modernized by the creation of something like a general staf.

Offer of the Admiralty.

When all was over early in October, the prime minister invited me to stay with him in Scotland. The day after I arrived there, on our way home from the golf links, he asked me quite abruptly whether I would like to go to the admiralty. This time I had no doubt what to answer. All my mind was full of the dangers of war. I accepted with alacrity. I said "Indeed I would." The fading light of evening disclosed in the far distance the silhouettes of two battleships steaming slowly out of the Firth of Forth. They seemed invested with a new significance to me.

That night when I went to bed I saw a large Bible lying on a table in my bedroom. My mind was dominated by the news I had received of the complete change in my station and of the task entrusted to me. I thought of the peril of Britain, peace loving, unthinking, little prepared. I thought of mighty Germany, towering up in the splendor of her imperial state. I thought of German education and thoroughness, and all that their triumphs in science and philosophy implied. I thought of the sudden and successful wars by which her power had been set up. I opened the Book at random, and in the 9th chapter of Deuteronomy I read:

"Hear, O Israel, Thou art to pass over Jordan this day, to go into possess nations greater and mightier than thyself, cities great and fenced up to heaven.

2. A people great and tall, the children of the Anakims, whom thou knowest, and of whom thou hast heard say, Who can stand before the children of Anak!

3. Understand therefore this day, that the Lord thy God is he which goeth over before thee; as a consuming fire he shall destroy them, and he shall bring them down before thy face: so shalt thou drive them out, and destroy them quickly, as the Lord hath said unto thee."

It seemed a message full of reassurance.

Mr. McKenna, the then first lord, and I changed guard with strict punctilio. In the morning he came over to the home office and I introduced him to the officials there. In the afternoon I went over to the admiralty; he presented his board and principal officers and departmental heads to me, and then took his leave. I know he felt greatly his change of office, but no one would have divined it from his manner. I thereupon in the words of the order-in-council became "responsible to crown and parliament for all the business of the admiralty." I was to endeavor to discharge this responsibility for the four most memorable years of my life.

BATISTA HINTS HE MIGHT STEP IN AS HEAD OF CUBA

Says He Would Quit the Army First.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

HAVANA, March 1.—Col. Fulgencio Batista, "strong man" behind the Mendieta government, disclosed tonight for the first time that, under extreme conditions, he might consider taking the helm of the government in his own hands.

The revelation made by 34 year old former top sergeant, now commander in chief of Cuba's armed forces, represented a complete change in his former attitude toward taking over control of the island.

Batista stressed that such a thought was not in his mind at the present time, and said he was heart and soul in favor of keeping the government in its present path.

Would Act as Civilian.

He also said he would never consider such a step while he held the office of commander in chief.

Any act along that line would be taken as a civilian, Batista explained, reiterating his declarations against a military dictatorship.

If an extreme emergency arose, he indicated, he could easily resign his military post and be eligible for any civilian office, including the presidency.

"What I have said does not, in any way, mean that I would shirk from the responsibilities should our nationality became endangered," he concluded. "It is not my policy to back up. I never have backed up and I wouldn't back up if the extreme emergency confronted me."

Educator Refuses Offer.

Dr. José A. Presno, former rector of Havana university, flatly refused an offer of three anti-government sectors to "draft" him for the presidency.

Unexpected unification of President Mendieta's opposition with the bringing of the hitherto mutually hostile ABC, Autentico and Menocalista factions into one "common front" against him apparently failed to shake Col. Mendieta, as had the demands of striking teachers and students that he resign.

WALES TO SET UP JUBILEE FUND FOR YOUTH OF BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 1.—The prince of Wales tonight disclosed his plan to establish a "King George jubilee trust" for the youth of Great Britain as a national thanks offering to celebrate the 25th year of his father's reign. The prince addressed a gathering of 500 civic dignitaries from England, Scotland, Wales, and northern Ireland.

The prince said it is not intended to inaugurate a new juvenile organization, but to extend existing approved voluntary movements, such as the Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, and Y. M. C. A., which foster the welfare of boys and girls between 14 and 18 years of age. Collections will be taken up from the public.

"I can think of no cause that makes so universal an appeal as the cause of youth," the prince said. "The jubilee year should not be allowed to pass without leaving some permanent memorial among us. I have ascertained nothing else that would give the king and queen such pleasure as the devotion of a national thanks offering to the welfare of the younger generation."

OHIO BACHELOR WHO REARED 47 ORPHANS ENDS LIFE WITH GUN

Shandon, O., March 1.—(AP)—John Everett Reese, 78 year old bachelor farmer who raised 47 orphaned children, was found shot dead in an abandoned school house today. Coroner Edward Cook said he had killed himself because of despondency over ill health.

In rearing the 47 children, Reese operated on the principle of "spare the bank account and spoil the child."

Those he took under his care received bank deposits commensurate with their work for chores, good marks in school, and the like. Those who misbehaved found debits charged against them.

But in the end, Reese once said, it all came out evenly enough, with each child have $150 or so to his or her account when time came to go out into the world.

Telephone Company Pays $814,000 Franchise Tax

City Treasurer James A. Kearns yesterday received a check for $814,162 from the Illinois Bell Telephone company covering payments due the city under the company's franchise. Of the total $405,630 was for the last quarter of 1934 and the other $408,532 represented past due payments.

Senator Caraway Rests After Blood Transfusion

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—Senator Hattie W. Caraway was reported resting comfortably tonight at the Emergency hospital here, to which she was taken yesterday suffering from a digestive disorder. She received a blood transfusion and may be in the hospital some time.

FARM NEW YEAR SEES ACTIVITY IN CORN BELT AREA

Des Moines, Ia., March 1.—(AP)—Spring kindled a restless spirit in thousands of corn belt tenant farmers today and set them on the move to new homes and new soil.

Farm wagons, buggies, family flivvers, laden with household goods and farm equipment, dotted scores of snow-covered rural highways as March 1 heralded a new year for the "itinerant" farmer.

Today marked the beginning of a new fiscal year for the farmer. It was his deadline for making plans for the 1935 crop and getting his family "settled" before the rush of heavy spring work.

The migration, distinctly noticeable in Iowa, Nebraska and Illinois, consisted not only of tenant farmers moving from one location to another, but was shared in by landowners returning from retirement in town homes to the farm, reports showed.

A survey announced today by Dr. Ray E. Wakeley, Iowa State college rural sociologist, revealed a distinct city-to-farm movement, sharply in contrast with the farm-to-city movement from 1920 to 1930. There is, he said, a heavy demand for farms and an insufficient supply.

SPRINGFIELD EX-MAYOR FAILS TO RECOGNIZE MEMBERS OF FAMILY

Springfield, Ill., March 1.—(AP)—Former Mayor John S. Schnepp of Springfield, returned here after submitting to mental examinations earlier in Jacksonville, Ill., tonight faced his wife and family whom he had not seen since his disappearance in 1932.

The former city official, charged with having embezzled more than $700,000 through real estate and other deals, at first displayed no emotion as he faced his kinfolk greeting them as casual visitors.

Informed his guests were members of his family, Schnepp broke down and wept. He told authorities he was unable to recognize them, adding:

Mourner at Rio Funeral Pays $4 in Trafic Fines

John Malaro, 29 years old, 6954 Laflin street, self-styled cousin of the late Frank Rio, Capone associate, yesterday paid $4 in fines which had been assessed by Judge Gutknecht in the Trafic court. Malaro was arrested Wednesday while returning from Rio's funeral and was charged with having no state license and no vehicle tax sticker.

URGE TREASURER TO DISTRIBUTE TAX COLLECTIONS

Two heads of local governments expressed surprise yesterday at learning that the county treasurer's office is withholding $36,944,872 in collected taxes and penalties. They declared that the failure to distribute the money immediately may endanger economy programs. The large tax fund lying dormant was disclosed Thursday by Horace G. Lindheimer, assistant treasurer, when he made public a report he had withheld for a week.

The tax money should be distributed as quickly as possible, said James B. McCahey, president of the board of education. "That would mean a considerable saving in interest charges on warants and bonds, which could be retired, and would furnish additional money for current needs."

James M. Whalen, acting president of the sanitary district, declared that the money "certainly could be used now to best advantage.

County Treasurer Robert M. Sweitzer is recuperating from illness in Florida. Mr. Lindheimer departed on a vacation trip to Hot Springs, Ark., after giving out the report.

3,000,000 DYING OF STARVATION IN CHINESE PROVINCE

American Missionary Tells Horrors.

WUHU, Anhwei, China, March 1.—(AP)—Three million inhabitants of Southern Anhwei province, scattered over an area of 6,000 square miles, were reported today to be starving to death in the worst famine this section of China has experienced in recent memory.

Missionary advices received here said the death list already is appalling and growing day by day.

A succession of tragic events has afflicted this same district, starting with severe political upheavals last December and climaxing with the murders of the Chicago missionaries, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Stam, following the pillage of Tsingteh.

The famine is the result of the almost unprecedented drouths which extended over virtually all China last summer.

Eyewitness Tells Horrors.

A harrowing description of the conditions prevailing in the southern section of the province was contained in a letter written by George Birch, China inland mission worker of New Westminster, British Columbia, to Dr. Robert Brown of Chicago, superintendent of the American Wuhu General hospital.

It was this same hospital which received little Helen Priscilla Stam, the baby rescued from an abandoned house in Tsingteh after the abduction of her parents.

Writing from Suancheng, in the famine area, Birch said:

"A terrible famine engulfs us, constraining me to write you for aid. Two-thirds of this area is without food and the remainder is approaching the same condition. Deaths are heavy."

Children Are Sold.

"It is distressing to walk the streets these days," he wrote, "with misery and death everywhere. I hear of such things as five of a family of seven starved to death. A man climbed a hill to cut fuel and fell dead. Women with babies, exhausted and despairing, lay down to die."

Birch said children were being sold for one Mexican dollar each at one year of age.

"Save the children is the big need, which is possible for a few dollars each if only the funds were forthcoming," his letter concluded.

Dr. Brown said his hospital would contribute to the relief administration if funds could be raised.

MEDIEVAL AREAS OF LONDON DEFY CITY'S AUTHORITY

Refuse Council's Scheme for Town Planning.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 1.—"We've been governing ourselves and doing our own town planning for the last 600 years, so let us alone."

Thus declared the benchers of the inner and middle temples—London's law schools—in announcing their refusal to accept the county council scheme for town planning.

The inner and middle temples, which lie between newspaperland on Fleet street and the Thames, are the smallest self-governing units in England. They are so small it was generally thought they were under the authority of the city of London, in which they lie, so the declaration of independence came as a surprise to Londoners.

Levy Own Taxes.

The inner temple has an area of two-one hundredths of a square mile, with an assessment valuation of $119,525, and the middle temple area is one-one hundredth of a square mile in area, with an assessment valuation of $89,445.

They are directed by the lawyers who reside there, have their own sanitary and health officers, levy their own taxes, repair their own roads—a few hundred feet long—and pay only a small contribution to the city of London plus the cost of police patrol.

Even the lord mayor of London, who could keep the king out of the city if he wanted to, has no rights once he is inside the temples.

Americans Live There.

Americans occasionally live there. Sinclair Lewis has resided there because he preferred the calm of the temple to the noise of the hotel.

As a result of the declaration of independence, town planning gets a new jolt. Lawyers, who took over the temple in the 14th century, after the Knights Templar were dissolved by the king, are jealous of their wealth and intend to enforce the ancient laws whether modernity likes them or not.

DAIRYMEN ASK SUSPENSION OF AAA MILK PACT

The Pure Milk association yesterday asked the Agricultural Adjustment administration in Washington to suspend the milk license in the Chicago area, which was inaugurated a year ago largely at the insistence of the association. In Washington it was reported unofficially that the request for suspension will soon be granted.

Yesterday's action by the board of directors of the association had been recommended Monday by its advisory council. After the telegram asking suspension had been sent, Don Geyer, manager of the association, issued a statement in which he declared that the milk licensing plan, adopted to increase the price of milk paid farmers, actually tended to lower the prices.

Start Fixing Own Prices.

Instead of the federal license, the price determinant for milk produced by the 18,000 dairy farmer members of the association will again be individual contracts. Already the producers and distributors have begun determination of their own prices, since the January milk price of $2.20 a hundred pounds [4.7 cents a quart] was not announced by the AAA until after the dealers and farmers had arrived at that figure.

The complaint of association members, Geyer said, has been that under the federal license much milk reaching the Chicago pool found its way into manufacturing channels. The admission of this surplus milk, he claimed, lowered the prcentage of a farmer's base on which the bottle milk price of $2.20 a hundred pounds applied.

Farmer Gets "Ruinous Price."

Thus, while the farmer received $2.20 a hundred for all milk sold in bottles last month, this represented only 53 per cent of the total milk he delivered during the month, and he actually got an average price of $1.69 a hundred pounds for his output for the month, Geyer said. He termed this "a ruinous price."

Under the contract price plan, Geyer predicted, much of the surplus milk will be kept from the Chicago pool, which will increase the net return to association members. Suspension of the milk license will also save the 1 cent a hundredweight the farmers have been paying into the milk license administrator's office, which amounts to about $10,000 a month, Geyer pointed out.

If the suspension is approved in Washington, Geyer said, the federal license price of $2.20 a hundred pounds will apply for milk produced in February. Expecting such suspension, he said, farmers and distributors have agreed that the same price will prevail this month. Thus, it is considered likely that the present retail price of 11 cents a quart for milk in Chicago will remain unchanged until April 1.

WEITZMANS FILE ANSWER TO SUITS OF MRS. DAICHES

Irving Weitzman, owner of a south side chain of bakeries, who is under life sentence for the murder of Eli Daiches, advertising agency executive, and several others named in two damage suits filed in the Circuit court by Mrs. Belle T. Daiches, widow of the slain man, denied all allegations in answers filed yesterday. Attorney Harold Levy, who filed the answers, also filed his appearance as the defendant's lawyer in the case. Named with Weitzman are his brother, Louis Weitzman of New York, chairman of the Thomas M. Bowers advertising agency, of which Daiches was president; Arthur Emblen, James Murphy, and Jack London. Emblen, Murphy, and London are alleged to have been hired by Irving Weitzman to kill Daiches. London is a fugitive.

Strobel Novel Told in Rich, Vivid Prose

'Fellow Mortals' Exhibits Feeling for Words.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Fellow Mortals," by Marion Strobel. [Farrar & Rinehart.]

FOR her fourth novel Marion Strobel has chosen the unfailingly interesting problem of a young girl in her adjustment to life and love and the ever alluring family life of "nice" people. So many more of our fellow mortals are nice people than are thieves or murderers or adulterers that most readers find characters such as those in "Fellow Mortals" familiarly comprehensible and alluring.

In the beginning of "Fellow Mortals" Isobel Ambler, heroine, is a happy girl of seventeen, deep in an ecstatic adoration of Thurber Lamb, who is a young cartoonist with a philosophy, a philosopher with a hankering for speed races, a racer with a too sensitive mind. She has known Thurber Lamb for one week and she is writing charming and real letters and receiving them from her cartoonist in France, sickened, but irresistibly drawn by the war as the book opens. What the war does to a supersensitive man, how his sensitivity fights with his philosophy, how Isobel achieves with instinct rather than with intelligence something of the same conclusions that Thurber Lamb achieves with taking thought give the book its theme.

But Isobel is only one of a delightful family group, some sketched only . . . like Madame Ambler, Isobel's grandmother, who sprayed narcissus perfume over her handsome white lace gown when she was receiving a smart young man [although a trained nurse had to be in attendance to do the spraying] . . . and like Isobel's mother, who although a paragon of wifehood and motherhood was a terrible bore compared with the irresponsible actress whom her husband had wanted to marry . . . and like Willy Wylie Wetmore, who as a Wylie and the grandson of Admiral Wetmore was Gibraltarly correct socially the while he danced "Poor Butterfly" in a musical revue . . . and like Mr. Ambler, who says little more than a long paragraph during the entire length and breadth of the book, but who is cynic frustration in the flesh, and like Joe Eliot, who is a good doctor and perhaps even a better sport.

What especially distinguishes "Fellow Mortals" is the feeling which its author has for the color and form of things and emotions and the translation of that feeling into words. Subtle shades of reaction are evident in paragraph after paragraph, the kind of physical and emotional quickening of words that poets can give to prose.

If one looks back into the beginnings of most of the established and honored novelists he finds that their first published work is often a thin volume of poetry [even sometimes a volume of thin poetry], but almost invariably their sensitivity to life is expressed in a poetic sensitivity for words. The prose of a writer who got his baptism of verbal fire in poetry is almost invariably richer and more vivid than that of a nonpracticing poet.

Marion Strobel, more than most novelists who began as poets, it seems to me, has retained the poetic technique with words. She uses them with joy and for the joy of their use.

"Fellow Mortals" is a panorama of one family through the hysteria of war, readjustment, and depression, which, being a nice family, does not so much realize that it is hysteria and accepts it as "adjustment."

Here's Depression Remedy; Books That Fit Pockets

The chatty anonymous author of "The Pleasures of Publishing," a news bulletin from the Columbia University Press, has a swell idea. He says: "Why shouldn't the publishers of books and the makers of men's clothing get together and produce books that will fit into pockets and pockets that will receive books?" He thinks that might be a long step toward recovery.

Two Chicago Poets Turn Novelists

Marion Strobel (left) and Jessica Nelson North, two Chicago poets, both former editors of Poetry, a magazine of verse, who have had novels published within the week. "Fellow Mortals" is Marion Strobel's fourth and "Arden Acres" Jessica Nelson North's first venture in a field in which they both show charming competence. "Fellow Mortals," published last week, is reviewed today and "Arden Acres," published on Thursday, will be reviewed next Saturday.

Carleton Beals Offers Scholarly Study of Peru

"Fire on the Andes" Is Lively Study of People.

CARLETON BEALS, who knows Latin America as probably few writers or travelers do, has turned to Peru for the locale of "Fire on the Andes" [Lippincott]. As in "Banana Gold," "Mexican Maze," and others, he has written a scholarly, comprehensive, and lively volume on a country where one of the greatest of ancient civilizations once flourished.

"Fire on the Andes" is not the result of just a hasty jaunt. Mr. Beals spent several years in South America, much of it in Peru. During that time he crossed the Andes three times and not only lived in Lima and other cities but devoted considerable time in villages and among the natives in the more remote regions.

He tells a vigorous story of both ancient and modern Peru and paints a vivid picture of peasants and politicians, soldiers and priests, Indians and aristocrats.

Mr. Beals' book probably never will be translated into Spanish for it would meet with small favor in Latin countries and probably be barred from Peru. The author's comments on what he doesn't like are forthright; for example, this is what he thinks of the capital city: "Lima, despite its advantages, has always been a soap bubble city, its slight economic significance ever falsely inflated. Its burocratic influence is inflated. Its social snobbishness is inflated.

"Its gracious urbane society, striving for elegant sophistication, yet utterly lacking sophistication, though knowing etiquette and amorous intrigue, is essentially bigoted, egoistic, bound by narrow or sworn beliefs—it is a 'City of Kings' in a republic."

But Beals takes a more cheerful view of the country as a whole. "Only through liberation and evolution of the present oppressed groups can the real Peru emerge, the road be cleared for constructive progress," he writes. "Here is the clue to the future of all Latin America from Mexico to Bolivia and Paraguay.

". . . Yet for all of its black centuries of unimaginative exploitation, for all its sodden present, of all South America Peru is today the land of hope . . . a race is stirring from its long sleep; ten million people are coming to life again."

The book is illustrated by José Sabogal, a native Peruvian, whose work is reminiscent of some of the modern Mexican artists. A. C.

Mystery of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK

"This Was Ivor Trent," by Claude Houghton. [Doubleday-Doran.]

TO a very few American readers Claude Houghton is known as the author of "I Am Jonathan Scrivener" and "A Hair Divides." In England he is one of those writers who through neglect, appreciation by the few, and sudden discovery in the general has swum into a rather surprising popularity. He's good with none of the tricks of general appeal, his manner, method and subject matter are unusual and a little precious, and yet he has drawn to himself a following that now overflows to America.

"This Was Ivor Trent" was the English Book club selection for January, and it now comes to us. Like "Jonathan Scrivener," its hero is obscure, a background for all that goes on through the book. At the beginning and the end he is there, but it is the people who have known him and what he has done to them that give substance to the story and one man who is never even to see him, who is the core of that story, more kind, more perceptive, more admirable than Ivor Trent could ever be. This man owes his qualities to one book of Ivor Trent's which at his life's unhappy moment he has read and reread.

A faint element of mystery runs through the book, but it is the mystic mystery of hidden impulses, obscure passions, strange characterizations to which the clews are given in Ivor Trent's self-explanation at the story's end. He has need to explain the pitiful figures who move so beautifully through that part of the story when he is shut away from a life and self which have suddenly confronted and appalled him. No person in the book is uninteresting. They are strange, tragic, charming, funny; so individually, so clearly, so knowingly that they do not fade and die, like most people between the covers of a book, but go on in the mind like friends known in some other place and time.

Finds Czar's Copy of False "Protocols" in Washington Library

Herman Bernstein, the author of "The Truth About 'The Protocols of Zion'" [Covici-Friede], found the czar of Russia's personal copy of "The Protocols of the Elders of Zion" among the uncataloged books in the Slavic division of the Library of Congress, where he was searching for any new material that may have come to that library in connection with his book. Upon inquiry he discovered that several years ago the Library of Congress acquired a few thousand books of the private library of Czar Nicholas.

"The Protocols of the Elders of Zion," Mr. Bernstein shows, were originally fabricated by the Russian secret police in Paris to impress the czar that the Jews were responsible for the rising tide of revolution in Russia; since then they have been proven a forgery, but they are still used, Mr. Bernstein says, as a means of anti-Semitic propaganda.

King's Jubilee Brings Lot of History Books

D. C. Somervell Author of First to Appear.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—It is clear that many English writers have had their eyes upon the calendar. This year, as the world will soon know, George V. will complete the quarter-century of his reign; and the number of histories of that reign which will be published to celebrate the event will be large.

Of these, one of the first to appear will be D. C. Somervell's "The Reign of King George V.: An English Chronicle" [Faber & Faber]. It will also, probably, be among the most readable of all; for Mr. Somervell has a peculiar gift for compressed, critical, engaging narrative. He has dealt in former books with the Victorian age and with the growth of the British empire; and he has a subject fit to his hand in the tale of the last twenty-five years.

It must be said that, with kings disappearing from many of the thrones of Europe, King George has quietly and with the utmost ability strengthened the position of the crown in England; even our doctrinaire socialists declare for the monarchy. But besides that he has given his name to a period which, in retrospect, will be seen to have been full of exceptional interest for historians and value to the British commonwealth. This ought to be a good and perceptive book.

An even livelier book, which may arouse rather more dissension and certainly more annoyance, will be the "History of English Literature," which has been written by S. P. B. Mais [Heinemann]. Mr. Mais is an enthusiast. In that respect he is a rare critic, for where other Englishmen praise, as it were, with a stiff upper lip, and blame with satisfaction, he enjoys saying that he thinks a book is a good book and an author a good author. He is never deterred by the fear that his praise will be considered ingenuous: on the contrary, blame, though he sometimes thinks it necessary, seems to him a useless kind of comment.

For this reason he has always been a stimulating teacher—the William Lyon Phelps of his country, never hidebound, and dull only in the eyes of the permanently displeased. In this new book Mr. Mais writes for the beginner, the learner, the man who wants to read dead authors as well as living authors for pleasure. It is not a book for exclusives or bookworms.

Prof. Gilbert Murray, known to the present political minded generation as a pacifist and inexhaustible worker for the unity of nations, is known to readers also as the best possible translator of Euripides. For Euripides, with his humane philosophy, Prof. Murray has a fellow feeling.

He has never felt the same toward Aeschylus. But Aeschylus wrote at least one play the lesson of which is a detestation of war, and Prof. Murray has now combined scholarship with eager pacifism by translating "The Seven Against Thebes" [Allen & Unwin]. A happy thought and a piece of luck for those who cannot read Greek for themselves.

Children Love School That Is "Connected with Life"

"Willingly to School," by Claire T. Zyve [Round Table Press], is a pictorial and factual record of the joy that the children of the Fox Meadow school of Scarsdale, N. Y., take in their work and proves, as John Dewey notes, that "education that connects school with life can be done in public schools." The members of the Teachers' college of Columbia university enthusiastically indorse the volume.

Three Patriots of 3 Nations Train a Baby

WHEN the Rev. Eustace Smith, M. René Forgeron, and Hans Schmidt found themselves shipwrecked on a heavenly island in the South seas, together with one other survivor, a baby boy, they set about building their own little world. All three men were missionaries and the story that A. G. Macdonell weaves about them, and about the adventures of their ward in "How Like an Angel" [Macmillan] is nothing short of hilarious.

There's delicious satire in the book and a plot of sorts. The youngster, called Hugo Bechstein Smith, by his trio of foster fathers, is taught the Eton boating song, the spring song from "Die Meistersinger," and "En passant par la Lorraine." Also, French and German besides his English. Also, the philosophy of each pseudo-parent and all that each can remember of science, literature, and economics.

This part of the book is the funniest. The boy's adventures in England [he is rescued by an American yachtsman when he is 20] are farcical but not quite so amusing, somehow, as the days with the three funny old fellows on the island.

Those readers who get a laugh from Thorne Smith's books will roar over "How Like an Angel." Mr. Macdonell's first book was "England, Their England," also a satire.

Among the New Books

FICTION.

A Man Called Cervantes, by Bruno Frank [Viking], is a biographical novel based on the life of the author of "Don Quixote." It is the March "Book of the Month."

Follow the Furies, by Eleanor Carroll Chilton [Bobbs-Merrill], tells of a marriage between a man who sets himself up as an apostle of reason and a woman who has never been able to get away from her background of orthodox religion.

One Light Burning, by R. C. Hutchinson [Farrar & Rinehart], pictures an adventurous trek through Siberian wastes.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

The Islandman, by Thomas O. Crohan [Scribners], tells the life story of a man who has lived his entire life on the Great Blasket, an island a few miles off the wild Kerry coast of western Ireland.

The Man Liszt, by Ernest Newman [Scribner's], deals more with Liszt as a man rather than as a composer and conductor.

A Captain Departed, by A. W. Smith [Yale], gives the autobiography of a young man who became a major in the British army and his bewilderment in the post-war world.

NONFICTION.

What Happens in My Garden, by Louise Beebe Wilder [Macmillan], tells the author's successes and failures with a wide variety of plants grown in her own garden.

The Man on the Barge, by Max Miller [Dutton], contains essays dealing with many interesting events in an easy going life.

DRAMA.

ABOUT PLACES.

Attack on Everest, by Hugh Ruttledge [McBride], gives the story of the latest assault on this stronghold of nature unconquered by man.

Smoking Etiquet of 1830 Is Described 'Victorian England'

"Early Victorian England," edited by G. M. Young [Oxford University Press], is a two volume survey like the famous "Shakespeare's England" and "Johnson's England." It covers practically every phase of life in England from 1830 to 1865 and is illustrated from contemporary sources. Not the least of its delights is this description of the etiquet of "the weed":

"The ladies having retired, the gentlemen donned their smoking caps and jackets, or even complete and elaborate suits, smoked, played billiards, and drank brandy and water. Smoking caps and jackets were designed to prevent the dress coats and hair of the wearers from becoming tainted by the smell of smoke. To smell of smoke would have been considered most ungentlemanly. The etiquet books of the period devote attention to the 'weed,' as it is termed. In 1830, and for many years after, we are told that 'a man must never smoke nor ask to smoke in the company of the fair.' He should never smoke in the street in daylight (Tom Hughes made himself conspicuous by smoking on the way home from the temple about 1848), on a race course, or in a room frequented by ladies, and never must he offer a cigar to a clergyman above the rank of a curate. The 'dear creatures' are, however, warned that a little concession to the smoking habits of men is prudent, for 'the pipe is the worst enemy of women.' If the cigar was also an enemy we are not told. Cigaret—or, as the cigaret was first called, paper cigar—smoking was not practised in England until after the Crimean war. It was introduced by returned soldiers."

CORRUPTION THROUGH RELIEF.

Four bills to increase taxes have been introduced in the Illinois legislature. The objective is the raising of 36 million dollars for relief. That is the sum which the federal relief administrator in Washington has ordered Illinois to provide if it expects any contribution from the federal treasury.

The legislature, before voting any taxes, ought to find out how much money is really required. That is not easy to learn. Relief has become one of the biggest industries in the state. Probably it is the biggest. It has the longest pay roll, including as it does the names of hundreds of thousands who receive and ten thousand who dispense. Relief is a vested interest which demands and so far has received protection from thorough legislative inquiry.

In the sacred name of charity and brotherhood, relief funds have been used to buy votes on a scale never approached by the most corrupt of political machines. Naturally the politicians who have benefited from this corruption of the electorate do not want an investigation started. They will go to any length to avoid exposure.

The way the 36 million dollar figure was arrived at is itself revelatory. Somebody went down to Washington and came back with the command to raise 36 millions. No proof has been given that an economical administration requires that much money. No evidence has been cited to show that Illinois is receiving a fair share of the federal relief fund, based on the need in this state and Illinois' contribution to the federal treasury.

Certainly there is ample ground for suspecting that Illinois is being discriminated against. States in the south and west have drawn almost all their relief appropriations from Washington and have raised next to nothing to support their own poor. Illinois has had to provide for its own unfortunates through federal, state and local taxation, and those of the mendicant states as well. There is no reason to think that Washington politicians will distribute their funds more justly this year than in the past unless forced to do so. The demonstration of a little independence in Springfield may rouse Illinois' two senators and 27 representatives to obtain decent treatment for their state.

The taxpayers of Illinois know that without relief there would be widespread suffering. The taxpayers are willing to contribute, but they resent, and rightly, being forced to finance moral and political degradation.

The only way the legislature can make its tax increases palatable is to show that nothing less will suffice. That showing has not been made.

THE MYTH OF COMPETITION UNDER REGULATION.

A peculiar twist in railway psychology is revealed in Arthur Evans' story appearing on the first page of Tuesday's CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in which he outlined the details of a railway pact under the terms of which freight for the Pacific coast may not be delivered earlier than the seventh morning after departure from Chicago. For years the railways have been complaining of their inability to secure freight for the Pacific coast because of the competition of the Panama canal, and yet within their associations they have set up regulations to curtail their only stock in trade—transit speed. The average distance from Chicago to the Pacific coast points via reasonably direct routes is not in excess of 2,250 miles. Seventh morning delivery by "fast freight" requires an average speed of only fourteen miles per hour, approaching canal boat or horse and buggy performances.

This is the result of regulation. In return for rigid freight rates the railroads are permitted to agree upon insufficient service. Perhaps our readers will now more readily picture what will happen to the efficiency and utility of the truck under the government control now being considered by congress. First will come burocratic dictation to produce standard rates and standard trucks, to be followed promptly by service agreements among the operators themselves. Inevitably the virility, flexibility, and convenience of this new mode of transportation will be entirely regulated out of the industry and it will join the ranks of the impotent.

We can sympathize with the railways because of the havoc wrought in their tonnage totals by Panama canal competition, but have little patience with association destruction of their ability to offer expeditious service.

DIPLOMATIC VICTORY NOT DEFEAT.

In connection with the appearance of William B. Shearer at a senate committee hearing on munitions supply it is recalled that Mr. Hoover has been said to have held Mr. Shearer largely responsible for the alleged breakdown of the Geneva conference of 1927. We have commented upon that remarkable theory, which we can hardly believe Mr. Hoover took any stock in. It raises, however, another query—to wit: Why is the Geneva conference to be regarded by the American public as a failure so deplorable as to consign whomever was responsible for it to the company of Benedict Arnold in whatever circle of hades he is now to be found?

The conference, ostensibly at least, "broke down" because the British and American delegates could not agree upon a distribution of tonnage in the cruiser class. The British, their empire possessing naval bases on all the main strategic routes of the world, favor a smaller cruiser type than American naval judgment, in view of our lack of bases, considers advisable for us. Our delegates manfully insisted on the right to build large eight inch gun cruisers rather than the smaller type favored by the British. Neither delegation would yield and the conference ended upon this impasse. It failed of producing an agreement and was especially disappointing to the British, who had become accustomed to expecting American delegations to make substantial sacrifices for the sake of any agreement, and likewise to the ardent Anglophiles who think American foreign policy should be determined in London.

Mr. Coolidge did not take this view. He put the responsibility for the failure of the conference, not on the American delegation, whose conduct he highly approved, much less upon Mr. Shearer, but upon the British government, which he declared had tried to bind us not to build the type of ship our conditions required but to build the type the British favored.

Except by pacifists who think peace is advanced by making the least belligerent of the great powers as weak as possible, and by the peculiar class of Americans who want at any price to enjoy the condescending approval of English society, the Geneva conference was not a failure, but a success. It did not result, as other conferences have, in unfair and injurious concessions by the United States.

TWO PERJURERS TRAPPED.

It is doubtful whether any other single factor does so much to defeat the administration of justice to criminals as does the testimony of perjuring witnesses. Judge Michael Feinberg, sitting in the Criminal court, deserves the thanks of the community for the prompt manner in which he detected and defeated perjury in a case tried before him Thursday.

When two witnesses gave an alibi for an armed robber, which bore earmarks of falsity, the judge ordered detectives to investigate their stories. The detectives returned with evidence which caused the two perjurers to confess their lies to the jury. The robber was convicted and the perjurers have been punished.

Judge Feinberg's action is particularly commendable because, instead of viewing perjury lightly and falsely, as a mere foul upon the prosecutor in a contest of wits, he recognized the crime for what it is, a direct affront to the court and to justice, and himself initiated the steps which crushed it.

THE SIZE OF TAXICABS.

The Yellow Taxicab company has announced its intention to buy a thousand new cabs at a cost of something over a million dollars. The company considered for a time buying smaller, lighter machines than those now in operation with a view to reducing depreciation and maintenance charges, but rejected the idea on the ground that the Chicago public has come to expect more comfortable service than the smaller cars would afford.

No doubt the company knows its public, but it is a matter for regret that an experiment in providing a less expensive form of taxicab service is not to be undertaken, for the saving might be shared by the public, the drivers, and the stockholders, with benefit for all. For parties of five, of course, the larger cab is more comfortable, but parties of five are relatively rare. One or two persons constitute the usual load, and there would be plenty of room for them in any of the lighter cabs which the company might buy.

Editorial of the Day

[Battle Creek Enquirer-News.]

Michigan's legislature needs to move slowly and cautiously in its consideration of the measures which Secretary Ickes has proposed as a way for the state to get a slice of the $4,000,000,000 federal work relief appropriation.

Attorney General Toy has declared after preliminary review of the bills that they appear to contain many unconsitutional provisions. Tending toward revival of the notorious "insurrection bond bill" which was defeated in the last legislature, the measures would largely increase the power of municipalities to borrow money, would provide for the borrowing of money with a popular vote and would, in effect, remove other safeguards which heretofore have been considered essential to the public's safety.

There is, of course, a theory that so long as Washington is dishing out this money Michigan might as well get its share.

At the same time, however, Michigan needs to determine what price will have to be paid for its share, and whether it's worth it.

Naturally the question of constitutionality ought to be decided first. There is little point in the legislature enacting measures which later will be ruled out. That would be not only a waste of time but would result in no little financial confusion which in itself might be extremely costly.

Most important, however, the legislature needs to make certain that the state will not be giving up safeguards and principles which in the years to come will leave the people stripped of rights which always have been theirs and which should continue to be theirs.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Blow, Gabriel, Blow!

"British Astronomer Says Electrons and Protons Will Annihilate Each Other and Cause End of World."—Headline. The scientists are talking so much of the end of the world that if we hear a saxophone moaning in the flat across the street or over the radio it makes us jump for the window to see if it's Gabriel blowing his horn. There's so much talk of the world coming to an end there may be something in it. As far as I am concerned, it doesn't make much difference when the world quits business, except that I would hate to have it happen now. After going through one of the toughest winters known for years it would be a shame to have the world come to an end just as we are about to get balmy breezes from the south, serene blue skies overhead, little birds in the trees, and wild flowers blooming in the woods and dales.

Then, too, I want to find out before the doom comes just what's happened to the NRA. Is the damn thing dead or have its friends locked it up in a quiet sanitarium? And I would like to stick around and watch Mussolini and Herr Hitler bluff each other and see who wins. Of course, I must admit that the end of the world would have some pleasant things connected with it. In the world to come, either in the region where the happy residents fly around on wings and play on harps or down where it's pretty thick with sulphur fumes and the flames burneth ever, I do not believe that the ladies paint their finger nails red. I am getting so bored with red finger nails. Even the cooks paint their finger nails red and it makes me jittery. I'd rather the ladies adopted the nose rings worn by the untutored females of darkest Africa, and if the world doesn't blow up pretty soon they probably will.

And then, of course, there's Sen. Huey Long. Whenever I read anything about Mr. Long (and how can I help it when it's spread around in every paper I pick up?) I'm strong for the astronomers and what they say about the end of our glorious planet, and when in the still watches of the night I hear a man in an auto blowing his horn so that his wife attending the bridge party on the ninth floor will know he's waiting I always shout cheerily: "Welcome, Gabriel! So you've come at last!"

OFTEN IN THE EVENING.

Often in the evening
When I walk at dusk—
Through a quiet century—
Through an ancient musk;
I hear the temptress calling,
Inviting me for fruit;
She of the lost harmonic—

And saccharinely, "Madam!
I will give you bread!
A loving cup, a psalter,
I'll sing you from the dead."

When I would surely listen
And sup with her again,
I remember One has risen
From a kindred pain.
Then I look on pedagogues,
Hear night songs of birds,
Make statistics of the still

RACHEL MACK WILSON.

THE OLD DERELICT down in New York who found a bushel or so of bonds belonging to a Wall street firm and returned them and was given a money prize of a hundred dollars or so for ten weeks has gone insane. I don't blame him; if I ever got anything out of Wall street I would climb the nearest telegraph pole and insist I was a humming bird.

SOME OLD FASHIONED FOLKS are objecting to Ruth St. Denis dancing in the churches on Sunday night in what are called "religious dances." But I know one sinner that won't go to see Ruth step around. I fear a religious dance is just another name for interpretive dancing and interpretive dancing gives me a pain in the neck. What I'm waiting for is a religious flying trapeze act. A beautiful lady in pink tights soaring high up aloft on a flying trapeze would always bring me right up to the mourners' bench.

I BUILT A WORLD.

Because I found the world a lonely place
And could not bear to be so much alone
Among a people less like flesh than stone,
Finding never any friendly face
Without its lines of fears, its shadowed trace
Of greed or lust, I built within my own
Remotest being such a world as none
But dreamers might construe. And there a race
Of friendly beings less like flesh than fire
Built citadels of purple amethyst
And ivory and jade. Upon each hill
Brave banners blew, and women whose desire
Was that of night for dawn were won and kissed
By dreamer-lads. Yet I was lonely still.

JOHN DILLON HUSBAND.

THE FIRST NEWS of the serious illness of Oliver Wendell Holmes ought to refute the notion that great men's sons must be boobs. Suppose a man is the son of a great man. With hard study, determination, and perseverance he is sometimes able to live it down. R. H. L.

VACCINE PREVENTION IN POLIOMYELITIS.

No little public attention has been directed toward poliomyelitis because of the recent birthday fund collected in honor of President Roosevelt, a victim of the disease.

Poliomyelitis occurs in varying degrees of severity. Those children who show paralysis following the infection, constitute, in all probability, but a small fraction of the total number who have had the disease. In some the symptoms may be so slight that they are practically unnoticed. A child with a cold or an infection of the air passages may actually be suffering from poliomyelitis. The reason paralysis does not follow is that the resistance of the child is high, or that the virus causing the infection is of low power [toxicity].

Because of the disabling and sometimes fatal character of the disease in its severe form, medical scientists have been searching for a vaccine that would protect against the disease and a serum that would cure. In 1910 Simon Flexner and P. A. Lewis announced that they had produced poliomyelitis in monkeys by inoculation with infected material. They noted that monkeys convalescent from an attack, regardless of its severity, could not be reinfected by subsequent doses of the virus. In other words, the attack had conferred immunity. Tests of the blood of these monkeys made in different laboratories throughout the world disclosed the existence of a neutralizing substance to the infection. Furthermore, when a mixture of "polio" virus and the serum of the blood of recovered monkeys was injected into well monkeys no symptoms followed. Serum from monkeys that had recovered was called convalescent serum.

This discovery was followed by the introduction of the convalescent serum treatment of acute cases of poliomyelitis by Prof. A. Netter of Paris. Netter concluded from his experience that after paralysis had actually occurred the use of convalescent serum did not alter the progress of the disease.

Some years later Flexner and F. W. Stewart found that convalescent serum could be used as a preventive vaccine. During the next two or three years they issued a report in which it was stated that none of the children to whom convalescent serum had been given developed the disease. However, in spite of the hopeful attitude toward convalescent serum, subsequent experience has not borne out its early promise.

Recently Maurice Brodie, working in the laboratories of the department of health of New York City and of Bellevue medical school, has reported the development of immunity to poliomyelitis using small portions of chemically treated spinal cord of infected animals. He found that a dilute solution of formaldehyde in contact with the spinal cord material rendered the virus harmless after three days. He then proceeded to show that this cord material that had been sterilized by formaldehyde could be used as a vaccine and would protect well monkeys from "polio" infection. Brodie and his co-workers then decided to test the vaccine on human beings, and six volunteers from the New York public health laboratories were given the vaccine. After 11 days a second inoculation was given, and after 8 days a third. No general reactions whatever followed the use of the vaccine.

Later the vaccine was given to twelve children varying from 1 to 6 years of age. The local reactions were negligible and all twelve subsequently showed in their blood a definite neutralizing substance against the virus of "polio." Furthermore, the amount of the neutralizing substance was very much greater in the children than in the experimental monkeys. Whether or not the immunity is lifelong remains to be determined.

It appears that we are well on the way to a method of protection against "polio." Working independently, John A. Kolmer and his assistants, of Philadelphia, have shown the safety of their vaccine in 25 children.

The work of Brodie and of Kolmer is of the greatest significance and must be recognized by public health authorities, especially in the presence of epidemics of the disease.

INSOMNIA.

D. C. writes: For those who suffer from insomnia I would recommend working 8 hours a day, going to school 3 or 4 hours a night a few times a week, doing home work on the other nights. This is a sure cure. The only catch is, try to keep awake.

REPLY.

Yes, especially during your evening classes. We must not confuse fatigue with toxic nerves and high blood pressure, the usual basis for insomnia.

CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—[Friend of the People.]—If a man fights in a war for the United States, but was born on foreign soil and to my knowledge has not taken out citizenship papers, does the fact that he fought for the United States make him a citizen? If it does not, how do I go about ascertaining if he has taken out his papers? He is now receiving a pension from Washington. M. S.

The fact that an alien has been in the United States military service or that he has fought for the United States does not automatically confer citizenship upon such alien. In order to ascertain the citizenship status of the subject of this inquiry it will be necessary for him to call at this office, room 718, New Postoffice building, for a personal interview. FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT.

FLYING STORIES

By Test Pilot Jim Collins

Pilots often play jokes on each other when they fly together.

Two pilots I knew at Kelly field had been up to Dallas on a week-end cross-country trip. They started back on a very rough day and were bouncing all around the sky.

About 50 miles out of San Antonio the pilot who was flying the ship turned around to ask the other one in the rear seat for some matches. He couldn't see him, so he figured he was slumped down in the cockpit napping. He looked back under his arm inside the fuselage. The rear cockpit was empty!

He was only flying at about five hundred feet, hadn't been flying any higher than that on the whole trip, and at times had been flying even lower.

Scared to death that his passenger had loosened his belt to stretch out and sleep and had been thrown out of the cockpit in a bump, perhaps even failing to recognize his predicament in time to open his chute, the pilot swung back on his course and started searching the route he had covered for signs of a body. He searched back over as much of it as he dared and still have enough gas left to turn around again and go on into Kelly field.

He found nothing and was worried sick all the way back to Kelly. But when he landed there was the other pilot grinning a greeting at him.

The pilot who had been in the rear seat explained that he had undone his belt to stretch out and sleep, and that the next thing he knew he felt a bump, woke up with a start to discover the cockpit about four feet beneath him and off to one side. He said he reached, but only grabbed thin air. The tail surfaces passed by under him and he saw the airplane flying off without him.

He was too astounded at first, but quickly realized he ought to do something, sitting out there in space with no airplane or anything, so he pulled his ripcord. His chute opened just in time.

He walked over to the main road he had been flying over so recently and thumbed himself a ride to Kelly field. He said he had seen the ship turn around and start back looking for him.

The pilot who had been flying the ship never knew if the other one had really fallen out of the ship, or if he had jumped out as a joke.

A PRIVATE PENSION PLAN.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—The plan to increase the sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent to pension those over 65 interests me. I, myself, would rather have the 3 per cent to create an annuity for my old age. If I provide myself with an annuity and each individual does likewise there will be no need for the pension.

I belong to the underprivileged class making only $100 per month, of which $20 goes for rent and the remaining 80 for articles subject to sales tax. Taking this at a straight 3 per cent and not more, as is generally the way with small purchases, I would pay $28.80 yearly. Starting now at age 25 this amount would give me an annuity of $21.16 per month at 65. If I am ill or unemployed in the meantime I can borrow against my annuity, thereby eliminating the need for health and unemployment insurance, also. Lastly, there would be a burial fund at my death.

My wife cannot understand how my salary warants my putting $28.80 on an annuity. The state does not ask me if I can afford to pay the sales tax. They just grab it and if I was relieved of this I certainly could have an annuity.

My own plan would not be as hazardous as a pension, since there would not be the danger of corrupt officials appropriating or otherwise disposing of it before I am 65.

Pension money has but one place to come from—you and me as taxpayers. The only difference between an annuity and a pension is that in the former one gets exactly what one has paid and in the latter the thrifty have paid in to support the shiftless. I can provide for my own old age and unemployment. Why can't the other man do the same?

CHARLES H. JONES.

REPUDIATION.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Even gamblers have a code of honorable dealing to the effect that notwithstanding the fact that all gambling debts are illegal one who owes such a debt considers himself in honor bound to pay it. What a shocking thing it is to read that the government authorities in Washington are scurrying around endeavoring to find some method of taking away from the federal bondholders even such slight possibility of a remedy as remains to them on these gold covenants which the United States was not only in honor bound not to repudiate but, as held by the Supreme court, legally bound as well.

Surely the dishonor is complete. How can we ever hold up our heads among honorable people? How can we ever expect any one to loan the United States another cent? RAYMOND WAITE.

RADIO ENGLISH.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 23.—I wish to call attention to some of our radio pronunciations. Our language once had such words as direct and direction, but now it's die-rect and die-rection. Even some of the new dictionaries give this falsified pronunciation. Let us stick with the old. It sounds better and can be said faster.

Next, we once had the noun AD-dress, but now it's a dress: "Send your name and a dress." As a verb, of course, the accent should be on the second syllable, but not as a noun, as authorities have taught us long ago. Similarly, DE-tails has changed to de-TAILS, program to progr'm, etc. It's disgusting. I realize that we cannot keep languages from changing, but we can prevent them from decaying.

I wish to warn also against slurring the "r," as is done in certain sections of the east and south. Our President does this slightly, and so does a noted orator of Royal Oak, Mich., but that doesn't justify it. Let us keep our pronunciation unaffected and beautiful. Our language is a priceless heritage; let us appreciate it and do it justice.

C. J. GERLING.

MIAMI DEFENDED.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—It amuses me to read of Mrs. Charles Hall's impression of Miami, Fla. It is easy to see that this was her first visit to the Magic City or else she was too prejudiced to notice Bay Front park, the wonderful drives, or the beautiful trees and flowers. I spent my Christmas vacation there and during the seventeen days I couldn't have asked for more perfect weather. Living conditions were no higher than at any other winter resort, and as for the undesirable class of people and drinking, one only has to avoid such company. I am sure if Mrs. Hall had tried to enjoy the various points of interest her impression of Miami would no doubt be favorable. B. D.

SPEAKING OF BONUSES.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—Would Mr. Eugene G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, please loan me $1,000 to meet mortgage on my home which is soon due? I understand that Mr. Grace received bonuses of over 14 million dollars in the last 18 years.

I served 13 years' continuous service in the army, from 1916 to 1929, and my bonus was $1,250 for that period. Of course I have borrowed the maximum amount to continue my existence. I contend that payment of the bonus to needy war veterans under such circumstances is not a poor policy. JOHN CARLSON.

CROWDED "L" TRAINS.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—One of the first steps in making Chicago the first city in the world would be to compel the Chicago Rapid Transit company to put more trains on the north side branch in the morning.

The southbound Jackson Park trains between 8 and 8:30 a. m. run only every five minutes, and when they reach Edgewater Beach station they are already crowded. By the time they reach Sheridan road they are jammed so tight it often causes a delay of several minutes trying to get the doors closed.

A great many of these trains stop at Belmont, where more people are loaded on. Cattle cars are comfortable compared to these trains. PASSENGER.

PRICES.

Mansfield, O., Feb. 25.—As long as the law of supply and demand controls the price of commodities I do not see how printing more paper money would put the price up on anything that there was too much of.

This is a pretty large country and when weather conditions are right we grow a lot of stuff and if the price of certain commodities gets too high we Americans are pretty shrewd buyers and we will live on substitutes.

Most of this propaganda of inflation comes from politicians at Washington. They were favored in their purpose by the drouth and when prices kept going up they pointed out inflation was doing it. We Americans at that time were chumps enough to believe it. M.

EXCURSIONS.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Your editorial of Feb. 21, "Excursions," was splendid. It expresses the feelings of many who, like myself, are only granted two weeks out of each year to do any traveling. Many Chicagoans who love the outdoors are kept from enjoying it because rail fares are so high. I realize a railroad is expensive to run, but why have so much class? Dispense with so much swank. It's grand, of course, but for real business most folks would not mind if there were not heavy plated silver service or sumptuous parlor cars.

The country cousins come up to see me for $4 round trip, but I must pay $8 round trip to go there? Why?

Something cheaper than the present first class, and decidedly better than the tourist or even the bus service, would, I think, give the railroads more patronage. Why do they not use more initiative to make people travel-minded? That is their business. M. M.

JUDGE LAMBASTS LA GUARDIA OVER CONTEMPT DEFI

Bitterness Increases in Official Circles.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Bitterness increased today among city officials as they engaged in a frantic scramble to share in the glory attendant upon the great racket investigation in New York City.

Mayor F. H. La Guardia, his feelings lacerated yesterday by an insinuation from the Society for the Suppression of Crime that he delayed the inquiry until the Hauptmann trial was over in order that there should be less front page competition, was subjected to a blast from Supreme Court Justice Charles C. Lockwood which had the little mayor roaring like a wounded lion.

Judge Lockwood's stinging criticism of the mayor did not concern the racket inquiry but came in answer to the mayor's criticism of an injunction issued by the judge. But the judge's comment contained the same trend of thought voiced in the crime society's statement.

Hot Comeback from Judge.

"Mayor La Guardia," said Judge Lockwood, with dignity, "is a man who wants what he wants exactly when he wants it, whether right or wrong, and when he does not get it he exhibits an ungovernable temper and lets loose an unbridled tongue, seeing red, stirring up trouble, throwing black mud around, bespattering the record or reputation and the family of friend or foe."

This was the judge's answer to the mayor's challenge that no judge dared cite him for contempt of court. The consensus was that the judge had done a pretty good job of taking the dare.

The attack somewhat marred the solemnity of an interview the mayor was granting to members of the press in which he was announcing that an unparalleled attack was about to be made upon crime in the city. Crime, said the mayor, and prostitution, gambling and dope peddling must go. And the police department was directed to start a tremendous drive against the underworld.

Answers Gambling Charge.

The mayor pointed with pride to the fact that he had smashed the slot machine racket last year.

"What about these charges that there is more gambling under your administration than there was during the Tammany regime?" he was asked.

"Look at the record," retorted the mayor, "there were more arrests for gambling in 1934 than in 1933."

Meanwhile, Samuel Marcus, the crime society attorney who termed the mayor a headline-hunter yesterday, was deputized as a special assistant prosecutor by District Attorney William C. Dodge. He presented the prosecutor with new information said to name "higher-ups" in the bail bond racket as it applies to gambling, prostitution and narcotics.

Special Prosecutor Marcus will begin presenting evidence to the New York county grand jury on Monday, he said. He declared that he expects twenty or twenty-five indictments to be voted.

Puts Blame on Mayor.

Marcus placed the blame for present conditions squarely on the mayor's doorstep. He criticized the open hearings held by a special investigating committee as being staged for publicity purposes and repeated his assertion that the investigation should have been started last December.

"All this spreading of evidence in the newspapers has hampered the prosecution of the real criminals," he declared. "But certain people must get their names in the newspapers, I suppose."

The interested citizens of New York got another glimpse today of what goes on behind the political scenes preliminary to a big investigation when District Attorney Dodge narrated a little incident which had occurred. He had appealed, he said, to Commissioner of Accounts Irving Ben Cooper for aid in the inquiry. He quoted Cooper as saying: "Yes, we'll help you, but on one condition—that all publicity comes from our office."

At police headquarters there was much groaning among the lesser officials of the police force.

"Another big war on crime," moaned a sergeant. "And some of them things last a month or more!"

Begin Sky Ride Demolition; Gondola Cars Dismantled

Demolition of the Sky Ride on the World's Fair grounds began yesterday with the dismantling of the ten gondola cars. The wreckers said they are still undecided on the method of razing the two 628 foot towers. A plan to let them topple over by undermining the bases has been given up because of the opposition of Fair officials.

NEW YORK TAXES BOOSTED; RATE RAISED 15 CENTS

Queens Borough Has Highest Factor.

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—The board of aldermen today formally fixed the city's 1935 basic tax rate at $2.71 per $100 of assessed valuation, an increase of 15 cents over last year's rate.

The borough rates, which include the assessments against each borough, increase the rate still higher.

Manhattan will pay $2.82 per $100, the Bronx $2.79, Brooklyn $2.81, Queens $2.86, and Richmond $2.80.

Meet in Special Session.

In a report to the board the committee on finance of the aldermanic body called attention to the budget of this year of $553,432,599.90 which has to be financed out of the tax revenue. The aldermen met in special session to promulgate the new rate.

In order to present as accurate an analysis as possible the appropriations for interest and repayments on the city's debt have been allocated to the purposes for which the money was borrowed.

This emphasizes, for instance, that the total cost to the homeowner for educational activities is $61.70, the largest share for any service, and that so long as expenditures are controled by state law there is no opportunity for the city administration to effect economies which could be made in the expenditures other than for teaching.

Revenue Deficit $4,500,000.

It is also shown that the carrying charges on various enterprises in which the city has invested, such as the Staten island piers, the Bronx terminal market, ferries and subways, take over $30 a year from the homeowner, the subways alone requiring $14.65. The president believes this will be reduced if jurisdiction is transferred to the board of transit control.

The deficit in revenue as now estimated of upward of $4,500,000 will require to be obtained from such new sources of revenue as the board of aldermen is now considering in the form of increased license fees of various kinds.

Owner of Cafe Arrested After Fire Investigation

George E. Pinson, owner of a restaurant at 838 West 59th street that was damaged by fire Thursday night, was arrested yesterday on orders of Fire Attorney Thomas Sheehan. Sheehan launched an investigation into the blaze after firemen reported that they found the floor strewn with paper and excelsior surrounding two open containers of gasoline. The fire was extinguished before it reached the gasoline.

'SHADOW SALES' CHARGES DENIED BY MELLON AID

Wealth 200 Millions in December, 1931.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 1.—(AP)—Within 30 minutes of rapidfire action, Andrew W. Mellon's chief attorney today challenged relevancy of many of the government's basic contentions in its attempt to collect $3,089,000 in income taxes from the financier and brought out that his personal wealth was 200 million dollars on Dec. 1, 1931.

The attorney, Frank J. Hogan, taking over the questioning of Mellon's confidential secretary, Howard M. Johnson, after seven days of cross-examination, reviewed, one by one, transactions which the government had termed "shadow sales" and brought out testimony intended to show the deals had nothing to do with Mellon's income affairs.

Never Made "Short" Sale.

He cited a Supreme court decision to show that under its interpretation Mellon never made a "short" stock sale; brought out that the Mellon-organized Mellbank corporation paid no dividends in 1931, and carried the investigators through a detailed description of many of the Mellon holdings and transactions.

Hogan brought out from the witness that two years after the stock market crash of 1929 Mellon's holdings were reckoned at 200 million dollars.

Already he had given his children, Paul and Ailsa, more than 10 million dollars, according to Johnson's earlier testimony, and, on Christmas day, 1931, he gave them other huge gifts that helped reduce his wealth to a book value of approximately 97 million dollars by the end of the year.

Fictitious Losses Charged.

The government contends many of these were only "purported" gifts and that fictitious losses were set up in "shadow sales."

Robert H. Jackson, chief government counsel, had brought out that Mellon held $9,368,046.01 in tax-exempt bonds. Hogan asked of Johnson:

"What percent of Mr. Mellon's actual net worth were these bonds?"

"About 5 per cent," replied the secretary.

If the bonds represented 5 per cent of the wealth the figure would be computed at $187,360,920. Hogan said privately the actual figure arrived at was 205 million dollars.

Big Loser in 1929.

The original Coalesced company, organized in 1929, contained stock worth $9,500,000 and in December, 1931, this had shrunk to $3,139,000. Holdings in Pittsburgh Coal, which had cost 6 million dollars, was sold to the Union Trust company for $500,000—a sale which the government claims was a subterfuge, because the reorganized Coalesced company purchased the stock back at an increase of less than $20,000 in price.

QUEEN OF ANGELS PARISH PREPARES HALL DEDICATION

The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, bishop of the archdiocese of Chicago and director general of the Catholic Youth organization, will be in charge of the religious ceremony which is to open the dedication program of the Queen of Angels parish guild hall, 4412 North Western avenue, on Monday night, it was announced yesterday by the Rev. John Doody, pastor.

Mayor Kelly is scheduled to lead a group of speakers. Athletic events, including a boxing match and theatrical entertainment, will complete the program.

The guild hall, planned as a recreation center for the neighborhod, will have a regular athletic program for women, comprising basketball, volley ball and reducing, tap dancing and sewing classes. The building includes a complete gymnasium, an indoor diamond, two practice courts, two meeting rooms, a lounge, library, and kitchen.

Keep Away from Water

By Alice Campbell.

SYNOPSIS.

Sarah MacNeil, young American living in London, accepts the hazardous though thrilling post as traveling companion to Miss Christine Venables, prim, kindly and wealthy, who has been receiving letters that cannot be traced, threatening her life. Miss Venables spends most of the year at Ste. Brigitte, a small resort in southern France. Her nephew, Harry, is to join her there soon. With Miss Venables in London is her widowed sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Venables, Harry's stepmother. She is in poor health and Miss Venables has Dr. Gilcrest, her Ste. Brigitte physician who is visiting in London, prescribe for her. Dr. Gilcrest treats Sarah with cool aloofness, though she and Harry immediately become friends. That night Mrs. Venables dies. Her death is attributed to natural causes. On the way to Ste. Brigitte Miss Venables tells Sarah that the death threats began after her friend, Maj. Frampton, was killed in a fall down an elevator shaft. She believes he was murdered. She and the major were both threatened by two oriental drug sellers they had had prosecuted. Miss Venables' particular friends in Ste. Brigitte, besides Dr. Gilcrest, are the Baron and Baronne Henri de Bellesnaves, Beryl Tomlins, town librarian and harmless gossip, and a few old residents of the resort hotel. Sarah gathers that Dr. Gilcrest is in love with the baroness. Harry arrives. They have tea at the De Bellesnaves. Sarah is dosing on the veranda and awakes with her skirt in flames.

INSTALMENT XVIII.

CALAMITY.

With misguided instinct Sarah rushed for the door, the movement fanning the blaze till she saw herself a human torch. Here, this would not do! Had she not always been told that in a case of this kind she must lie down, roll up in a rug or a blanket? There was no rug in sight, only Harry's flannel blazer in a heap on the floor. She clutched it about her frantically, finding it of little use. Beating at the flames in futile desperation she uttered one piercing scream. . . .

"Sarah! My God, what's up?"

Across the dry lawn Harry came springing in great strides. He panted into the greenhouse and with lightning speed enveloped her in his arms, crushing, swearing, stifling the fire which threatened to demolish her. Before she could take in the marvel of her rescue, she was shivering and smarting in the ruin of her new frock, blackened remnants of chiffon smoking on the tiles, and in the corner behind her a canvas chair blazing harmlessly to extinction.

Harry turned on her a face as dismayed as her own.

"Sarah, my God, what's up?"

"I say are you much burned? Let's see. My word, but that was a close shave!"

She shook her head, wanting to tell him that thanks to him she had been saved from serious injury, but for the moment utterly voiceless. Dully she saw great blisters beginning to form along her arm. Her legs, too, stung furiously. All she had worn was torn away to the knees, her stockings a wreck.

"I'd better get you a drink."

He did not immediately move. His arm still lay about her shoulders, and as she looked up at him she caught the quickening of his breath and saw his blue eyes contract with an expression not hard to interpret. In another moment he would have kissed her. She knew it, and at the same time realized she would have been powerless to resist. Even in her dazed state her pulses automatically throbbed.

Too late. Here, running towards them, were the baroness and Miss Venables, while through the other door appeared the baron and Gilcrest, closely followed by the two servants. Every one, it seemed, had heard the scream.

"Scissors, quick! These sleeves must be cut away."

The doctor muttered this, angrily, so she thought, and issuing swift orders for oil and gauze at once set about ministering to her burns. Miss Venables, ashen faced, assisted him, while the baroness, kneeling at her side, moaned brokenly in Italian. The baron hobbled away to fetch what was needed, and in ten minutes Sarah's arms and her left leg were incased in bandages. Most fortunately the blisters, though painful, would not leave scars, so she was assured; but now arose the question: What had started the fire? Had she set herself alight from a cigaret or an unextinguished match? It was the only possible theory to account for the accident, and Angela, poking amidst the débris in the corner, swooped triumphantly upon a fragment of charred stump.

"Ecco! Mesdames, messieurs, le voici!"

"Of course, that did it," Harry declared. "You were smoking. Don't you remember?"

Sarah knit her brow, thought a moment and pointed to the sodden remains of the other stump reposing in the teacup.

"I—I'm positive that was my last cigaret," she faltered huskily. "And I didn't use a match, but Harry's lighter."

No one argued with her, but from the nods and soothing replies she saw her story was discredited. She had forgotten, that was all. The baron, solicitous and perturbed, went on examining the sun baked tiles. Gilcrest, glancing briefly at the damaged chair, put an end to the discussion by ordering the victim home and to bed.

"I'd better dress those places tomorrow," he said tersely. "Meanwhile, she's had a bad shock."

The baroness with the utmost kindliness begged her to stay the night. Her husband seconded the invitation, and Miss Venables herself urged Sarah to accept, but the girl firmly refused, laughing at the fuss being made.

"I'm not an invalid," she protested. "These blisters are nothing."

"Nothing!" Miss Venables clasped her thin hands together, still upset by the thought of what might have been. "Half a minute more, and you would have been burned to death. No one's fault, to be sure, but all the same. . . ."

No one's fault? While a cloak belonging to the baroness was tenderly folded round her, Sarah stared once more at the spot where calamity had befallen her. Without fully realizing it she was registering details to think over in private; but as she measured the inches between the burned chair and the open window she descried just beyond the clustering fig trees, not ten feet away, a poised figure which caused her a queer feeling of renewed panic. It was the gardener in a listening attitude, curious and watchful. Through the interlaced greenery she saw his glistening black eyes fixed on her face with a look which to her excited imagination was both lowering and malevolent. Catching her glance he moved away.

"I wish," she mused, "I could find out more about that brute of a gardener. If he really is connected with those dope peddlers, everything would be explained. As it is, I can be sure of only this: There was a clear space all round me when I dropped off. Nothing under my chair but bare tiles. Nothing, that is, except Polly's drinking vessel with water in it."

It was water, for the dog had drunk thirstily, otherwise she would have been tempted to believe the dish had contained some inflammable liquid. But —water! Why did the word strike a disagreeable chord? Of course—that sentence in the last letter to her employer. Keep away from water. . . .

As for the fire, she resolved to keep her haunting conviction strictly to herself and let her friends go on thinking it an accident due to her own carelessness. Perhaps it was accident. She would simply never know.

On the tiny deck of the De Bellesnaves' sailing yacht Sarah, her arms still bandaged but no longer painful, basked in sunshine. Silhouetted against deep blue sky Harry, in white flannels and open necked shirt, steered the small craft over the glinting waves, while in the lee of the mainsail the baroness lay curled on a heap of striped cushions. Miss Venables, safe in the company of the Bulstrodes, was playing a round of golf.

The baroness seemed asleep, but faint furrows round the corners of her scarlet mouth bore evidence of her recent displeasure. Whether she had been put out by the doctor's firm refusal to join the party or by the discovery of Demosthenes hanging about Berthe, Gilcrest's slovenly bonne a tout faire, Sarah did not know; but at any rate half an hour before she had flown into a hot Italian fury very funny to witness, stamping her sandal shod foot, and calling the delinquent gardener a string of abusive names.

By daylight Demosthenes looked common place enough in his filthy blue blouse and baggy corduroy trousers. Sarah was ready to shrug with scorn over her recent suspicions when, coming close and smirking familiarly into their faces he delivered himself of a question in halting English which by its wording sent a cold shiver along her nerves.

"No!" Mme. De Bellesnaves snapped at him. "Get along to the boat. And we shan't want you to sail us, either, only row us out in the dinghy."

Lady! That was how Miss Venables was addressed in the letters. The coincidence caused Sarah to dart a side glance at Harry, who, however, seemed unstruck by anything peculiar.

Miss Nicolina Gives Clever Song Recital

Program Eye as Well as Ear Entertainment.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Zinaida Nicolina, a Russian soprano more clever than most in the art of song interpretation, appeared in a costume recital at Curtiss hall last night. It was an eye filling as well as ear filling performance. She has both gorgeous costumes and the gift of wearing them in a way that changes not only her appearance but her apparent character on the stage.

As a Russian she was a lovely figure in her first group, but she was also a lovely and quite different figure as a Spaniard in the second, and her gypsy in the third was different from either.

This was more than changing from one color to another and transferring a glittering head dress to an enormous comb. It was making a rather striking change of characterization.

Her voice is distinct and expressive, frequently of a keen brightness in tone, but most effective in songs of a plaintive, melancholy nature. One addition would have made them still more effective, a translation into English throughout.

Robert Macdonald, a first class pianist, was her accompanist and also a brilliant soloist in works by Lecuona and Strauss-Godowsky.

Bertha Ochsner, the Chicago dancer, presented four brief ballets in the University of Chicago annual revue, "Mirror," at Mandel hall last night, and will repeat them tonight. They were "Incantation," a primitive ritual danced by a group of men students; "Cottage Ornament," a period satire; "Sea-Change," both dramatic and lyric, done to sound accompaniment, and a bit of Americana performed to the theme of and variations on "Pop Goes the Weasel."

Small Homes Create Problem in Child Care

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Did you ever think, when you've been at odds with the children—when they've seemed to you unnecessarily rackety—and mischievous and perhaps silly, and have had to be spoken to a dozen times for the same thing—that the whole trouble is that they're around you too much?

Was it Bernard Shaw who said long ago in one of his famous prefaces that children and grownups shouldn't live together? It was, of course, an overstating way of saying that the concerns and interests and actions of children and adults are so essentially different that they can't both of them comfortably and happily carry on their own affairs in the same place at the same time.

Now there's a fine kernel of truth in that idea—and if you'll think about it, you'll perceive it. Children like, because they need them, noise, activity, nonsense, and bodily freedom. Adults—that is the average parents in their ordinary indoor life—like quiet, neatness, cleanliness, order, and seriousness. The two conceptions of living don't jibe.

If one has a large house or grounds or easy access to outdoors, the children can be natural and still not be too close to their grownups.

But if the family lives in such a way that they must play in the same room with parents and relatives—or near them, in a small apartment, there is almost sure to be friction.

Do two things in fairness to your 8 and 9 and 10 year olds—first, if you live in close quarters provide some sort of active outdoor life for them. If neighborhood playing isn't desirable go to nearby parks or make some connection with a group. And second, develop in yourself a motherly hardihood of nerves, so you're not bothered by their obstreperousness, which, however, you can keep within bounds if they're not underfoot and suppressed all the time. I'm a great believer in "letting off steam."

BRONCHIAL TROUBLES

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

THE DEDUCTIVE DOUBLE.

I have finished, for the time being, with two out of the three types of double—the distributional and strategic. There remains the third type.

The Deductive Double.

This is so called because you make it only when both opponents have bid in such manner that you "deduce" that their hands are a weak combination and that your partner has passed considerable values—enough to justify your side in entering the bidding and trying for at least a part score or in doubling a low contract for a penalty. These are the doubles which are the most productive of large penalties at a low bidding level. These rewards come when your partner can leave in the double for business or when the opening bidder or his partner rescue each other and get into deeper mire, with "doubles to the right of them, doubles to the left of them."

Two Bidding Situations Give Scope for a Deductive Double.

[a] If the player on your left opens with one in a suit and the next two players pass, now you are in a position to make a deductive double. You do not need a big hand to do so. You know three things:

1. The opening bidder cannot go for game on his thirteen cards; he did not bid . no trump or two no trumps, or two or three in a suit. He bid one in a suit. Playing against certain other systems you can judge the limitations of his hand far more closely than if he is playing my system.

2. Your partner was not strong enough for a distributional double; but he also was not weak enough to be afraid of the hand or he would, if he had a safety spot, have made a strategic double. He probably has something in short suited form. Probably he has quite some strength in the opener's suit, especially if you are short and weak in it.

3. The opponent on your right must be very weak to pass the opening bid. Modern bidding methods do not require much to keep it open with a no trump. He can have little in high cards, and is not likely to be able to improve or rescue the bid if your partner leaves the double in.

The Other Situation.

Now you, in the south position, are in a position to make a deductive double if your cards give any justification. West could only bid a no trump in response to the opening bid; the opening bidder passed this response. Plainly your partner must have a fair hand, otherwise why have the opponents signed off so promptly? If his hand is aggressive in type, your side must have a sure part score in the right contract, which you will reach if you double. If his hand is defensive he can probably leave the double in and you can collect a nice penalty.

There Are Possibilities of Huge Penalties in Your Favor.

I have seen penalties of 2,000 points result from a double of one no trump left in for business in this manner and also from suit bids of one where the deduction double was made by the third hand after two passes and his partner had trumps over the declarer and passed. A deductive double is, from its position and its motivation, very different from a double made immediately over the opening bidder, and the penalty aspect looms very large. In both situations the player on the opening bidder's left has passed, so there is no risk that he holds a freak hand of aggressive type, or else he would have doubled immediately, either for defensive barricade purposes or, if very strong, as a preliminary to a subsequent force. Anyway, he would have doubled. The opponents having shown weakness, that partner is really marked with quite a few high cards, presumably in short suited form. The question is whether he is sitting over the opening bidder with length and strength—K J x x at least in that suit. His holding in the opener's suit will decide him whether to pass for business or to respond to the double in the usual way. In situation [b] the fact that the doubler doubled only on his second opportunity tells the same story. His hand was not suitable for an immediate strategic double nor strong enough, if of that type, for a distributional double until he knew that his left hand opponent was weak. Usually, therefore, a deductive double leads either to a low level penalty or to a part score. In situation [b] the former aspect is very prominent. So often they cannot stand one no trump doubled and the "S. O. S. redoubles," and rescues start, raising the level to two.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women who suffered from constipation. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, take one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets at night for a week and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets—now and then—to keep fit. 15c, 30c, and 60c.

Debutante on Vacation

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Virginia Preston is one of the Howard P. Prestons' two attractive daughters who made their debuts during the last season. Miss Preston and her mother are in Castle Hot Springs just now for a bit of relaxation. They are expected at home in another week or two. Miss Margery Preston, who bowed with her sister at a dance at the Saddle and Cycle club, is a student at Vassar college.

Harvard Polo Team to Play Army Tonight

Many Dinner Parties Will Precede Game.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ALL roads tonight will lead to the 124th Field Artillery armory on the south side where the Harvard varsity polo team and Fort Sheridan will play a polo match for the benefit of the Harvard scholarship fund. Harvard alumni and their families will be out in force for the occasion, the first upon which an athletic team from the old Massachusetts university ever has competed in Chicago.

Harvard men, not to mention the debutantes who aren't away, were hoping that the five young men who are on the squad chosen by Lieut. Charles D. Palmer, the Crimson coach, to come to Chicago, would be here long enough to be entertained, but unfortunately they arrive at noon today and leave immediately after the game tonight so there will be no chance to give even one party for them.

The team will be met at the station by Hugh McBirney Johnston, Albert W. Cook, Wyndham Hasler and William B. Cudahy, all of whom recently attended Harvard, and taken by them to the University club for luncheon. Then out to the armory for practice and a simple dinner before the match.

Thomas J. Davis of Cincinnati, the captain of the Harvard squad, is the fiancé of Miss Nancy Whitman of Boston, well known in Chicago, for she has visited here, and her mother, Mrs. Chatfield-Taylor Whitman, is the former Adelaide Chatfield-Taylor of this city. Henry Gerry of New York, Allen Winwill of Mill Neck, L. I.; Peter Jay of Westbury, L. I., and Frederick Ayer Jr. of South Hamilton, Mass., are the other Harvard players.

Playing for Fort Sheridan will be Lieut. Col. Harry Chamberlin, Capt. C. B. Cole and Lieut. Larry Smith. Preceding this match the Detroit Eagles and the 124th Field Artillery team will play.

Boxholders to Give Dinner Parties.

Practically all the boxholders are entertaining at dinner before the games and some are combining to have quite large parties. Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson is having the box guests of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, the Morris L. Johnstons, and Russell Tyson, as well as her own, for dinner, and Mr. Cudahy and "Buster" Johnston are to be joint hosts at a large party. Mrs. Ryerson had expected that her great friend, Mrs. Albert J. Beveridge of Indianapolis, would be with her this week-end, but Mrs. Beveridge had to postpone her Chicago trip, so she will not be "among those present."

Miss Jane Valentine, whose brother, John W. Valentine, is one of those who have been assisting Harlow N. Higinbotham in selling the tickets for tonight's affair, will have a dinner party, and so will Miss Jean Schweppe who is returning this morning from a week in New York with her father, Charles H. Schweppe.

Some of the others who will have box parties are Col. and Mrs. Charles C. Haffner, who have three boxes and whose especial guests will be Gen. and Mrs. Frank R. McCoy, the Albert A. Spragues, the John P. Wilsons, the Barrett Wendells, Edward L. Cudahy, the Henry Bartholomays, Howard Tracy, the Mitchell D. Follansbees, the Denison B. Hulls, the Harold V. Ambergs, the Jackson K. Derings, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, the Carl Ingrams, the Dwight Ingrams, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, the Alexander Kirks, the Lanning Macfarlands, the Samuel Ettelsons, the Charles S. Davises, Paul Butler, and Ralph Horween.

INSTEAD of the small boy who usually delivers their Saturday Evening Posts, residents on the near north side learned that for a week or two a man, well dressed, wearing good tweeds and excellent haberdashery came to their doors with their weekly issue. The maid who answered the ring reported to one Division street subscriber that the magazine had been delivered by a man who occasionally came in for cocktails. Another subscriber came out of her house in time to see a familiar figure going down the walk, a Saturday Evening Post bag under his arm.

"Peter," she called, "what in the world are you doing with those magazines?"

He was Peter F. Connor of 55 East Elm street, Williams '15, stock broker and listed in the Social Register, and he had promised his small son, who was home ill and worrying about his magazine route, that he himself would see that all the magazines were delivered.

THE buffet supper dance at the Casino Thursday night started out like other functions in that handsome club; the lobster and turkey and salads on the buffet in the fountain room, an orchestra on the dais in front of the long taffeta curtains at one end of the room. But before the evening was over, the goings-on in Chicago's smartest club resembled those of any country party. There was a game of musical chairs, with Mrs. Paget Cady and Mrs. Byron S. Harvey lasting the longest. Eames MacVeagh called the numbers for a "circle" dance, with much changing of partners and granting right and left. Finally there was a Virginia reel. It was a pretty sight. The mirrored, candle-lit, elliptical room, the long row of ladies in lovely gowns facing the row of gentlemen; Mrs. John Winterbotham, in stiff, palest pink satin, a bow in her dark curls, tripping down to meet her partner; Mrs. Cyrus Hill, in wide skirted black taffeta; Peggy Hambleton, in boned black velvet, with shoulders emerging from black tulle ruffles, wearing bangs, and a pink rose in her bodice. It was, clothes, coiffures and all, nearly a picture of the 1880's.

SOME weeks ago there was printed in this space a paragraph about the one armed miller of Vina, Ala. A letter in the mail today states that the miller himself received a copy of the paragraph from a stranger in Dallas, Tex., addressed merely to "The One Arm Miller of Vina, Ala." A Chicagoan, Edgington Franklin, was in Vina again last week and he learned that besides running the mill to grind the corn for two armed men, the miller drives the school bus morning and evening, acts as substitute rural mail delivery driver, sells butter, eggs, and milk from his home dairy, and does odd jobs.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"Ruggles of Red Gap" is the name. Adapted from Harry Leon Wilson's beguiling yarn of some years back.

This is the first film in which Charles Laughton has played a straight comedy part. It's the one which lured him away from the "David Copperfield" lot and the rôle of Micawber. It's grand entertainment built on sound psychology. A remarkable thing about the piece is that all of the characters are, intrinsically, nice people.

"THAT fact," Mr. Laughton avers emphatically, "is due to Director McCarey. He only KNOWS about the niceness in people. The one character in the piece not up to par is, to my way of thinking, the only unbelievable person in it. Belknap-Jackson is NOT a success."

Sir James Barrie placed his impeccable butler "The Admirable Crichton" on a desert isle—and revealed what changes in environment may do to a man. Mr. Wilson projects his son of a gentleman's gentleman from the stuffy atmosphere of a London ancestral home to the heart breezes of Red Gap, Washington. . . .

And what happens to Ruggles?

He comes to agree with people who really believe it, that all men ARE created free and equal. In him is born a reverent comprehension of what the America, which he had conjured up as a land overrun by whooping Indians and barnacled by slavery, really stands for. And a surging love for the land of the free and the home of the brave rises within him.

The scene in which Ruggles recites Lincoln's Gettysburg address just rips you to pieces. There he stands, this fat, wistful Englishman, amid a crowd of Americans—the only one present who knows what Lincoln said at Gettysburg. . . . !

This is one great scene in a film replete with them. Another outstanding episode is the one at the start where Ruggles learns from his master, the earl, that the latter has lost him—Ruggles—the night before at a game of draw poker. Lost him to the—as Ruggles believes at the time—terrible Egbert Floud of Red Gap, Washington.

It is this episode, I'm sure, that's caused folks to compare Laughton with Chaplin. Well, if you're asking me, Chaplin never did anything worth the comparison.

Happenings in Red Gap are chuckleful and invariably unexpected. Ruggles meets love—in the limp form of Zasu Pitts. He meets also, in due time, his former master, who has come to redeem and take him home. And now, the earl goes through the melting pot process. As this gentleman of title, Roland Young is gloriously amusing. The scene where he and Leila Hyams render—or REND—"Pretty Baby" on piano and drum, is one you'll laugh at every time you think of it.

Charles Ruggles does a swell job as Floud who represents America, as Laughton represents England. The rest of the cast is aces—and I DON'T exclude Belknap-Jackson.

Direction is perfect. As I told you over the radio Thursday evening, Mr. Laughton knew no rest until he had Leo McCarey signed, sealed and delivered to direct him.

He is a VERY smart man—that Mr. Laughton!

See you tomorrow.

Belgian Rulers in England to Pay a Private Visit

DOVER, England, March 1.—(AP)—King Leopold of the Belgians and Queen Astrid arrived tonight from Ostend on a private visit to England and left by automobile for an unannounced destination.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Lady with a lovely complexion, guarded well by use of a cleansing cream that is an excellent lubricant.

An old cosmetic friend of ours popped up in a Chicago store the other day. We'd tried it out a long time ago and regretted then that we couldn't write about it because it was available only in limited quantities. Now that things are organized and it is carried in one of our largest stores we hasten to tell you about it.

It's a cleansing cream, a pure white one, with a delightful fragrance; but what we like best about it is its richness. We think it's a beautiful one for dry skins, and especially for use during cold weather and right now, when cold has done a lot of damage and left the old epidermis much the worse for wear.

It's a pretty high powered cleanser; one of those that actually get at the cream rouge . . . one glamorous swoosh of it will do the operation sufficiently. But it's an elegant lubricant, too, which is why we recommend it particularly for this season. You can, if you're economizing, use it as a treatment cream, leaving it on for hours at a time or even overnight.

You'll like the texture of it. It isn't too thin, but neither is it too heavy; it seems to us just about right, and, being a dry skin sufferer for lo, these many years, we're plenty fussy about cleansing creams.

A lovely lotion with the pretty name of "rose leaf" is a partner of this cream that you might well make use of. It is a delicate freshener that leaves the skin slightly toned and devoid of the grease that mars makeup. This cream can be applied sparingly in the morning, then wiped off with the lotion—and there you have a powder base that you'll like immensely.

Garbo Is 29th at Box Office; May Quit Films

Hollywood, Cal., March 1.—(AP)—Screenland's silent Swede, Greta Garbo, is planning to desert motion pictures "once and for all," and return to her native Stockholm, if Hollywood sources that might know really know.

It may be, of course, that the actress is merely girding for another contract conference.

Garbo is wealthy. She is one of the highest paid stars in the film business. She also is a shrewd business woman. Several years ago her studio couldn't agree with her on a contract. Garbo went to Stockholm and "sat it out" for seven months until the studio changed its attitude.

Hollywood purported tonight to see in Greta's current activity, however, "definite indication" that she plans to make her next picture, "Anna Karenina," her swan song to the flickers.

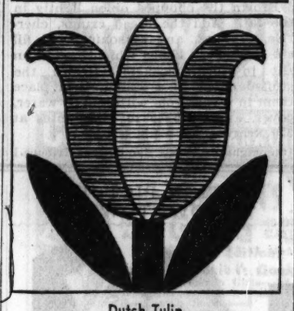
The studio says she hasn't entered into negotiations for a new contract to supplant the one that expires in a few months. She hasn't renewed the lease on her home in the Santa Monica mountains.

Then, too, her decision to return home might be made quickly after the contract conference if the studio pointed out she has dropped to 29th place in box office drawing power.

At any rate, Garbo is making elaborate preparations for her new picture. She did this story in the silent days and it was titled "Love." John Gilbert was her leading man.

Hollywood also is thinking the pull toward Stockholm might be caused by Max Grumpel, wealthy engineer and building contractor, to whom she once was reported engaged.

Attractive Quilt Displays Simple Grace of Tulip



Dutch Tulip.

By Nancy Cabot.

One of the simplest of our floral appliqué patterns is the Dutch tulip. The blocks composing the coverlet are set together with a three inch band of insertion. Two shades of rose and leaf green, or two shades of yellow, may be used for the flower, and the background may be white or any harmonious shade. Dutch Tulip was first pieced in Pennsylvania by a descendant of one of the first Dutch settlers.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

Miss M'Cormick Goodhart Will Be Bride Today

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Miss Patience McCormick-Goodhart, daughter of F. Hamilton McCormick-Goodhart of Washington, will be married tomorrow at 8:30 p. m. to James McMillan Gibson, son of Mrs. Morris E. Locke of Washington. The wedding will take place in the Church of the Epiphany, the Rev. Zoe Barney Phillips, D. D., officiating, assisted by Canon Joseph Fletcher of the Washington cathedral.

The bride, who will be given in marriage by her father, will wear a gown of her own design of pale pink slipper satin cut along severe lines with a high neck and long tight sleeves. The skirt terminates in a long train which is covered with her grandmother's old Brussels lace. A pale pink veil of tulle falls from an empire bonnet, the brim of which is trimmed with pink gardenias. She will carry a prayer book given her at her christening by her grandmother. From it falls a shower of pink lilacs.

Mrs. William Ross Howard of Baltimore will be matron of honor and Miss Janet Ayer of Chicago, a cousin of the bride, will be maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Mrs. Gale McLean [sister of the bridegroom], Miss Eleanor Roosevelt, Miss Christine Ekengrin, and Miss Eliza Mitchell, all of Washington; Miss Cecil Dulin of Kentucky, and Miss Mary Knowles of New York. The attendants will be gowned in simple frocks of deep blue green matching the bride's prayer book, with straw bonnets of a corresponding shade. They will carry bouquets of pink roses and white freesia.

Col. Morris E. Locke will be his stepson's best man and the ushers will be Gale McLean, L. H. McCormick-Goodhart [brother of the bride], Cuthbert Train, John McLean, and Richard Griffin, all of Washington; Henry Chalant of Pittsburgh; Henry Sanford Jr., Phillip Holden, Allan Carlisle, all of New York, and Joseph Vetterlein Jr. of Philadelphia.

The church will be decorated with calla lilies, palms, white freesia, and ferns. The choir will sing "O Perfect Love" and the organist will play the wedding march from "Lohengrin" as the processional and Mendelssohn's wedding march at the recessional. A reception will follow at the bride's home, which will be profusely decorated with pale pink roses, white freesia, and greens.

Among the guests will be Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, Miss Mildred McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ayer, and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Adams of Chicago.

The young couple will take a wedding trip to South America where they will remain four weeks, then they will go to Nassau and upon their return will live in Washington.

Say Winthrop Rockefeller Is Engaged to Texas Girl

Houston, Tex., March 1.—[Special.]—The engagement of Winthrop Rockefeller, youngest son of John D. Jr., to Katherine Neuhaus of Houston was reported today. The oil heir has been working in Houston for one of his father's Standard Oil subsidiaries. His bride to be is a junior leaguer and 22 years old. Young Rockefeller quit Yale last February in the middle of his sophomore year to go into the oil business.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Mearns of Albuquerque, N. M., announce the marriage of their daughter Adele F. to Leighton A. Wilkie, son of Mrs. J. C. Wilkie of Lincolnwood drive, Glencoe, on Feb. 23. The ceremony took place at 11 o'clock in St. Mary's church in Lake Forest, and Mr. Wilkie and his bride left immediately on a brief trip. They are sailing the end of next week for a long honeymoon in Europe, and upon their return next fall they will make their home in Lake Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Meyers of 5345 Hyde Park boulevard announce the marriage of their daughter Ethel to Dr. Burton Allen Solar of 211 East Delaware place, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Solar, which will take place at 4:30 o'clock today in the bride's home. Dr. Solar and his bride will sail March 9 on the Aquitania for an eight weeks' wedding trip to Europe. He is a graduate of Ohio State university.

Pullman Free School Holds Open House to Mark Founder's Birth

Five thousand visitors last night streamed through the classrooms of the Pullman free school, 111th street and South Park avenue, for the open house given on the occasion of the 104th anniversary of the birth of George M. Pullman, founder of the school. Some 550 students and teachers gave demonstrations of the work being done there.

In addition, music was furnished by the fifty piece school band, directed by James R. H. French. Principal Urban G. Willis was in charge. Among the visitors was Florence Lowden Miller, granddaughter of George M. Pullman, daughter of former Gov. Frank O. Lowden.

Many Dinner Parties Will Precede Game.

going back to Cambridge, New Haven, Princeton, and Hanover tomorrow evening, for several hundred eastern college men are congregating in Northampton, Mass., this week-end for Smith college's annual spring dance. It's one of the gayest and most interesting house parties given annually at the various eastern schools, but it means that girls form the stag line instead of boys and that the masculine guests are kept dancing from 4:30 on into the late evening hours.

At their own parties these young men think nothing of putting their girls through a strenuous dancing régime, but when the tables are turned they become a little foot weary. Nevertheless, feminine "cut-ins" do considerable for their masculine vanity.

Among the hostesses at Smith today will be several dozen Chicago girls numbering a half dozen debutantes of the last season. The dances are held simultaneously in the various dormitories on the Smith campus. The debutante hostesses will include Miss Nancy Brown, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward V. L. Brown, who recently has attended house parties at both Dartmouth and Williams; Miss Charlotte Chandler, Miss Peggy Sargent, Miss Jane de Peyster, Miss Miriam Fetcher, and Miss Barbara Hobart. Others who are entertaining young men from some one of the eastern universities are Miss Dorothy Ott, Miss Marion Calkins, Miss Jane Boucher, Miss Elinor Griffenhagen, Miss Barbara Barry and Miss Florence Barry, Miss Marjorie Mills, Miss Katherine Korrady, Miss Jane Hubbell, Miss Carolyn Ferry, and Miss June Betts.

Speaking of Smith, Mr. and Mrs. David Dushkin [the former Dorothy Smith of Highland Park] are in Northampton this week-end. Yesterday they lectured on "New Resources in Music Education," using for illustration some of the instruments made by north shore children who are studying at the School of Musical Arts and Crafts in Winnetka, of which Mr. Dushkin is the director. Mrs. Dushkin's sister, Elizabeth Smith, who was graduated from Smith in 1928, is on the music faculty at Smith this year. Last year she was a member of the faculty at the Girls' Latin school.

Gilpin-Butler Nuptials Today.

At 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the residence of her parents on Longcommon road, Riverside, Miss Nan Gilpin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garth G. Gilpin, will become the bride of J. H. C. Charles Butler of London and Chicago, son of the late Lord Theobald Butler and Lady Butler. The Rev. Roy Grobb of St. Paul's Episcopal church in Riverside will read the ceremony in the presence of relatives and close friends and a small reception will follow.

The bride will be unattended. David Anderson will serve Mr. Butler as best man. Following a wedding trip south Mr. Butler and his bride will be at home on Wrightwood avenue, probably after April 1.

Miss Gertrude Gilpin, the bride's aunt, has come from Portland, Ind., for the occasion, and another aunt, Mrs. William Reed, is here from Winchester, Ind.

Chicago alumnæ of the Bennett school in Millbrook, N. Y., and their friends will turn out in large numbers tomorrow afternoon for Carola Goya's recital of Spanish dances in Orchestra hall, for the proceeds of the affair will be turned over to the scholarship fund of the school.

Mrs. Samuel Carson Pirie, Jr. is chairman of the committee that has arranged the recital and among the boxholders are Mrs. William R. Abbott Jr., Miss Frances Weary, Mrs. Edward Adams, Mrs. Alan Brantingham, Miss Ruth Burns, Miss Virginia Chapman, Miss Louise Creators, Mrs. Orton Elbert, Mrs. Thomas Smyth, Mrs. Ross J. Beatty, and Mrs. John Walker Thompson.

Miss Courtney Carroll, headmistress of the school, is arriving today at noon to attend the benefit tomorrow afternoon. This afternoon she will be an especial guest at a tea at the Drake planned by Miss Chapman. Miss Carroll will stay at the Chicago Woman's club.

Friends Learn of Lake-Drake Wedding.

The address 366 North Crescent Heights boulevard, Hollywood, is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Drake, who were married last Nov. 5, but whose Chicago relatives and friends only heard of the marriage just recently. The wedding took place at the residence of Mrs. J. C. Stubbs, the bride's grandmother, in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Drake lived in Chicago when she was Mary Parker, but after her marriage to Harold Sykes Lake of Connecticut she resided in the east. After being divorced from him she went to La Jolla to live, and her Chicago friends saw little of her.

Mr. Drake, a son of the Tracy C. Drakes, who are spending this winter in St. Petersburg, Fla., was married to Ann Keith of Fairfax, Va., but they were divorced. He hasn't lived in Chicago for some years, either, although he has paid frequent visits to his parents here.

Mrs. Cornelius Crane has left for a visit in Washington, but she will be back in Chicago by the time her husband arrives. He is on the ocean now en route from Tahiti to San Francisco, where he is due to land on March 8. His mother, Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr., expects that he will bring word about when the former Florence Crane and her husband, William A. Robinson, are planning to return from Tahiti.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hutchins have returned from a brief trip east which they took to see their daughters, Barbara and Margaret, who are in school at Catonsville, Md.

Mrs. Clarence B. Mitchell passed through Chicago yesterday on her way from New York to Santa Barbara, where she will pick up her children and rent the Mitchells' home and return to New York. Since Mr. Mitchell has established a photographic studio in New York he and his family will, of necessity, live there.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Loesch will leave Chicago Monday for a late winter sojourn in California.

Spring Suit Neatly Tailored

WOMAN'S AND MISS' SUIT.

A brown and rose tweed mixture was used to fashion this smart town suit, and it's easy to make. The two piece skirt, with plaits let in at the sides, is smart and graceful. The jacket is short, has long, comfortable sleeves, and collar and revers finish it. Either jacket or skirt may be worn separately, and the jacket will be stunning worn with a plain rose woolen skirt.

The pattern, No. 3058, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

Bachelor Tells Cooking Editor of Corn Dish

Volunteered Recipe Should Rate High Favor.

BY MARY MEADE.

A man made a special trip up to see us the other day, just to volunteer an original favorite of his. After a little judicious testing on our part, we found it so good that we feel it must have a little publicity. The donor suggested that it be named Bachelor's something or other so, for want of a better title, it's been christened

Bachelor's Corn Scramble.

1 No. 2 can whole kernel corn
1½ tablespoons flour
½ cup half and half milk and cream
2 teaspoons sugar
1 egg
Salt.

Blend the flour with the milk and cream and cook slowly with the corn and sugar until well thickened. Stir in the beaten egg and continue cooking, stirring constantly, until thick and creamy. Season before serving.

Perhaps the main cherry flurry of the year—canned cherry flurry, that is—is over, along with the yen to give patriotic parties, featuring vicious hatchets and bunting, in honor of that honorable personage, George Washington. Our own cherry urge is still rampant, however, and, at the risk of appearing a week or so behind the times, we're making room today for a couple of particularly tempting cherry recipes which were crowded out of the more suitably timed longer story.

An intriguing sauce for hot baked ham is one which was especially huffy about being omitted last week. It goes by the fetching title of "Lemon Butter Cerise." Simply made, too. Just add several tablespoons of finely chopped, well drained, sour red cherries to the creamy lemon butter which you regularly prepare as a dressing for meat or vegetables. Or, to be more specific it's made with one-fourth cup of butter, creamed until fluffy, to which is gradually added a tablespoon of lemon juice and, finally, three tablespoons of the chopped cherries.

Also in the line of meat embellishments is the other not-to-be-snubbed cherry recipe. It goes like this:

Cherry and Orange Stuffing.
[For Pork Chops.]

1 medium onion, chopped
2 tablespoons fat
2 cups soft bread crums
¼ cup pitted sour red cherries
½ cup diced oranges
Salt, pepper, poultry seasoning.

Brown the chopped onion lightly in the fat. Add the bread crums, cherries, oranges, and seasoning and fill six thick pork chops which have been slit to form pockets. Brown the stuffed chops in a skillet, then place them in a casserole with a little water, cover, and bake 45 to 55 minutes at 350 degrees F.

Church Revue

Because of capacity audiences at the two previous performances this week, an extra performance of the "Varieties of 1935" will be presented tomorrow night by the Catherine Club of St. Catherine of Siena parish. A cast of young people of the church is seen in the production, which will be given at the auditorium at Washington boulevard and Humphrey avenue. Miss Peggy McLaughlin is a member of the cast.

Shiny Sailors of Straw Are Fashion Finds

Brimmed Felts, Fabrics Also Good.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Shopping tips for the Saturday clothes collector:

First, some rough and ready sailors of shiny black, brown and navy straw to pick up that wilted between-season feeling. The straw is wide and woven like a basket, the crowns are shallow and the brims are straight or drooping. These hats are crisp and colorfully slick tops for all the tailored new spring outfits.

Then watch the bumper brimmed felts and fabrics take the money. They, too, have shallow crowns, moderately wide brims and a tailored look that is perfect for the spring costumes. Ribbon bows, chromium buckles, rings and pins are the best trimmings. All of the new pastels, knockout gray and dark street shades are available.

If you are looking for a small hat, one with lots of zip and snap, you'll like the piquant off-the-face numbers with a tiny scrap of spanking white for accent. One has a narrow bow of white pique looking for all the world like the dress tie belonging to your brother. Another has a single white gardenia perched at the left side and still another has a huge white blossom right in the center of the peak of the upturned brim.

Shoe designers are going in for the air cooled spring models. Some new street models in brown, black and navy have large insets of mesh that are exact copies of hand crocheted stuff, and its darn good to look at. These crocheted insets are appropriately used with new pebbly fabrics and the newest models are slippers that come well up on the instep. The heels and tips are of the fabric, with crocheted mesh insets to match the color of the fabric.

String gloves for the tweed outfits are "in," and you have seen practically nothing as far as color is concerned till you have blinked an eye over these exciting mittens. Bright yellow, two shades of pink, pale green, raspberry, scarlet, golden brown, pale blue, bright blue, as well as all the dark colors are ready for finger service, the newest, smartest tweed or wool accessories in town.

You no longer screw earrings on your ears. The easy and decorative new trick is to buy clip earrings. They slip on the lobe of your ear in record time. They have been cleverly designed, with a curve in the clip part, so that one scarcely knows they are in place. All the bright peasant colors, in red, yellow, green and bright blue as well as pearls and glittering evening baubles are now finished with these clip attachments.

GASOLINE ALLEY—IN A SPOT

AFTER WALT FOUND THE BABY IN HIS CAR AND HAD TURNED IT OVER TO THE POLICE TO BE PUT IN AN ORPHANAGE, HE AND PHYLLIS AGREED IT WAS THE ONLY THING HE COULD HAVE DONE
SHORTLY AFTERWARD THE CAPTAIN SENT OVER A NOTE FOUND PINNED TO THE BABY'S CLOTHING AND ADDRESSED TO WALT.
DEAR MR. & MRS. WALLET— I ENTRUST MY BABY TO YOU, CONFIDENT IT WILL BE CHERISHED AND CARED FOR. I KNOW ALL ABOUT SKEEZIX HAVING BEEN LEFT ON YOUR DOORSTEP AND THE LOVE AND DEVOTION HE HAS HAD AT YOUR HANDS FOR LONG YEARS— SINCE HE WAS NO BIGGER THAN MY OWN BABY. I HAVE SEEN HIM GROW IN STATURE, STRENGTH AND KNOWLEDGE WITHIN THE ENVIRONMENT OF YOUR HOME
THERE IS NOWHERE ELSE IN THE WORLD I WOULD LEAVE SUCH A TREASURE—WHOM I LOVE MORE THAN MY OWN LIFE. I KNOW YOUR HEARTS ARE LARGE AND THAT YOU WILL NOT BETRAY THE SUPREME TRUST I PLACE IN YOU. ANGUISHED MOTHER
P.S. THE RING KEEP ALWAYS WITH MY BABY.
SHE SEEMS TO KNOW ALL ABOUT US AND BOY! SHE CERTAINLY DOES PUT IT UP TO US!
IT WOULD BE TERRIBLE TO LET ANYBODY LIKE THAT DOWN, WALT, BUT I CAN'T SEE ANY POSSIBILITY IN THE WORLD OF TAKING ON SUCH A RESPONSIBILITY.

Nightly Oiling Prevents Nails from Breaking

Olive Oil or Thick Cream Keeps Them Pliable.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You break a fingernail these days and you do more damage than just breaking a nail. You upset the whole symphonic line of ten perfectly tinted nails. The effect is somewhat like that of a tooth out. Or, that's the way you feel when the beautifully nurtured long nail breaks off. Right now is the breaking season, due to skin dryness from cold weather and steam heat. It seems like an accident when the thing happens.

I know a woman who has extremely long nails of which she is inordinately proud. They're all right on her, too, because she is the exotic type and dresses the rôle. She boasts of not having had a broken nail in two years, not since she started wearing night gloves atop hands soaked in warm olive oil. That's caring for nails, all right, heating the oil nightly and soaking hands and nails in it. But her hands are this woman's particular pride. Some women hate the oil treatment, find it sticky and not quickly absorbtive as are certain hand products on the market.

The point merely is that something can be done to keep nails from breaking just at that moment when you were planning they'd do you proud for a particular dinner or bridge date. Oiling them once or twice a week usually is found sufficient. But a good old habit and a quick and easy one is to save some of that cream, with which you're performing your nightly cleanup, for your hands and massage them right down to the finger tips. It's good for the hand skin, fine for the nails, and excellent for the cuticle around the nail.

Prints the Spring Fashion Guide

Spring is backing Regency fashions—frilly jabots, wide, forward-jutting revers, peplums. Rivaling the Regency dandy as a fashion influence is the European peasant. Her picturesque costumes are responsible for gathered necklines, smocked and shirred yokes, and full sleeves, gathered tight at the cuffs. Still another contributor to this year's fashion is demure "Miss 1860." To her we owe the fitted basque-like lines of jackets and the swagger-length coats. That classic favorite, the redingote, or dress-and-coat costume, is more important than ever this year—and comes in any number of variations. See these style points illustrated in the fashions shown on this page.

The suit frock in print with the basque-inspired jacket is a typical Teenya fashion. Note its corded taffeta weave revers and cuffs. A bright, colorful print on navy or brown. 11 to 17. $7.95.

The gathered neckline and the smocked yoke show that Teenya borrowed the idea for this chic frock from a peasant fashion. The high waistline, too, is a peasant note, and it's very young and becoming. In navy and high colors. 11 to 17. Of crepe. $7.95.

Teenya Frocks, Fifth Floor.

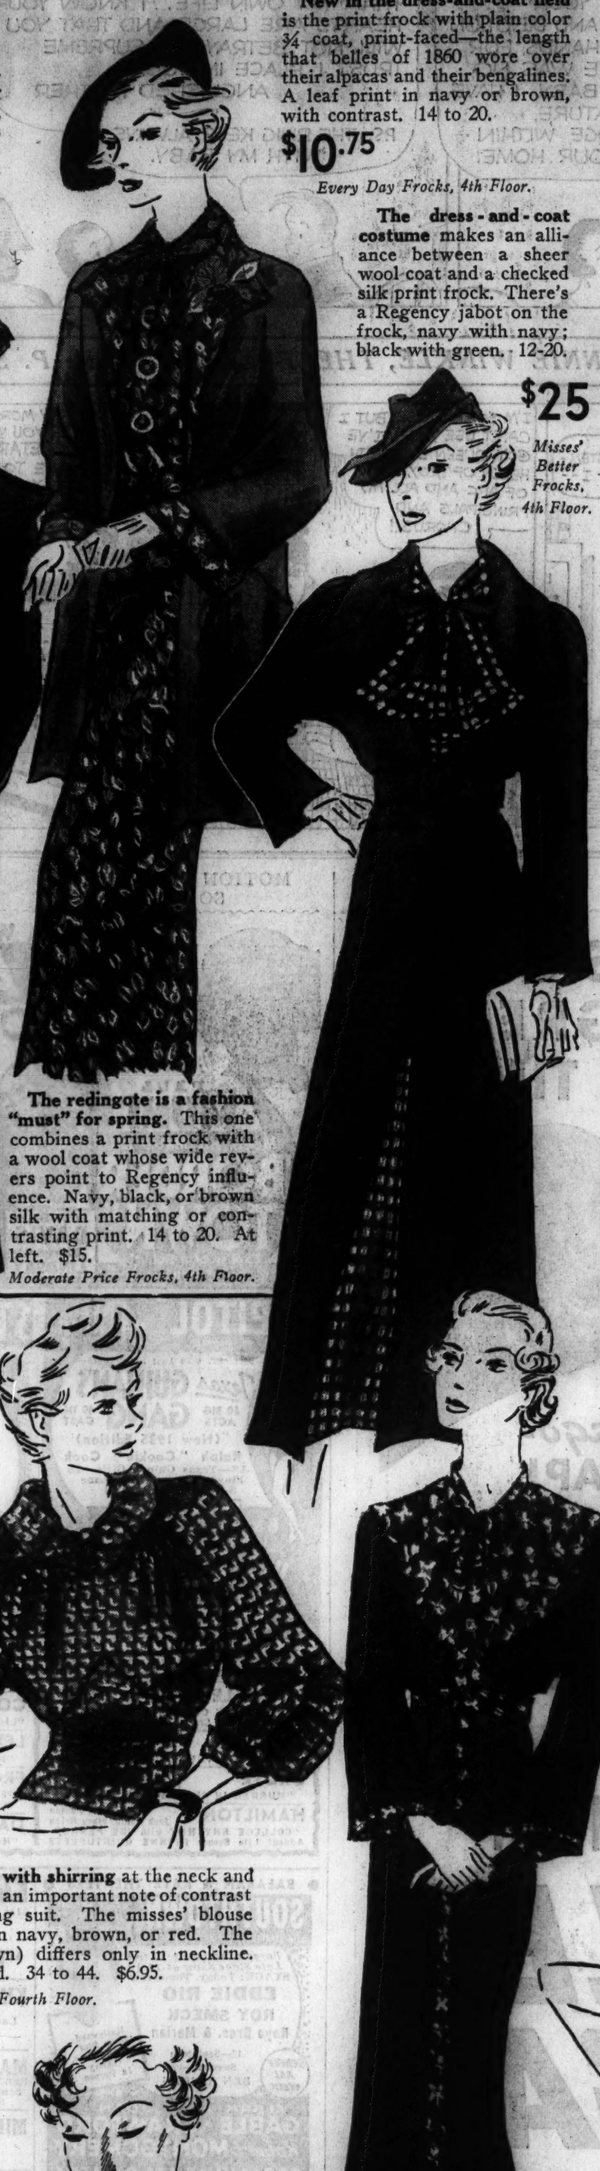
Moderate Price Frocks, 4th Floor.



New in the dress-and-coat field is the print frock with plain color ¾ coat, print-faced—the length that belles of 1860 wore over their alpacas and their bengalines. A leaf print in navy or brown, with contrast. 14 to 20.

$10.75

Every Day Frocks, 4th Floor.

$25

Misses' Better Frocks, 4th Floor.

$6.95

The all silk print blouse with shirring at the neck and three-quarter sleeves adds an important note of contrast to your plain color spring suit. The misses' blouse shown, 32 to 38, comes in navy, brown, or red. The women's style (not shown) differs only in neckline. Navy, brown, aqua, or red. 34 to 44. $6.95.

Blouses, Fourth Floor.

Necklines of other days make headlines today. "State-occasion" frills of other days are put to everyday use by nonchalant Miss 1935. And a charming affair she makes of it via Carson's Neckwear Section. These frilly net ruffles make news today. Three styles, two with cuffs, in white, pink, or yellow.

$1.95

Neckwear, First Floor.

$7.95

A spring perennial, this semi-redingote frock with Regency details marking it a first fashion. Of crepe in dark brown, navy, and black, combined with gay prints. Slightly fitted, with a slim, straight skirt and a new accent in the scallops and "acorn" tipped ties at the neck. 16½ to 26½.

Morning Frocks, Third Floor.

Accent on the pretty in this rayon singlette that has won its stripes and uses them to advantage. Lace trims the fitted bandeau top and the panty. In tearose, sizes 32 to 40.

Knit Underwear, Third Floor. $2

BADGERS SEEK SHARE OF BIG 10 TITLE TONIGHT

GOLDEN GLOVES FLYWEIGHTS ARE BEST IN HISTORY

Semi-Finalists Can Really Battle.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The four 112 pound boxers who will fight it out next Friday night for the 1935 Golden Gloves championship are the greatest single group of flyweights in the history of the eight years of competition in Chicago. Those who followed the Tournament of Champions this week will agree they stood out during the competition. Here are their names:

Patsy Urso, Detroit.
John Noto, C. Y. O. champion, Chicago.
Ben Finnerty, Omaha.

The quartet boasts of enough honors to adequately cover the distance from Omaha to Cleveland. But before we tell you more about these boys let us remind you that if you wish to be among the 21,000 or more who will see the 16 semi-final and eight championship fights Friday night at the Stadium you should hurry to THE TRIBUNE public service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, or to the lobby of Tribune Tower. Seats are becoming scarce.

They'll Pack the Stadium.

Levels, who was born 18 years ago in Memphis, Tenn., must be given first consideration. When he was 16 Levels won the Cleveland city championship. In 1934 he won the Cleveland Plain Dealer title, and followed with his victory in the Chicago Golden Gloves. He is coached by Billy O'Donnell, Cleveland.

Urso, also 18, has been boxing two years. Last year Patsy entered the Ann Arbor, Mich., Golden Gloves tournament. As a winner there he advanced to Grand Rapids and won the tournament sponsored by the Grand Rapids Press. Urso reached the 1934 semi-finals and lost to Johnny Brown, champion of the Catholic Youth Organization. But Patsy earned a place on the Chicago intercity squad and led off in Madison Square Garden with a victory.

Urso Fought Against Poland.

Urso represented Chicago last May in the international bouts at the Stadium with the amateur boxing champions of Poland and was beaten in a great three round scrap.

Patsy is employed as an apprentice toolmaker in a Detroit auto plant. His boxing instructor is Mickey Krauss.

Chicago will pin its hopes for a championship in the 112 pound class on Noto, winner of this year's C. Y. O. tournament. Johnny is 19 years of age and attends Austin High school. Of Italian extraction, Noto came to the United States seven years ago. Last year he emerged from THE TRIBUNE'S novice tournament as the best of a field of a hundred boxers. He then demonstrated his experience by taking first place in the C. Y. O. tournament in class A last December.

Johnny Will Go to College.

This victory won for Noto a Bishop Sheil scholarship by means of which Johnny will achieve his ambition of obtaining a college education. Noto is coached by Paddy Kane and Dick Fitzpatrick of the C. Y. O. staf. His rapid advance is a credit to this training.

Finnerty, a 17 year old senior in South High school, Omaha, Neb., will represent the Omaha World-Herald in the semi-finals Friday. Ben is Irish, the necessary complement to the field of two Italians and a colored boy. His father was a boxer, so Finnerty comes by his love of the game quite naturally. Ben won the 1934 and 1935 Omaha Golden Gloves championships and the Midwest A. A. U. title in 1934.

Finnerty is a golfer and shoots consistently in the high 70s, which is something to shout about for a 112 pound boy. Mickey O'Neill of Omaha is his boxing instructor and hopes to see his protégé continue his education at some college following graduation from South High this June.

Now for the Finals!

Three nights of fighting in the Tournament of Champions have reduced the Golden Gloves field to the best fighters of Chicagoland. Champions will be crowned next Friday night at the Chicago Stadium.

If you saw the thrilling battles this week you know what great fighting is to be offered on the night of March 8. If you missed out on this boxing treat just ask any one who was there and he'll tell you it's the greatest boxing show ever staged.

Tickets for the finals are 55 cents, $1.10, $1.65, and $2.20. All $3.30 seats have been sold. Send check or money order to Golden Gloves Ticket Manager, Tribune Tower, Chicago, or drop in at The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, and Tribune Tower.

WHITE SOX HOLD FIRST PRACTICE AT SPRING CAMP

Earnshaw to Work Again on Bonus Basis.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 1.—The town wore its very best sun kissed atmosphere today as a form of greeting for the incoming White Sox. The Sox themselves were as pleased about the weather as were the local press agents, so just to demonstrate their appreciation the major leaguers dug right in with their cleats and went through more than two hours of labor as their spring training opener. Nothing strenuous was attempted, Manager Jim Dykes preferring to restrict the program until about next Tuesday.

As soon as the contingent from Chicago arrived this morning Dykes let it be known that he had altered the training program for the second squad, which wasn't scheduled to appear until March 8. He has wired all the absent employés to be here Tuesday if possible, and not any later than Wednesday.

Ready for Batting Practice.

This was done because some of the pitchers, having trained during the winter, are about ready to serve in batting practice. Hence there is no necessity for delaying the assembling of such of the outfielders and infielders as are now missing.

After Dykes had delivered the customary pep talk in the clubhouse this morning the first to appear on the practice field was none other than Glenn Wright, former National league star. Trailing him closely was another somewhat old fellow named George Earnshaw. Wright is determined to attempt a comeback, and to this end did some preliminary training. If he can't run Luke Appling off short or Jack Hayes off second, Wright will endeavor to cause some discomfort for Zeke Bonura at first base.

Bonura Still Balks.

Incidentally, nothing fresh in the shape of a bulletin has been received from New Orleans, stronghold of the balky Bonura. The youthful Italian is sitting tight on his demand for $10,000. Lou Comiskey, the Sox president, also is sitting tight on his offer of $7,000 with an extra $1,000 bonus if deserved. As President Lou weighs in excess of 300 pounds against Bonura's 200, the former should turn out to be the tighter sitter of the pair.

Earnshaw's desire to bear down right from the jump is easily explained. The former Mackman operated last season under a contract that called for a definite salary and an extra $500 for every victory over ten. He picked up $2,000 in bonus money that way.

Earnshaw Is Confident.

It was made public today that the big right hander had signed a contract with a similar clause. He likes that kind of an arrangement, because it makes him take his work more seriously. The club likes it, too, so both parties are happy. Earnshaw thinks that if he could win 14 last season with a team badly riddled by injuries he can attain at least 16 favorable decisions in the impending campaign.

Ambers Beats Sammy Fuller in 15 Rounds

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Lou Ambers demonstrated his ability to go the championship distance and take a punch tonight when he hammered out a 15 round decision over Sammy Fuller of Boston, before a crowd of 10,000 at Madison Square Garden.

Jack Dempsey was the referee and cast one-third of a unanimous vote. Ambers, the New York boxing commission's No. 1 challenger for Barney Ross' lightweight championship, won 12 of the 15 rounds, losing only the first, third and fifteenth.

He Can Take It.

Fuller's crushing left hooks to the body and to the head and jaw in the first and third rounds satisfactorily tested Ambers' resistance. The challenger was stung several times with vicious drives, but never wilted. In the second round, and through every round thereafter until the last, Ambers carried the fight steadily, untiringly, peppering away in an attack that completely bewildered Fuller. It was Ambers' first 15 round fight.

In the third round the challenger deliberately held out his chin as an inviting target and Fuller bashed it with left and right without result. Fuller was so hard pressed in the fourth and again in the sixth that he slipped awkwardly as he missed powerful hooks.

Fuller Rallies.

A flurry of straight lefts and rights to the jaw followed a solid right that sent Fuller back on his heels in the fifth. Until the last Ambers kept up a steady, bewildering fire, driving home both hands to the body.

Fuller rallied in the 15th and hurt Ambers with lefts to the body and both hands to the jaw. But Ambers recovered in time to launch a furious head-to-head exchange at the bell.

It was announced after the fight that Ambers' next start will be against Tony Canzoneri, and that if he defeats the former champion, he will be matched against Ross outdoors next summer.

Kit Klein Sets World Record for 1,000 Meters

KONGSBERG, Norway, March 1.—(AP)—Kit Klein, the United States champion from Buffalo, today set a new world skating record, covering 1,000 meters in 1:42.3. The old mark was 1:45.7. Miss Klein also won the 500 meters in 49.8 seconds.

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1935: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE betting is 8 to 5 that Babe Ruth will take over the management of the Braves next season, if not before. . . . Babe hasn't eaten bread or butter in four months and he is now down to 250 pounds. . . . Bobby Jones has told friends that his appearance in the Masters' tournament on his course at Augusta, Ga., April 4 to 7, will be his last in that event and he intimates he will go out to win it. . . . Lieut. Tom Hamilton, who came to Chicago the other day especially to see the Golden Gloves bouts, says he has to build from the ground up on his Naval academy football team. . . . Most of last year's winning team have completed their period of eligibility. . . . Until this spring Roger Peckinpaugh, who now assists Lew Fonseca in the presentation of the American league movie, had not missed going to training camp in twenty-five years. . . . Aubrey Devine, one time Iowa football star, is attorney for a gold mining company in Arizona. . . . Jimmy Johnston, matchmaker at Madison Square Garden, once was asked: "Is boxing a legitimate business?" . . . To which Johnston replied: "Legitimate business is just a figure of speech." . . .

Jimmy Londos, wrestling champion, is an expert acrobat, swimmer, and performer on the rings. . . . The Cubs disavow any ulterior buildup motive in scheduling a heavy bush league exhibition calendar this spring. . . . On the other hand, officials claim they are serving as martyrs to the cause of establishing good will among the somewhat hostile Pacific coast leaguers. . . . Dick Hanley and Adam Walsh, center on the Notre Dame Four Horseman team and at present assistant coach at Harvard, are being considered for the head coachship at Bowdoin college in Maine. . . . An unusual goal was scored recently in a hocky game at Illinois. . . . In a scramble in front of the net the defending goalie, Mel Gimbel, recovered the puck and sent it flying down the ice. . . . The opposing defense was drawn out during the mêlée so the other goalie went out to make the easy stop, but he tripped and the puck dribbled into the net, scoring the winning point. . . . Eddie Doran, 13 year old Melbourne jocky, won his first race on a horse one year older than himself. . . .

Chief Bender, Connie Mack's old Indian pitcher, is selling men's clothing in a Philadelphia department store. . . . Casey Stengel, Dodgers' manager, was the best dancer in Brooklyn in his playing days. . . . Bob Lockhart, former Northwestern basketball star, is employed in the insurance department of Montgomery Ward. . . . Although the Kirksville, Mo., Teachers didn't lose a football game last fall, gridiron receipts lacked $950 of meeting expenses. . . . Another starting pitcher Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs hopes to land before the start of the season will not arrive by the trade route, if he can help it. . . . The Cub boss thinks he might capture his man by claiming material on which other teams will be asking waivers within the next six weeks. . . . When Capt. Ray Morstadt of the Marquette basketball team scored 22 points against Lawrence the other night he ran his total for three years of varsity competition to an even 500. . . . Only two players on the Pirates' roster come from Pennsylvania. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Jake Schaefer of Chicago won the world's 18.2 balkline championship. . . . Jim Maloney beat Dan Bright in 10 rounds at New York. . . . Sammy Mandell, Rockford, Ill., lightweight, entered the New York boxing commission's 135 pound elimination tournament. . . . Paavo Nurmi cracked two more world track records in New York. . . . Frankie Frisch, Giants second baseman and field captain, came to terms with John McGraw and signed a one year contract.

GRIMM ARRANGES BATTING ORDERS FOR 2 CUB TEAMS

Lindstrom Hits Cleanup Behind Klein.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 1.—Vice President-Manager Charlie Grimm today was favored by a swell, hot day as he directed his Cubs in the first intensive drill of the year. He drove the lads hard, figuring on taking it easier over the week-end in case aches and pains develop.

Though Grimm does not plan to stage a practice game until a week from tomorrow, his first act was to select two teams, listing definite batting orders to be observed in each day's hitting drill. One of these presents the exact front, in personnel and order, which is expected to prevail on opening day. It has Kiki Cuyler leading off, Bill Herman second, Chuck Klein batting No. 3, Freddy Lindstrom in the cleanup spot, Tuck Stainback No. 5, Grimm sixth, Bill Jurges seventh and Gabby Hartnett eighth.

Rookies Get a Cheer.

The day was marked by the usual opening day enthusiasms for newcomers. On the first day the side line rooting section always picks out two or three gents who are certain to nudge vets out of the picture. The fact that such gents frequently fail to get to Wrigley field never seems to slow this ceremonial.

Today the huzzahs were for Cihocki, for several seasons acknowledged a great shortstop while on the staf of the Philadelphia Athletics, but who never was proclaimed a great all around performer until today; for Cavarretta, who is a future star and no first day foolin', and one Walter Stephenson, a catcher who was a tower of strength in some class Z league last season.

Bosses Clutter Up Park.

There were, too, several rounds of hosannas for Tex Carleton and Lefty French, whose talents are classified by virtue of previous experience in the National league. They got the cheers because it seemed to the side line ilk that they showed great eagerness to be at their tasks. They were first on the field, first to run around the enclosures, and first to step on the pitching rubbers. Carlton gained 17 pounds during the off season and hopes to gain more in training. French gained 10 pounds and hopes to lose it in training.

After the Cub officials had looked over the first part of the drill Owner P. K. Wrigley went to the bullpen with a glove for a workout. He was joined immediately by John O. Seyes, vice president; Business Manager-Treasurer Boots Weber, also with gloves, and Charley Drake, assistant to the president and director of public relations, who had a bat. A brisk session was held by the quartet until Vice President-Manager Grimm had to holler to them to move over lest they get hit by batted balls. It may be said as a tribute to Mr. Grimm's tact that he did not holler "Get the 'ell outathere," the stock admonition to other encroachers on playing premises.

The Old Doc Is Busy.

The usual campaign to kid Dr. Andy Lotshaw, Cub trainer, was in full swing this morning, but just the same the old doc is and for two weeks at least will continue to be the busiest and most valuable man on the scene.

Little was said today about the widely heralded "Unwelcome to California" slogan which seems to have been adopted out here. There has been no change in the setup, however, and the probability that the Cubs will train in Florida next spring remained at least no worse than an even money bet.

Lockwood, Midget Race Driver, Dies on Coast

Los Angeles, Cal., March 1.—(AP)—James Lockwood, driver of a midget racing car, died today of injuries suffered in a collision at Gilmore stadium last night. Lockwood's car, traveling 60 miles an hour around a curve, locked wheels with another machine and overturned.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 1.—Dear Wake: Back in 1887 and subsequent years, when snow and ice sparkled as Jack Frost made his entrance, a group of us girls and boys from the old west side gathered at Christmas time for a little impromptu celebration.

Here are some of the boys: James McAndrews, who always said he would get into the Washington "squeeze" and did; Bob [Robert M.] Sweitzer, who still has the same jolly good natured smile of years ago; Kickham Scanlan, even then noted for his knowledge of law subjects; Jimmy Walsh, and William [Buster] Palmer.

Among the girls were the Misses O'Donnell, Grady, Baker, Bradshaw, Litt, and Ullie Skerstrum, the actress who danced her way into public favor.

We'd take a trip down to Union park to look at Nellie the bear, always afraid of water. On the way back, to Rohn's pavilion for a German lunch of redhots, bologna, Swiss cheese on rye, and coffee followed by a shrinking scramble by the boys to see who would pay the bill.

We then viewed Christmas decorations in stores and residences, ending by singing "Good-by, My Lover, Good-by." Kathrine P. Cornell.

About the year 1880 I lived at Robey and Van Buren. Some distance away at Wood and Taylor lived my aunt. Both residences were "out in the suburbs," and because the section was so sparsely populated we could exchange signals by hanging different colored cloths from our windows, plainly visible across the intervening prairie.

We had berry bushes in our yard and a grape arbor. There was a wonderful high swing suspended by a thick rope from a tall silver leaf poplar tree which was the playground for children of our few neighbors.

Contentment.

I have found contentment
In doing homely things—
In frying puffy doughnuts
To crispy-golden rings;
In baking nut-sweet bread
For children to take their toll;
In working yellow butter
In a delft-blue earthen bowl.

O, I have found contentment
In simple, homely things—
In clean and white-scrubbed floors,
And a copper kettle that sings;
In my own to love and care for,
In work and wholesome play;
O, I have found contentment
Increasing every day!

Scotties.

We were listening to the virtues of Whiskers, a Scottie, being extoled by his youthful owner in a Pasadena home when Mrs. George Chapman, visitor from Evanston, entered and exclaimed: "What is it? A dog or a pig?" Did she get a look from the owner?

Which reminds of the time a group of us attending Golden Gloves bouts in New York paid a Sunday visit to Westbrook Pegler's Connecticut farm. Peg kept lamenting the absence of "Annie," although he did not explain Annie was a Scottie. Finally he spied an object coming across fields and exclaimed triumphantly: "There comes Annie." We all rushed to the window, whereupon Arch Ward in surprise uttered: "Good gosh, it's a cat!"

WISCONSIN TO MEET MAROONS; N. U. TO PLAY

Marquette Defeats Notre Dame, 36-21.

Games Tonight

Indiana at Northwestern.
Wisconsin at Chicago.
Minnesota at Illinois.
Michigan at Ohio State.

Major interest in the Big Ten basketball race will center in the metropolitan area tonight where Wisconsin will attempt to clinch a tie for the championship by beating Chicago on the Midway and Indiana fights to preserve an outside chance to share in the title by conquering Northwestern again at Patten gymnasium.

Other games are scheduled at Champaign, where Minnesota plays Illinois, and at Columbus, where Michigan and Ohio State meet.

N. U. Improves Offense.

Northwestern looms as Indiana's chief menace to title consideration despite the fact that the Purple wilted in the final minutes at Bloomington last Saturday and lost to the Hoosiers, 36 to 32. The Wildcats have spent considerable time on defense this week, but their outstanding improvement is expected to be on the offense, where Jess McAnally, rangy center, has finally given evidences of scoring strength.

McAnally got six baskets against Indiana last week and if he can continue as effective tonight, Lyle Fisher, the team's leading scorer, will benefit accordingly. Opposing guards will be forced to concentrate more on McAnally, foregoing some of the special attention they have showered on Fisher since his remarkable scoring feats during early season games.

Maroons Have Bad Season.

Chicago winds up one of its most disastrous seasons with the Wisconsin game. The Maroons, beaten in every conference start except one, made a good showing against the Badgers in a previous meeting at Madison, losing by only two points, but outside of Bill Haarlow they have nothing which should prove embarrassing to Wisconsin's title chances.

While the Badgers are now leading the pack, with Purdue, Indiana, and Illinois tied for second, a game behind, the fight for the championship is not over by any stretch of imagination. The results of tonight's games and those on Monday, when the Badgers must meet Purdue at Lafayette, may bring four teams down to the finish tied for first place. Such an eventuality will mean four champions, for the conference permits no playoffs for titles.

Four Way Tie Possible.

To end in a four way tie, however, it will be necessary for the remainder of the race to produce the following results: Purdue victorious over Northwestern and Wisconsin; Illinois victorious over Minnesota and Michigan; Indiana triumphant over Northwestern and Minnesota; Wisconsin victorious over Chicago.

NOTRE DAME LOSES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., March 1.—With Capt. Ray Morstadt playing one of the greatest games of his career, Marquette's basketball squad closed its season tonight with a 36 to 21 triumph over Notre Dame in the Auditorium. Forty-five hundred saw the game.

Morstadt, concluding his three years of college competition, collected nine field goals and two free throws.

The Hilltoppers led most of the way. Their advantage at the intermission was 13 to 10.

ILLINOIS BEATEN BY NOTRE DAME IN TRACK MEET

Murphy Breaks Armory Mark for High Jump.

Champaign, Ill., March 1.—[Special.]—Capt. Vincent Murphy of Notre Dame high jumped 6 feet 7 inches for a new Illinois armory record tonight, as the Irish track squad won a dual track meet from the Illini, 71½ to 32½.

It was the first time in history that Notre Dame had ever been able to win a dual track meet on the Illini track.

Murphy's leap broke the former armory record of 6 feet 6 inches, held by Willis Ward of Michigan.

The only Illinois first place was gained by Jack Dufresne in the two miles. Mike Layden tied the armory record in the high hurdles. Don Elser put the shot 47 feet 11 inches.

Summaries:

MILE RUN—Won by McKenna, Notre Dame; Dufresne, Illinois, second; Galland, Illinois, third. Time, 4:30.1.

60 YARD DASH—Won by Moore, Notre Dame; Jordan, Notre Dame, second; Wieth, Illinois, third. Time, :06.4.

440 YARD RUN—Won by Bernard, Notre Dame; Parsons, Notre Dame, second; Frey, Illinois, third. Time, :51.4.

HONOR ROCKNE IN NATION-WIDE FETES MONDAY

Kansas City, Mo., March 1.—(AP)—Notre Dame's immortal Knute Rockne will be honored from coast to coast on the birth anniversary of the great football coach Monday.

Young Billy Rockne will place a wreath on the monument marking the spot in the Flint hills of Kansas, near Cottonwood falls, where his father and seven others plummeted to death with a crippled airliner on March 31, 1931.

Accompanying Billy will be an alumni group including Larry Mullins, the last Rockne fullback and now athletic director of St. Benedict's college, where Billy is a student, and Dr. D. M. [Mike] Nigro of Kansas City, friend of Rockne, who authored the plan to hold nation-wide memorial banquets on Rockne's birthday, starting this year.

Alumni groups throughout the country responded to Nigro's suggestion, which is indorsed by the Rev. John F. O'Hara, president of Notre Dame; Elmer Layden, head coach and athletic director at Notre Dame, and Tom Lieb, athletic director of Loyola, Los Angeles.

C. Y. O. TEAMS TO PLAY TOMORROW FOR THREE TITLES

The title games in the Catholic Youth Organization Basketball league will be played tomorrow afternoon at Loyola gymnasium.

Featuring the program will be the contest between the heavyweight teams from St. Pius parish in Chicago's west side and St. John's parish in Joliet. This is the first time in the five year history of the C. Y. O. Basketball league that a Joliet team has fought its way to the finals. The St. John's five is made up of former Catholic High players, all of whom were on the national title winning teams of 1927, 1928, or 1934.

EASTERN STARS VIE FOR TRACK TITLES TONIGHT

New York, March 1.—(AP)—One of the closest fights in years for individual titles and team points was forecast tonight as 250 eastern college athletes put in their final training for the fourteenth annual eastern intercollegiate A. A. A. A. indoor track and field meet in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Six teams are given a chance for the championship won by Manhattan last year. Manhattan, with a well balanced squad, again is listed as a leading contender with Harvard, Cornell, Columbia, Yale and New York U. not far behind.

Jim Londos Suspended by New York Commission

New York, March 1. — (AP) — Jim Londos, heavyweight wrestling champion, today was suspended indefinitly by the New York state athletic commission. The suspension was in line with the recent action of the California commission, which set Londos down for failure to go through with a match last Wednesday.

Stadium Drops Plan for Baer Bout March 15

Arrangements for the next professional boxing show at Chicago Stadium on March 15 will be completed today Co-Matchmaker James C. Mullen announced yesterday. Plans to present Max Baer on that date were abandoned after it was learned a lawsuit instituted in California against the heavyweight champion had been delayed until Tuesday.

Chuck Heffner, Denver, Colo., middleweight, has established training quarters at Loyola university gymnasium for his eight round bout with George Black of Milwaukee Monday at Marigold Gardens. Lou Naseef, Kewanee, Ill., junior welterweight, has been substituted for Al Pahl against Bob Tinsley in a four round preliminary.

Dick Sisk sparred six rounds yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium for his eight round encounter against Henry Rothler at the Midway arena Monday under the direction of his brother and manager, Johnny Sisk. Chicago Bears football player. His opponents were Jack Elverillo, welterweight, and Gene Connelly, junior lightweight.

Two of the 32 qualifiers for the semi-finals and finals of the eighth annual Golden Gloves tournament at the Stadium next Friday opened drills in the loop yesterday. They are Otis Thomas, Chicago's heavyweight representative, who is attempting to win his second consecutive diamond studded Golden Glove, and Bill Borchert, Green Bay, Wis., welterweight.

Bill Treest, Batavia, Ill., light heavyweight, engaged in his first boxing in a month yesterday. . . . Treest, who was forced to take a layoff after undergoing an operation, was impressive in the workout against Adolph Wiater, the Green Bay heavyweight.

Joey Burman, former bantamweight leader, is back from a five weeks' rest at Miami Beach, Fla., weighing 158 pounds. . . . Chairman Joe Triner of the state boxing commission will go to Washington, D. C., tomorrow to attend a liquor code convention. . . . He plans to return by airplane Thursday so he may be present at the Golden Gloves finals at the Stadium.

Roosevelt Triumphs Over Von Steuben, 44-18.

Victories by Calumet and Roosevelt featured the final round of basketball games in the heavyweight division of the Chicago Public High School league yesterday. Calumet captured the south section championship, defeating Hirsch, 34 to 31, while Roosevelt scored its eighth consecutive victory, triumphing over Von Steuben, 44 to 18.

A rally in the final quarter enabled Calumet to win from Hirsch. It was Hirsch's first defeat in league competition. The lead changed three times during the game. Hirsch led at the end of the first period, 7 to 5, but Calumet held a 12 to 11 advantage at the half. However, Hirsch regained the lead at the third period, 25 to 20.

Decide Title Sites Today.

A meeting will be held this morning in the offices of A. H. Pritzlaff., director of physical education, to decide the dates and sites of the quarter-final round of games which will be played next week. The following teams have qualified for the title playoffs in the lightweight and heavyweight divisions:

LIGHTWEIGHT.
South section—Hirsch and Parker.
Central section—Hyde Park and Farragut.
West section—Tuley and Manley.

HEAVYWEIGHT.
South section—Calumet and Hirsch.
Central section—Tilden and Harrison.
West section—Marshall and Crane Tech.

Wimmer, forward, led Roosevelt's attack against Von Steuben. He scored nine field goals and one free throw. Roosevelt led at the end of the first half, 26 to 7, Von Steuben scoring all its points in the first period.

Elgin Ties for Title.

By beating Rockford 45 to 35 while Freeport whipped West Aurora, 28 to 20, the Elgin heavyweight basketball team tied West Aurora for the championship of the Big Six conference last night. Each finished with eight games won and two lost.

Bloom Lights Win in South Suburban Race

Bloom lightweights won the south suburban championship last night with a 21 to 19 victory over University High. The champions won eight of ten games this season. Thornton Fractional took second place with seven victories and three losses.

Deerfield won its first heavyweight basketball championship in the Suburban league by defeating New Trier, 38 to 18, last night. Evanston lost to Morton, 34 to 30, at Cicero. One overtime battle was played between Proviso and Waukegan, with the former winning, 37 to 36.

The Glenbard lightweights won the West Suburban league title by whipping Hinsdale, 31 to 20, on Hinsdale's heavies, crowned champions last week, lost, 25 to 24, to Glenbard.

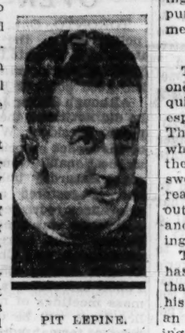
Lepine's Coming, Blackhawks; Better Tie Strings on Puck

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The intelligence department of the Blackhawks held a lengthy conference yesterday to devise ways and means of combatting the invasion of the Montreal Canadiens at the Stadium tomorrow evening, but spent the greater part of the day concentrating on one member of the Flying Frenchmen — M. Pit Lepine.



PIT LEPINE.

M. Lepine being one of the most talented thieves in the National Hocky league, there was much thumbing over of his record as such, for he has made more than one raid on the Hawks, who still regard him as a wily operator not to be trifled with. A copy of the record, which is to be found on the blotter of every team in the circuit, follows:

Ah, the Record.

Name—Alfred Pierre Lepine, alias Pit.
Born—July 30, 1901, at Ste.-Anne de Bellevue, Que.
Convictions—First arrested with Canadien gang in 1925-'26 season, and has been convicted of poke checking every year since. Was an accomplice of the notorious Howie Morenz and Aurel Joliat in the Stanley cup hauls of 1930 and 1931. Authorities have worked for years to convict him on a charge of lifting the Hart Most Valuable Player trophy, but state's attorneys have been unable to convince juries despite plenty of evidence.

All of this police information might be very interesting and valuable to the Hawks' secret service, but might also convey to the unknowing the erroneous impression that this Lepine is a larcenous desperado. On the contrary, off the ice he is a law abiding, peace loving party, a friend to one and all. Once in uniform, however, the man is a dangerous character. His forte, as has been noted, is poke checking, which, to hocky folks, makes purse snatching and highway robbery mere schoolboy pranks.

A Sly Trick When Well Done.

This business of poke checking is one of the high crimes of hocky, requiring years of practice and being especially maddening to its victims. The culprit idly loiters in center ice, while eager enemy forwards take over the puck in their own territory and sweep down upon his goal. As they reach him, he slyly thrusts his stick out at the puck carrier, and the latter and his mates find themselves speeding on with no puck.

The poke checker in the meantime has taken charge of the puck with that flick of his stick, and, flanked by his own wings, swoops down upon an often unprotected goalie. The scoring possibilities in this maneuver are limitless, and M. Lepine is not one to miss making the most of them.

The Hawks decided yesterday that they might try the ruse of jostling Pit tomorrow night, but they will have to do plenty of jostling to arouse him, for since his amateur days with the Nationals of Montreal he has been one of the cleanest workmen in hocky. Thus far this year he has done only 12 minutes' time in the penalty box.

The Memory Lingers On.

The Hawks may be in the mood for plenty of bumping tomorrow, for they came back to town yesterday still smarting from that 5 to 1 whipping the Detroit Red Wings handed them Thursday night. They are, of course, privileged to point out that the Wings began building their lead while Howie Morenz was serving a major penalty sentence, but Manager Clem Loughlin will attempt to get them going again at noon today, when he will hold a workout on the Stadium ice.

The Hawks may be without the valuable services of Johnny Gottselig, their No. 1 puck carrier, who suffered several torn ligaments in his right hand during a cross checking debate with Syd Howe at Detroit Thursday. He has been ordered to bathe the hand in hot water constantly, and may be able to work. If he doesn't, Norm Locking will take his place. Donnie McFadyen and Art Wiebe, both recent invalids, are reported ready for duty.

TROOP FACES 122D

The Black Horse Troop poloists will meet the 122d Field Artillery in the feature of three games at the Chicago Riding club, 333 East Erie street, this evening.

Opening the program the Riding Club Seniors will meet the Riding Club Bees. Capt. Maxwell Corpening, Jim Hannah, and Dave Silberman will line up against the Bees, who will use Harry O. Owen Jr., Bud Collins, and Clarence Jones.

Teams Are Well Matched.

The Black Horse Troop and the 122d Field Artillery are well matched and the highlight of the game will be the duel between Lieut. Art Zimmerman and Jack Armstrong, both of whom will hold down the No. 2 posts. Lieut. William F. Kirby and Capt. Roy D. Keehn Jr. will cover their regular beats for the Troopers, while Zimmerman's mates will be Lieuts. Cliff Harrison and Carl Johnson.

The Tiger Lilies, composed of girls, will seek their fourth victory from the Centaurs, a men's trio.

PROUTY BEATEN IN STATE TABLE TENNIS TOURNEY

The defeat of Carleton Prouty, star Chicago player, featured the opening round of play in the Illinois state table tennis tournament at Patten gymnasium last night. Prouty, who was a member of the Chicago intercity team in the recent national matches, lost his first round match to Carl Breutner from Elmhurst. Prouty won the first game, 21-18, but dropped the next two games by scores of 21-12 and 21-18.

Play in the junior singles will be held this morning, and the doubles and mixed doubles will be held in the afternoon. Finals in both the men's and women's singles will be held tonight after the basketball game between Northwestern and Indiana.

A. B. C. TOURNEY OPENS WITH 45 TEAMS BOWLING

Syracuse, N. Y., March 1.—(AP)—The 35th annual American bowling congress tournament opened tonight, with 45 city and county teams using the 24 new alleys.

National A. B. C. officials, including August Jankowsky, Detroit, Elmer Baumgarten, Milwaukee, and Albert C. Lattin, New York, joined with Mayor Rolland B. Marvin and other civic leaders in starting the 41 day program.

Maine Leads in Prep Swim Preliminaries

Qualifiers

Maine	6	Hyde Park	2
University	5	Roosevelt	2
Austin	3	Morgan Park	2
Oak Park	3	Peoria Central	1
New Trier	3	Crane	1
Englewood	3	Danville	1
Tilden	2	Rockford	1

Maine Township High school, the defending champion, qualified four men and two relay teams to take the lead in the preliminaries of the Illinois state high school swimming meet at Patten gymnasium last night. University High was in second place with four men and one relay team. Finals in all eight events will be held today starting at 2:30 p. m.

Two meet records were broken. Adolph Kiefer, Roosevelt high school backstroke swimmer, cracked all existing prep school marks for the 100 yard backstroke when he went the distance in :60.2. The former meet record was 1:04 2, set by Rieke of Schurz high school in 1933. Kiefer also qualified in the 100 yard free style.

The 220 yard free style mark was cracked twice during the trial heats. Zerrien of Maine township won his heat in 2:23.5 and Jacobson of Austin, led his heat in 2:23.6. The old record was 2:25.2, set by Hickey of Tilden in 1932.

The qualifiers were:

JOHNNY GOODMAN WINS MATCH IN CARNIVAL EVENT

New Orleans, La., March 1.—(AP)—Johnny Goodman of Omaha rallied today to reach the quarter final round of the fourth annual carnival golf tournament. He defeated Charlie Moore, a Tulane university student on the 21st green.

P. G. A. TO ADMIT 64 QUALIFIERS TO MATCH PLAY

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—The professional championship—one of golf's longest and toughest grinds—will admit 64 players, instead of the customary 32, to match play this year. The first two rounds of man-to-man play will be reduced from 36 to 18 holes.

These changes were announced today by George R. Jacobus, president of the Professional Golfers association. By increasing the number of qualifiers the P. G. A. hopes to make the grade easier for veterans like Walter Hagen to gain the match play.

British May Enter.

Far in the background, too, there is the remote prospect that the members of the invading British Ryder cup team, who will play an American group late in September at the Ridgewood, N. J., Country club, will stay for the professional championship.

In the event all or some of the British desire to play in the tournament, it is likely the P. G. A. will waive the necessity of their competing in sectional qualifying rounds, such as American pros do annually a few weeks before the tournament.

Under the new system the championship will start Oct. 14 at the Twin Hills club in Oklahoma City, with a 36 hole medal play qualifying round. After the two 18 hole rounds of match play will come four rounds at 36 holes, with the finals on Sunday, Oct. 20.

Laffoon Leads Winners.

Ky Laffoon of Denver, victor in the $2,500 Phoenix open several days ago, is the leading money winner for the months of January and February.

Competing in nine tournaments and collecting in all, Laffoon, who won the Radix cup for the lowest scoring average during 1934, has amassed a total of $2,514 in prize money for a $54 margin over his closest pursuer, young Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., whose efforts so far have yielded $2,460 in 11 starts.

Injured Poloist Regains Partial Consciousness

Los Angeles, Cal., March 1.—[Special.]—A glimmer of consciousness returned today to Baron Maximilian Hugo Converse von Romberg, Santa Barbara sportsman, who was seriously injured a week ago in a polo game. He recognized his wife, but could not recognize his physician.

Sir Malcolm May Try for Record Today

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell is expected to make an attempt at a new automobile speed record of 300 miles an hour tomorrow on Daytona Beach. After weeks of waiting the sands are smooth again.

Lady Campbell, Sir Malcolm's wife, is nervous. Little Jean, their daughter, 11 years old, drops her cards as she plays rhummy in the hotel lobby with Odis Porter, the official timer, who has taught her this American game in the month they've been waiting.

Waiting Irks Campbell.

For the last month it's been Sir Malcolm, the fifty year old titled Englishman who can't get speed out of his blood, who has been restless. Lady Campbell has sunned herself on the beach, has been swimming daily, has played bridge nightly, enjoyng to the utmost the second visit she has made here with Sir Malcolm.

Now, with the next three days almost certain to hold the answer to Campbell's hopes as he sends the 2,500 horse powered rebuilt Blue bird down the sands after his own 272 mile an hour record, Sir Malcolm is easy. The waiting, the daily examinations of a beach that stubbornly refused to become smooth, are over. All he has to do now is step on the throttle and ride at hurricane speed through 11¼ miles, covering the middle one, he hopes, in 12 seconds.

Beach Is Improved.

"The beach has improved amazingly," he said today. "I shall go tomorrow for a test run unless something totally unexpected develops overnight."

No one pays much attention to the "test" part of it. Sir Malcolm always starts on "test" runs. The car feels good, the beach is smooth, he treads down hard,

YOUNG PEOPLE'S CHURCH SESSIONS HEAR DR. POLING

Conference Will Continue Through Tomorrow.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Dr. Daniel Poling, international church youth leader, last night opened a young people's conference which will continue through tomorrow under the joint auspices of the Chicago Church federation and the Society of Christian Endeavor. The conference is being held in two sections, at the First Presbyterian church, Evanston, and the Englewood Baptist church, 413 Englewood avenue.

Dr. Poling addressed both sections last night. He related his experiences during a recent European tour and declared he had met at least one communist who declared that "Jesus Christ is the only hope of the world."

Speaks at Paris Meeting.

This communist, addressing a meeting which Dr. Poling attended in Paris, drew a line of distinction between church membership and faith in Christ, Dr. Poling said.

Sessions of the conference will continue this morning in Evanston; this afternoon in Evanston and Englewood, and tonight in Englewood. The two sections of the conference each will be divided into nine discussion groups.

Wide Fields To Be Discussed.

The discussions will cover these fields: personal religion, missionary activity, world peace, the liquor question, a Christian economic order, leisure, inter racial relations, preparation for marriage, and home life.

In addition to Dr. Poling other widely known youth leaders participating in the sessions are Ralph C. Hutchinson, president of Washington and Jefferson college, Washington, Pa.; Dr. Frank D. Getty of Philadelphia, and Dr. O. G. Herbrecht of Des Moines.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Little Eagle Eye

B. S. PEARSALL, BUTTER INDUSTRY LEADER, IS DEAD

Benjamin S. Pearsall, 68 years old, nationally known figure in the butter industry, died yesterday in his Elgin home after a week's illness.

Mr. Pearsall, president of the butter company bearing his name, was active in the Illinois Manufacturers' association and the Illinois Chamber of Commerce. He was a former president of the American Institute of Margarine Manufacturers.

Mr. Pearsall opened his butter business in Elgin in 1909, and expanded his holdings until he had branches in Polo, Ill., and Long Beach, Cal. An outspoken critic of the NRA, he once threatened to close his business if forced to observe the New Deal rulings. He had never adopted the Blue Eagle.

Mr. Pearsall is survived by his widow, Leah, and five children. Funeral services will be held in the home on Monday, with burial in Bluff City cemetery.

MRS. THERESA FARREL, 50 years old, died Thursday night in her home at 1507 West 78th street. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at the Drexel Park Presbyterian church, 6359 South Marshfield avenue. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery. Mrs. Farrel is survived by a son, Fred, who has been organist and choir director at the church for many years.

MISSION FORCES CALLED WORLD'S ONE PEACE HOPE

Missionaries were described last night by the Rev. Dr. Brewer Eddy, head of the board of foreign missions of the Congregational church, as the only group working for real international friendship. Dr. Eddy was the principal speaker at a dinner of the Congregational union, a lay organization, in the Palmer house. He returned recently from a tour of Protestant missions in the orient and Near East.

"Missionaries have done more to make America understood than any other factor abroad," Dr. Eddy said. "If peace with Japan is maintained it will be due to the efforts of Protestant missionaries in Japan."

Conditions in foreign countries which he visited reveal that the world's problems are economic rather than political, Dr. Eddy said. Many nations are so near starvation that they have developed selfish nationalisms for protection, he added.

Woman Robbed; Boy Tries in Vain to Scare Bandits

In spite of the efforts of a 10 year old boy to aid her, Mrs. Stella Ahern was robbed of $50 and a watch last evening in an apartment building at 4903 Lake Park avenue, of which she is owner. The robbers, posing as prospective tenants, were shown to an apartment by Mrs. Ahern. There they dropped pretense and took the money. The boy, Donald Liggett, son of a tenant in the building, saw the holdup and shouted that he was going to release a dog to bite the men. One of the pair seized Donald and put him in a closet with Mrs. Ahern. Then the bandits fled.

Elizabeth Schaffer Dies; Chicago Resident 65 Years

Funeral services for Miss Elizabeth Schaffer, 74 years old, 455 West 28th street, resident of Chicago for 65 years, will be held this afternoon in the home of her nephew, Irving B. Arnold, 6632 South Lincoln street. Burial will be in Evergreen cemetery. Miss Schaffer died Thursday in the German Deaconess hospital. She was born in Germany and came to America when she was 2 years old. Five nephews survive.

Illinois Woman, 74, Dies; Leaves 68 Descendants

Pesotum, Ill., March 1.—[Special.]—Mrs. Mary Gilles, 74, who resided near here, died this morning. She is survived by 10 children, 48 grandchildren, and 10 great-grandchildren.

ECUADOR LINKS DEATH TO PLOT ON PRESIDENT'S LIFE

QUITO, Ecuador, March 1.—(AP)—Rumors that an attempt had been made to assassinate President Jose Velasco Ibarra were heard today following an autopsy performed on the body of Antonio Leiva, a chauffeur in the ministry of finance who was killed yesterday. Leiva often has acted as chauffeur for the president.

The chauffeur was found dead with a fractured skull in his automobile which had fallen over a cliff. It was at first believed he had met death accidentally, but the autopsy showed a bullet in his head.

Consulate Denies Story.

New York, March 1.—(AP)—The Ecuadorian consulate in New York said today it had been instructed to deny officially any rumored connection between the death of Antonio Leiva, chauffeur to the president of Ecuador, and a possible attempt to assassinate the executive.

H.K.Bush-Brown, Sculptor, Cousin of President, Dies

Washington, D. C., March 1.—(AP)—Henry Kirke Bush-Brown, 77, sculptor, died today at his home here. He was a cousin of President Roosevelt and close friend of the Delano side of the Roosevelt family. A day before his death the library committee of the house had recommended passage of a bill to erect a bronze cast of his work "Indian Buffalo Hunt" as a memorial in Potomac park here. "Indian Buffalo Hunt" was executed by Bush-Brown in 1893 for the Chicago Exposition.

George Word, Wounded World War Veteran, Dies

George Word, 44 years old, 1843 Lincoln avenue, veteran who was wounded and gassed during the world war, died suddenly yesterday in front of 2059 Lincoln avenue. He had been in ill health for several years. His landlord, Paul Witte, said Word formerly was a newspaper reporter in Chattanooga, Tenn., and Atlanta, Ga., and was later in several government hospitals for treatment.

W. A. Hubbard, Ex-Head of State Odd Fellows, Dies

MAE WEST, FILM FIRM ARE SUED; $100,000 ASKED

New York, March 1.—(AP)—Miss Frankie Baker, who claims to be the original Frankie of "Frankie and Johnny" duo, charged today that the motion picture "She Done Him Wrong" did her wrong too.

The complaint charges Miss West's performance in the picture "was intended to and did in fact" hold the plaintiff up as an object of "hatred, ridicule, shame and contempt, and induced an evil opinion of her in the minds of right-thinking people."

Whereas Miss Baker, who lives in Portland, Ore., "was and still is" a respectable woman, she allegedly is portrayed in the picture as a woman of easy virtue, as the "consort of gamblers and notorious criminals, and as a murderess.

"That plaintiff, in truth and in fact was the fiancée of Johnny, who was killed in St. Louis, Miss., by plaintiff in self defense, but Frankie Baker [who is plaintiff thinly disguised] is made to kill a woman in the motion picture."

MEXICANS PLAN U. S. BOYCOTT FOR STAND ON CHURCH

MEXICO CITY, March 1.—(AP)—The general confederation of city and rural workers of Mexico threatened a boycott against the United States today in retaliation for what it called the spread of Catholic propaganda there against the Mexican government.

A resolution adopted by the confederation condemned the "insulting imperialism of imperialist countries" and demanded direct action by the government toward that of the United States.

The measure assailed "the attitude of the Illinois legislature in condemning 'the campaign against religious liberty, liberty of the press, and liberty of education'" in this country. It called the Illinois development "nothing more than a consequence of the filthy intrigue of reaction among the American people and its institutions."

MRS. ERLANGER WINS APPEAL FOR WIDOW'S CLAIM UPON ESTATE

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—The Appellate division today confirmed the decision declaring Charlotte Fixel Erlanger the common law widow of Abraham L. Erlanger.

The decision was handed down by Surrogate John P. O'Brien on Aug. 3, 1932, and gave Mrs. Erlanger the right to the lion's share of the theatrical producer's formerly huge estate.

After O'Brien's decision Isidor J. Kresel, counsel for other Erlanger heirs, announced that the estate amounted to just $124.50.

Early in 1934 a referee reported to Surrogate James A. Delehanty that the estate was insolvent for half a million dollars.

Charlotte Fixel Erlanger's battle to establish that she had been Erlanger's common law wife was long and sensational. O'Brien's decision was 134,000 words long and filled nearly 500 typewritten pages.

BLAMES TAVERN IN MATE'S DEATH; SUES FOR $50,000

Mrs. Alka Patton, 1238 Oakdale avenue, filed suit for $50,000 damages in the Circuit court yesterday against Charles E. Elkin, owner of a tavern at 2874 Lincoln avenue, and Frieda and Barney Kaufmann, owners of the building.

The bill, drawn by Attorney Benjamin H. Feldman, alleges that Mrs. Patton's husband, Allen, was killed by an automobile on Feb. 1, 1934, while he was under the influence of liquor purchased in Elkin's tavern. The suit is brought under the Illinois dramshop act, which provides that a tavern owner is liable for damages resulting from liquor he has sold, and that the owner of the building is equally liable.

Patton, father of five children, was fatally injured when he was struck by an automobile driven by Gustav Hoffman at George street and Lincoln avenue.

DETROIT MOTOR DEALER, WOMAN KILLED IN CRASH

Hartsville, S. C., March 1.—(AP)—An unexplained highway accident today caused the deaths of Aaron Deroy, 54, Detroit automobile dealer and yachting enthusiast, and a woman traveling companion.

The woman was identified as Miss Lois Jones of Joplin, Mo. An undertaker said he had been notified her sister, Mrs. Frank Cone of Baltimore, would come here tomorrow to claim the body. In Baltimore Mrs. Cone said her sister left there with Deroy yesterday.

Distributor in Michigan.

Detroit, Mich., March 1.—(AP)—Aaron Deroy, reported killed in an automobile accident near Hartsville, S. C., today, was southern Michigan distributor for the Hudson Motor Car company, president of the Michigan and Detroit Automobile Dealers association, and chairman of the Michigan advisory committee of the automobile retail code authority.

He was prominent in Detroit yachting circles and was a former commodore of the Detroit Yacht club. He was reported bound for Miami to attend yacht races.

TORONTO FACES POLICE STRIKE OVER "MERITS"

TORONTO, Ont., March 1.—(AP)—A police strike, the first since 1918, threatened Toronto tonight as the city's 1,000 officers demanded restoration of the good conduct badge system.

Although Mayor James Simpson said he did not think the strike would take place, President William Hutchinson of the Police association said the men unquestionably would walk out at midnight Saturday unless the merit system is restored and other alleged grievances redressed.

A letter was sent to the mayor, J. Palmer Kent, secretary of the police commission, and Chief of Police D. C. Draper, asking officials to meet the Police association's committee. Two mass meetings of members of the police force will be called tomorrow to take a formal vote on the strike if restoration of the badge system does not result from the meeting. Other demands filed by the association included an eight hour day and one hour lunch periods for all patrolmen.

U. S. MAY WIPE OUT NATIONAL BANK CURRENCY

Reserve Control of All Money Sought.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—Curtailment and perhaps eventual elimination of all national bank currency loomed as a possibility today. The treasury department, it was learned, has virtually decided to allow the law under which the national banks have issued about one-fifth of their own currency to lapse. This may be followed by elimination of all national bank notes in order to concentrate the money control powers in the federal reserve board.

On July 22 the Glass-Borah amendment to the home loan bank act, under which the national banks now have outstanding 146 million dollars in currency, will expire. The administration will not ask for its extension.

Banks Must Redeem Notes.

National banks will be informed soon by the controller of the currency that on July 22 they are expected to redeem the 146 million dollars' worth of notes now outstanding under the Glass-Borah amendment. On that date they must either post other lawful money with the controler for redemption of the notes or place acceptable government bonds behind them as collateral.

The controler originally included in his annual report to congress this year a recommendation that the Glass-Borah amendment be extended, allowing the 146 million dollars in national bank currency to continue in circulation. This recommendation was deleted, however, by higher officials in the treasury who wish to simplify the nation's money system by gradually eliminating all forms of currency except federal reserve notes and silver certificates.

Designed to Stop Inflation.

Originally designed to stop one of the first inflation booms in congress, the Glass-Borah amendment was written into the home loan bank act for a term of three years and approved by President Hoover. It provided that national banks could post with the controler of the currency as collateral for their circulating notes any government bond bearing 3⅜ per cent or less interest.

An expansion of about 900 million dollars was possible under this amendment. Previously the national banks could use only government bonds bearing interest of 2 per cent or less as note collateral, and this restriction will return on July 22.

Death of the Glass-Borah amendment will clear the way for immediate elimination of all national bank currency if the treasury wishes. After the amendment dies the only securities which the national banks can use as note collateral will be 675 million dollars in 2 per cent treasury consols and 2 per cent Panama canal bonds.

Old Bonds Can Be Called.

All of these bonds are now callable by the treasury. If the treasury called these 2 per cent bonds and refinanced them at an interest rate a shade above ½ per cent the national banks would be left without any collateral which they could use for note issuance. Then national bank currency would be dead. Some officials urge this plan.

Actually never more than about 250 million dollars in national bank notes out of the possible 900 million were issued under the Glass-Borah proviso. Even these have gradually been retired in recent months as national banks prepared for the July 22 deadline. Only about 146 million dollars' worth of them now remain outstanding. Other national bank notes amounting to 531 million dollars are backed by 2 per cent government bonds and will remain in circulation.

Will Redeem Notes Gradually.

The Glass-Borah money will be redeemed gradually as it drifts back in from circulation. To provide for this redemption the national banks must post with the controler other lawful money. They have the somewhat limited alternative of securing 2 per cent government bonds and using them as collateral for the notes instead of the present 3, 3¼ and 3⅜ per cent bonds.

Besides its plans to eliminate the national bank currency the government is gradually retiring the federal reserve bank notes, or "asset currency," issued in 1933 solely to meet the banking crisis. Ultimately there will be only two kinds of paper currency—federal reserve notes and silver certificates.

More Unified Control of Banks Sought

Washington, D. C., March 1.—(AP)—A plan to bring closer coöperation between federal agencies which supervise the nation's banks was revived today by some high administration officials and influential members of congress. It would be made possible through amendment to the omnibus banking bill now pending before the house banking committee, and would:

1. Make Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and Marriner S. Eccles, governor of the federal reserve board, ex-officio members of the board of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation.

2. Create a new position, possibly that of administrative assistant to the chairman of the FDIC board, for former Representative Charles H. West, a "regular" Roosevelt Democrat who made an unsuccessful race for the senate from Ohio.

May Cut O'Connor's Power.

3. Perhaps decrease the authority which J. F. T. O'Connor, controler of the currency, now has in connection with federal deposit insurance because of his position as ex-officio member of the FDIC board, which now has only two other sitting members.

4. Permit, through the ex-officio memberships of Jones, Eccles, and O'Connor, closer coördination of all federal banking operations.

This schedule was outlined today by administration officials and committee members after O'Connor had testified before the banking committee on the new bill.

The committee members had been interested in reports of disagreement—always denied—among O'Connor and other administration officials. They decided that the pending bill, without the proposed amendment, would result in a victory for O'Connor.

They found a section in the bill stipulating that when the controler of the currency is absent, the deputy controler acts in his stead. But—and one committeeman described this as a "joke"—the bill adds that the deputy controler may act only within limits laid down by the controler.

Stand on Double Liability.

O'Connor told the committee today that he was opposed to the provision in the pending bill eliminating double liability of national bank stockholders unless there was a requirement for the creation of new reserves.

"By eliminating double liability for stockholders in all national banks," he said, "you tremendously weaken the banking structure, and therefore banks should be required to build up out of their profits some substantial fund to go into their surplus."

As the committee continued its study of the omnibus bill, former Senator Robert L. Owen said the "national monetary conference" had been called to meet again in Washington on March 6.

"We are going to urge specific measures to supply enough money to end this depression," he said, adding that Senator Thomas [Dem., Okla.] and Father Charles Coughlin had concurred in the calling of the meeting.

HERCULES LIFE HOLDS BUSINESS OF DEFUNCT FIRM

The annual statement of the Hercules Life Insurance company, released yesterday, revealed that more than 80 per cent of the business of the National Life Insurance Company of the U. S. A., which was reinsured on Feb. 8, 1934, was still in force on Dec. 31, 1934.

The original amount reinsured was $183,557,062, while reinsurance in force on Dec. 31, 1934, was $147,063,885. Total National Life premiums collected during 1934 amounted to $3,916,445. Hercules Life paid out all death claims accrued prior and subsequent to the reinsurance contract, totaling $2,485,000, and other claims of $360,000. Cash on hand to the credit of the National Life fund at the close of the year was $2,046,512.

IMPORTS OF GOLD NEAR 120 MILLION DURING FEBRUARY

New York, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Gold shipments to the United States in February were made under unusual circumstances, many of the consignments being attended by uncertainty as to when and how the Supreme court would decide the "gold cases." Imports here totaled $119,919,100, compared with $130,987,700 in January and with $370,576,000 in February, 1934, the month following devaluation of the dollar and the posting of $35 an ounce for gold.

Most of the gold received in February came before the court's decision was announced on Feb. 18. Up to that time shipments were quite irregular, none arriving between Feb. 8 and 13 and receipts of more than $42,000,000 following in the next four days. Shortly after the decision several large shipments arrived, bringing roughly $38,000,000 of the metal.

The principal gold imports here were $60,597,700 from Great Britain, $47,559,800 from France, and $5,031,000 from Canada. China sent $357,000 via San Francisco. Gold earmarked here for foreign account was reduced $242,100 following a decrease of $836,000 the month before and contrasted with a reduction of $68,653,400 from 1934.

Liechtenstein Firm Sues to Obtain Interest in Gold

New York, March 1.—(AP)—A securities company chartered in the tiny principality of Liechtenstein began suit in U. S. court today to recover $17,176 in gold coin, or its equivalent in Dutch guilders, as interest on a block of St. Louis & Southwestern Railway company stock purchased 23 years ago. The action was filed on behalf of Anglo-Continentale Treuhadn A. C. and lists 411 bonds.

FREIGHT FALLS 29,085 CARS IN SEASONAL SAG

Total for Last Week Below Year Ago.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—Freight loadings on railroads in the United States last week showed a seasonal decline of 29,085 cars from the preceding week with a total of 552,896 cars, according to figures released today by the Association of American Railroads.

Car movements for the week were 22,012 below the 574,908 cars reported for the corresponding week of last year, but 90,581 cars above the 462,315 cars for the 1933 period.

Weather, Holiday Are Causes.

Declines for the week were attributed to the Washington's birthday holiday, as well as milder weather which caused a letup in coal trafic. Loadings for the year to date total 4,496,072 cars, against 4,497,556 a year ago and 3,894,774 in 1933.

Comparative figures for recent years follow:

FEBRUARY RESULTS VARY.

Loadings on the Chicago & North Western road dropped sharply during February, while those on the Milwaukee road showed improvement, according to reports issued yesterday.

The total for the North Western was 87,385 cars, compared with 92,068 in January and 90,743 in February, 1934. The drop of 3,358 cars from a year ago was brought about principally by lighter movements of grain and live stock. Loadings on the Milwaukee road during the month amounted to 92,357 cars, against 88,131 in the corresponding number of days for January, or 100,160 for the full month, and 91,145 cars in February, 1934.

AUTUMN MARKET OPENING WILL OCCUPY 2 WEEKS

Extension of the Chicago fall market opening over a two weeks period instead of one week was announced yesterday by the Chicago Association of Commerce as one of four important projects to spread Chicago trade influence in greater degree through the middle west.

The fall show will be held July 29 to Aug. 10 at the Hotel Sherman. Usually attended by thousands of department store owners and buyers from all parts of the country, it has been extended in accordance with suggestions at the recent spring style show that buyers be given more time in the local market.

A fashion week, April 1 to 6, is another new event, to be conducted for local wholesalers and retailers two weeks before Easter. It is expected to attract many out of town merchants. The fourth event is a local retail dollar day on April 25.

CHICAGO TRANSIT LINES REPORT GAIN IN TRAFIC

Chicago's local transportation companies yesterday reported improved February trafic, two of them enjoying sharp increases over the corresponding month a year ago.

Preliminary figures showed 52,924,887 passengers carried by the Chicago Surface lines. This was an increase of .31 per cent, or 165,646, above February, 1933, but considerably less than January, a seasonal decline. January figures were 1.1 per cent above those of the previous year.

The Chicago Motor Coach company reported the sharpest gain, 6.4 per cent, while the Chicago Rapid Transit company reported a rise of 5.92 per cent over last February. Neither company revealed actual numbers. For January the "L" reported an 8 per cent gain over the same month of 1934, while the bus lines had a 6 per cent increase.

Studebaker Seeks to List 2 Issues in N. Y. Exchange

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Application to list $7,000,000 Studebaker corporation ten year convertible 6s of 1945 and 2,800,000 shares of common stock of $1 par value was announced by the stock exchange today.

GOLD AND SILVER PRICES MOUNT; DOLLAR FIRMER

Report Britain Will Let Pound Sink.

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Bar gold continued to advance to new high levels in the London market today as the dollar pushed forward against most foreign currencies. Gold gained a shilling to 145 shillings, 1 pence, equivalent to $35.09 an ounce.

At the same time bar silver advanced ⅜ cent to 56⅞ cents an ounce, a new top since 1929. Silver futures climbed more than a cent an ounce on the Canadian Commodity exchange and all months established new highs since founding of the exchange, Oct. 22, 1934.

The downward plunge of the pound was checked in early trading when the Bank of England and the Bank of France both appeared in foreign markets to buy sterling and sell francs when the London cross rate fell to a new all-time low of 72.75 francs to the pound. This was later lifted to 72.88 francs but then reacted somewhat.

Britain Seeks Cheaper Money.

Meanwhile, Great Britain was said to be definitly embarked on a campaign calling for progressive depreciation of the pound in terms of gold and other currencies

A London banker, visiting here, was reported to have expressed the conviction that the aim of the Bank of England and the exchange control is a depreciation of around 10 per cent from current levels. The purpose, he said, is to bolster the position of British industry in world markets. Recent severe competition through currency depreciation has found reflection in a substantial decline in trade activity, it is said.

Bankers reported a continuation of the flow of gold out of England. During the week ended Feb. 25 England imported £3,202,079 in gold, of which £1,100,005 came from China and £836,797 from India. Exports totaled £5,084,196, of which £2,671,972 went to the United States, despite the high dollar price for gold, and £2,067,202 to France.

More Gold Reaches New York.

The importation here of $5,188,100 gold from England was reported today by the New York Federal Reserve bank and it was suggested that the gold might represent the repatriation by the treasury of funds sent abroad in holding down the dollar prior to the Supreme court's decision in the gold clause cases. The reserve bank also reported the receipt of $361,400 gold from India.

Pound and Franc Decline.

In New York the pound closed at $4.81½, a drop of 3⅝ cents for the day. Francs dipped an eighth of a cent to 6.65⅝ cents, lira lost 1½ points to 8.50½, the Belga dipped 2 points to 23.59 and the Swiss franc lost a point to 32.66. Scandinavian currencies were uniformaly lower. The Reichsmark moved against the trend, rising 4 points to 40.55. Canadian dollars lost nearly a tenth of a cent to 99.78⅛ cents.

At the closing quotation on the French franc the dollar was worth 99.70 cents, compared with 99.68 yesterday. The gold value of the dollar against francs was 58.88 cents, compared with 58.87 yesterday and par of 59.06.

U. S. EYES POUND'S FALL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—The recent depression of the English pound sterling in terms of gold is being watched closely by the treasury department because of its possible effect on the dollar, inquiry disclosed today. Serious depreciation of the pound to a point well under its old gold parity of $4.86 would raise serious questions of American monetary policy, it was admitted.

One of the chief advantages gained from President Roosevelt's devaluation of the dollar was to boost the price of the pound in terms of dollars. America was desirous of having "a $5 pound" at least during the world economic conference of 1933 and actually achieved this goal following devaluation of the dollar. America is now faced, however, with a pound which is not only under $5 but which often drops considerably below the old gold parity of $4.86.

Stabilization Fund Used.

The fact that the dollar has to some extent kept pace with the pound in its decline in terms of gold is taken as an indication that the treasury department is using its stabilization fund to keep the dollar-pound ratio as steady as possible. In other words, neither currency is willing to grant the other an advantage by letting it become relatively cheap in terms of gold. Cheap currency is supposedly an asset in world commerce.

The decline of the pound is reported here to be due mainly to the internal conditions in England, notably the collapse of commodity pools, such as the pepper pool. The English government, on the other hand, aware of the trade advantage of a cheap pound, has not been as active in supporting the pound as it might have been, according to sentiment here.

France and other gold bloc countries in Europe are much more disturbed over the decline in the pound and the sympathetic drop in the dollar, according to reports received here. The cheaper these two currencies become in terms of gold, the heavier the drain of gold from the gold bloc countries.

Chicago SEC Office Open; Receives 200 Complaints

The Chicago office of the Securities and Exchange commission was opened yesterday in the Continental Illinois Bank building. E. E. Barthell Jr. in charge of the office, said that operations will not get underway for a day or so, but that more than 200 complaints have been received.

IT'S A UNIQUE PICTURE—NOW

Cook County's Sales of Autos Near Record

More new automobiles were sold in Cook county last month than in any previous February on record with the exception of 1926.

The compilation, issued yesterday by R. L. Polk & Co., disclosed sales of 6,863 automobiles compared with the all-time record of 7,014 for February of 1926.

In the boom year of 1929 dealers sold only 6,356 during that month, while last year's figure was 2,793, or less than half of the February, 1935, total. Only April and July, peak months in the automobile industry, reported higher figures last year. A sharp increase also was noted from January sales of 4,989.

Ford Shows Big Gain.

There was no change in ranking among the leading four makes—Ford, Plymouth, Chevrolet, and Dodge—but Ford took over an increasingly large percentage of total sales.

A total of 2,373, or more than one-third of all new cars sold in Cook county last month, were Fords. Dodge hopped up to within ½ of Chevrolet's 612, which was two less than in January. All four were far ahead of sales a year ago.

Oldsmobile showed even more remarkable gains than Dodge in rising to fifth place with 601 sales. In January it was sixth with 277 and was well down with only 77 a year ago. Pontiac also moved up a notch, while Buick slipped from fifth to seventh. It had 300 sales in January and 241 in February. Terraplane and Studebaker continued in the next two places.

Nash gained slightly, but was forced from tenth to twelfth as both Chrysler and De Soto edged past.

Comparative Figures.

	Feb., '35.	Jan.	Feb., '34.

Ford Output 135,663 Units.

Dearborn, Mich., March 1.—[Special.]—World production of Ford V-8 cars and trucks in February reached a total of 135,663, the home offices of the Ford Motor company announced today.

United States production, including export shipments, totaled 126,646 units. Canadian production was 9,017 units. The March United States production schedule calls for 160,000 units. This will be the largest month's production since June, 1930.

KUHN-LOEB CO. BUYS BLOCK OF AIR LINE STOCK

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Kuhn, Loeb & Co., have purchased the 29,485 shares of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., held by the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries corporation. The stock was obtained by the latter company last December when Transcontinental and Western Air was organized to unify the operations of Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., and Western Air Express between New York and Los Angeles.

It is estimated North American Transportation now holds about 81,000 shares of Transcontinental and Western Air stock, the largest block held by any group. Kuhn, Loeb & Co. are placed second with their new purchase and the Pennsylvania railroad, for which Kuhn, Loeb & Co. are bankers, third with a block of about 20,000 shares.

N. Y. Stock Exchange Seat Brings $81,000; Up $1,000

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—The New York Stock exchange announced the sale of a membership for $81,000, an increase of $1,000 from the last previous sale.

JOHN R. THOMPSON CUTS OPERATING LOSS; BOOSTS DEPRECIATION

Net operating loss of the John R. Thompson company for the year ended Dec. 31, 1934, amounted to $171,717, according to the annual report issued yesterday by John R. Thompson Jr., president. A year earlier operating loss totaled $185,609.

Amortization and depreciation charged off aggregated $667,278, compared with $607,489 in 1933. Adjustment last year of excess accruals for property and general taxes in prior years, less sundry adjustments, reduced the deficit transferred to surplus to $19,812.

Dividends paid out of accumulated surplus amounted to $186,552. Current assets Dec. 31, were carried in the balance sheet at $1,741,206 and current liabilities at $666,269. Total sales for the year were $11,668,345 and the number of meals served was 52,298,742.

SHIPPERS FIGHT REGULATION OF TRUCKS BY U. S.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—(AP)—Shippers representing a variety of industries today opposed before the senate interstate commerce committee pending legislation for the regulation of interstate bus and truck commerce.

Charles E. Blaine, speaking for the American Live Stock association, contended the bill would give the railroads a monopoly of transportation facilities because of their holdings in truck companies. He contended it would extend to interstate commerce a system now prevalent in intrastate regulation fixing truck rates on the basis of rail rates. Blaine said 26 of 33 state commissions based truck rates on rail rates.

Harry D. Fenske, manager of the transportation department of the Great Lakes Steel corporation and spokesman for the Detroit district shippers' conference, said the primary motive back of the bill was a "desire for increased power" by those holding regulatory positions. He contended shippers were not subjected to oppressive rates by trucking companies, and that regulation would increase the rates.

COAL INTERESTS SPLIT ON NEW CONTROL PLANS

Washington, D. C., March 1.—(AP)—A reported rift in the soft coal industry's "big four" over the Guffey coal bill was officially confirmed today at a hearing before a senate interstate commerce subcommittee.

J. D. Francis of Huntington, W. Va., president of the Island Creek Coal company and one of the four, testified in opposition to the bill which would make soft coal mining a public utility. He branded it as impractical and too far reaching. Last week, two other members of the "big four" were identified with proponents of the measure.

M. F. Gallagher of Chicago, attorney for the Coal Trade Association of Indiana, assailed the bill as "class legislation" because it would impose on the coal industry the burden of creating a national coal reserve for the benefit of the whole nation.

CASH REGISTER HEAD OPTIMISTIC IN TRADE VIEWS

New York, March 1.—(AP)—"The outlook is not only good in Europe and the United States, but in South America also," Frederick B. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register company, said today. He is optimistic on business for the first time since 1929, he said.

Patterson, who returned on the Majestic from a business trip to London, Paris and Berlin, said, "England is the only really bright spot in Europe. Business in Germany is good with us, but it can't be compared with England. England has solved her difficulties, is well on the way out, and knows where she is going. That's more than can be said for us."

E. I. DU PONT DE NEMOURS & CO.

Wilmington, Delaware, Feb. 18, 1935

The Board of Directors has this day declared a dividend of $0.65 per share on the outstanding $20 par value common stock of this company, payable March 15, 1935, to stockholders of record at the close of business on February 27, 1935; also dividend of $1.50 a share on the outstanding debenture stock of this Company, payable on April 25, 1935, to stockholders of record at the close of business on April 10, 1935.

W. F. RASKOB, Secretary.

Borg-Warner Puts Dividend on $1.50 Basis

Directors of the Borg-Warner corporation yesterday increased the dividend basis on common stock to $1.50 annually by declaring a quarterly payment of 37½ cents a share. In 1934 the company paid 25 cents quarterly and one extra dividend of the same amount. The usual preferred dividend was also voted.

At the same time C. S. Davis, president, submitted his annual report to stockholders, showing net income for the year ended Dec. 31 of $3,750,576, the largest since 1929. This is equal to $3.06 a share on common stock outstanding and compares with $1,196,270, or 84 cents a share, in the preceding year. Earnings exclude inter company profits represented by inventories and dividends received on Borg-Warner stock held by subsidiaries.

Working Capital Increases.

Current assets at the year-end were carried in the balance sheet at $20,167,844, of which cash and marketable securities totaled $7,841,950. Current liabilities were placed at $4,688,327, including dividends payable Jan. 2, 1935. Net working capital amounted to $15,479,517, an increase of $2,303,629 for the year.

Holdings of government bonds of Dec. 31, 1933, totaling $3,409,420, were liquidated and cash augmented by $3,526,138.

Davis said that during the year minority interest in preferred stock of subsidiaries amounting to $79,300 was bought and retired. The only remaining long term funded debt consisted of $1,075,000 of Morse Chain company 6 per cent debentures of 1948. Since Jan. 1 last, he said, $250,000 par value of the bonds have been purchased for retirement.

More Diversified Lines.

Expansion of diversified lines enabled the company to cut its automotive volume to 65 per cent of total business, although activity in the auto branch continued to increase, Davis said. A subsidiary, the Norge corporation, originally manufacturing only refrigerators, is now well on its way to offering a complete line of household appliances.

Ingersoll Steel and Disk company, another Borg unit, now produces many products in addition to its line of automobile clutch disks, he said, while Morse Chain company, in addition to its automotive products, is making a large line of industrial power transmission devices.

Davis said the first two months of 1935 have shown a "gratifying" rise over the same months last year

"We are in a position to take advantage of any continuing improvement in general business conditions" he said, "and we may expect to prosper if general conditions in the United States permit. We realize the country is not yet clear of all its difficulties."

NORTH WESTERN NEW FAST TRAIN WINS TRAVELERS

The Chicago and North Western's new fast train, the "400," carried an average daily load of 336 passengers on north and south bound trips during February. This was an increase of 20 passengers a day over January, the first month of the train, R. Thompson, passenger trafic manager of the road said yesterday. The train runs between Chicago and St. Paul and Minneapolis via Milwaukee.

Total passengers carried in February numbered 9,350, or 122 less than the January total of 9,478, bringing the total so far to 18,844. The lower total for February is accounted for by the fact that January had two more operating days.

The biggest day of the month was Feb. 21, when 513 passengers were carried on the north and south bound trips.

GEN. ELECTRIC'S BUSINESS AND PROFITS RISE

Votes to Continue Present Dividend.

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—The business of the General Electric company, leading manufacturers of electric equipment, expanded sharply in 1934, according to the annual report which was placed in the hands of stockholders today. With expansion in the volume of business the profits of the company also rase sharply

Coincident with the issuance of the report the directors of the company met today and voted to continue the present rate of dividend. A quarterly payment of 15 cents a share was authorized.

Sales Rise 21 Per Cent.

Business in 1934 was approximately 21 per cent in excess of the preceding year. Sales aggregated $164,797,000 as compared with $136,637,000 in 1933. On this volume the company realized a profit of $17,151,000 or nearly $7,000,000 more than was earned in the preceding year. Actual earnings in 1933 were $10,855,000.

The 1934 earnings are equivalent to 59 cents a share on the common stock after provision for dividends on the company's special stock. In 1933 the par share profit on the common stock was 38 cents.

The upturn in business was accompanied by sharp expansion in pay rolls. Employment of the company at the close of the year was larger than at any time during the year, the report indicated.

"Between March 1, 1933, the approximate low, and Dec. 31, 1934, the high, the number of employés on the pay roll increased almost 27 per cent and the total pay roll increased from $47,604,000 to $81,000,000, or 70 per cent," the report said.

Employment Increases.

The average number of employés in 1934 was 49,642 as compared with 41,560 in 1933. The total earnings of workers last year was $75,227,000 against $55,287,000 in 1933. The average annual wage of employés was $1,515, an increase of $185 over the average rate in 1933.

At the close of last year the stock of General Electric was held by 196,248 individuals. This represented a broadening in ownership, because at the end of the preceding year the company reported 188,316 stockholders.

The year end balance sheet revealed total cash and government securities of $108,000,000. This was a reduction of $4,000,000 from the total of $112,000,000 shown in the preceding annual report.

TRADE BOARD AND NRA CAN'T AGREE ON STEEL BASING

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—After spending three months in a vain attempt to harmonize the conflicting viewpoints expressed by the Federal Trade commission and the NRA in reports on the merits and demerits of the "basing point" system of quoting prices established in the steel code, the National Industrial Recovery board today gave up what appeared to be an impossible task and turned the two reports over to President Roosevelt with a request that he make them public.

One possibility reported today was that the President might send the entire problem to congress for its consideration when the new NRA legislation is discussed, with particular reference to the anti-monopoly features of the new recovery law.

In essence the question propounded to the two bodies as to what constitutes a monopolistic practice has not been determined. On this point, the views of the Federal Trade commission and of the NRA are still wide apart. Senator Borah has frequently attacked the steel code and the basing point system under that code as monopolistic.

NRA DROPS COST MARKUP CLAUSE IN LUMBER CODE

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—The national industrial recovery board has allowed the cost markup provision of the retail lumber code to lapse, the NRA administrative officer, W. A. Harriman, announced today.

The markup provision expired last night. The industry had asked that the provision be continued until a meeting of the code authority in April. The average markup—the difference between cost to the dealers and their selling price—since last June has been 29 per cent. Before that it was 41 per cent.

In NRA circles it was held doubtful that the lapse of the markup provision would move lumber prices downward for the forthcoming government housing program. One reason advanced was that the industry has been living on a hand-to-hand basis for months and that prices for the higher grades of lumber were tending upward.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT. Procurement Division, Public Works Branch, Washington, D. C., Feb. 25, 1935.

Sealed bids in duplicate will be publicly opened in this office at 1 p. m., March 25, 1935, for furnishing all labor and materials and performing all work for construction of the U. S. P. O., Lincoln Park Station, Chicago, Ill. Assistant Director of Procurement,
Public Works Branch.

MINING SHARES RISE SHARPLY ON METAL GAINS

General List Strong Late in Session.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 1.—Wall street was not quite o glum today. Enough buying orders were placed to keep the stock market bobbing along on an even keel and in the closing half hour to tilt it upward a bit. Isolated gains ran as high as two points.

Mining shares provided such leadership as the session afforded, being boosted by new high prices for precious metal in foreign and domestic markets and by some fresh gossip on the threadbare subject of inflation. United States Smelting improved its opportunities to the extent of $3.50 a share and other silver issues moved up behind the leader in determined fashion. American Smelting, Howe Sound, Cerro de Pasco, and others finished 1 to more than 2 points higher.

Gold Issues Also Rise.

The gold miners caught the infection and Homestake skipped up some 13 points in a few sales. McIntyre, Dome, and Alaska Juneau all improved substantially under good demand.

Even the rails were able to rise in on the forward movement toward the end. There were no overnight changes in the picture affecting the carriers, but the statement by New York Central on its financial plans served to clear the atmosphere, brokers said, and to remove doubt about the immediate future of this major system. Central regained nearly a point of its recent losses and gains of about as much were made by Atchison and Illinois Central. Norfolk and Western jumped 4 points on a single sale.

Rumors were about that the interstate commerce commission is set to announce its decision on the application of the roads for an increase of $170,000,000 in freight rates.

Some Sharp Price Swings.

Pronounced price swings here and there varied the monotony. Coca-Cola advanced 5 points to the best price in five years. American Safety Razor reached the highest ground since 1928. Standard of New Jersey was a feature in the industrial list with a gain of about a point. National Lead jumped 5 points on one of its infrequent appearances on the tape. Canada Dry Ginger Ale extended its decline for the last two days to 3 3/4 points, and International Hydro-Electric dropped a fraction to a record low.

Movements in preferred shares brightened up corners here and there. Hahn Department Stores preferred rose more than 3 points and the senior stock of Case sold from quotation to quotation.

New Securities Division Head Is Not Yet Selected

Inquiry at the Chicago office of the state securities commissioner's department yesterday revealed that no official action has been taken to name a successor for Leonard D. Karcher, former head of the division. Mrs. Marie Kennedy, acting head, who has been mentioned as a possible successor, said she was in no position to comment on the situation.

GRAINS REGAIN EARLY LOSS IN BELATED SPURT

ShortCovering PutsWheat Fractionally Higher.

Extreme lethargy which held the grain market in its grip during most of yesterday's session gave way to a mild flurry of excitement shortly before the close on the Chicago Board of Trade. Prices rallied rapidly. Most early losses were wiped out or reduced to small fractions, while a few small gains dotted the list at the finish.

Until the last fifteen minutes of trading activity was dull almost to the point of stagnation. Price swings had been confined to a three-quarter cent range in wheat and corn, and correspondingly narrow limits in other cereals. Some buying that was thought to represent removal of milling hedges against sales of flour made its appearance, but this was light and a large portion of the volume was contributed by local professionals.

Short Covering Lifts Prices.

Attempts to cover short commitments really started the rally, as little wheat was offered for sale on the way up and purchasers were forced to bid up prices. Mild speculative buying appeared on the upturn around previous closing levels for May wheat, which pushed some futures across the line for net gains on the day. Activity in other pits largely duplicated that of wheat. Closing prices of principal May futures follow:

	Yester-day.	Thurs-day.	*Week ago.
Wheat	.98¼	.97¾	.....
Corn	.84½	.84⅝	.....
Oats	.50⅝	.50⅝	.....
Rye	.65	.64⅞	.....

*Holiday.

Wheat in Winnipeg rulled strong all session, closing with net gains of ⅜ to ½ cent. Liverpool eased ⅛ to ⅝ cent, Buenos Aires moved down fractionally, and Rotterdam finished ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher.

Weather Has Small Influence.

Weather news exerted little influence marketwise, although no change was reported in bad conditions prevailing over large areas of the winter wheat belt. Such reports as appeared tended to confirm earlier advices of crop damage following last week's mixture of storms.

Little change was recorded in the cash market, where prices were maintained for the most part. Sales for shipment out of Chicago were small, while purchases in the country for arrival later were likewise light.

The extent to which speculative activity has declined was shown in a tabulation of volume in wheat transactions on the Board of Trade for the week ended Thursday. Turnover amounted to only 64,000,000 bushels, which is only slightly more than what was once considered a rather dull day.

DROUTH AND AAA CAUSE BIG DROP IN PACKING JOBS

Employment in Packingtown has been falling at a rapid rate since the government stopped killing animals for the relief, and at present is at the lowest level in several years, according to observers at the yards.

It was stated authoritatively that one packer has been forced to lay off 2,000 men because of the low volume of receipts, and several of the smaller interests have cut their forces from a few men up to 200 in recent weeks.

The volume of receipts handled at Chicago are among the smallest on record, an aftermath of the drouth and AAA manipulations.

February Butter and Egg Trade Here Tops Year Ago

Volume of trading on the Chicago Mercantile exchange increased sharply over 1934 during February, the exchange announced yesterday. Turnover totaled 2,058 cars of eggs and 1,553 cars of butter. Respective totals last year were 604 and 1,459. Prices during the month touched the highest levels in five years at 34½ cents a pound for butter and 26⅝ cents a dozen for eggs.

BEG YOUR PARDON

It was reported in yesterday's CHICAGO TRIBUNE that Irving park and Jefferson park 1932 bonds were called for payment. Irving park 1931 tax anticipation warants issued against bond and interest levy and Jefferson park 1932 warants issued against bond and interest levy were the securities called for payment, and not the bonds.

PRICES OF COTTON FUTURES ADVANCE 4 TO 13 POINTS

Cotton responded readily yesterday to a moderate increase in outside and professional buying and moved up 4 to 13 points in Chicago and 5 to 10 points in other markets with new crop months leading the advance. Spot cotton closed 5 to 10 points higher, with New Orleans, 12.70 cents; Houston, 12.75 cents; Galveston, 12.65 cents, and New York, 12.60 cents per pound. Prices follow:

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 1.—Reversing the trend of the last few days, United States government bonds rallied briskly today under the impetus of heavy buying, closing as much as 12-32 point higher.

Total transactions in the long term government issues reached $5,890,000, or nearly half of the trading in all bonds on the exchange. The turnover in the government issues was the heaviest since Feb. 18, the day that the Supreme court announced its decision in the gold clause cases.

Corporations Irregular.

Domestic corporation bonds, however, showed an irregular trend, with the major fluctuations amounting to a point or two for the active issues. On the average the public utilities did better than the rails or industrials.

International Hydro Electric 6s, due 1944, proved a soft spot in the utility group, breaking 5 points, presumably on developments relating to power contract investigations in Ontario. On the curb the bonds of Gatineau Power, a subsidiary, broke 7 to 15 points.

Foreign List Higher.

Foreign loans closed generally higher. By far the heaviest buying appeared in Argentine government bonds, which climbed 1⅛ to 2⅛ points, enabling several issues to reach new highs for the year. Argentine provincial and municipal loans were likewise strong.

Other Latin American issues were steady in quiet dealings. European issues moved irregularly higher in slow trading.

Exchange Firms to Fight Added Costs of Wire Code

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Frank R. Hope, president of the Association of Stock Exchange Firms, will testify before the federal communications commission next week in behalf of stock exchange wire houses. The proposed code of the communications companies places new restrictions on the stock wire houses which will boost expenses, it is said.

A Sound Bond.

Investors' Guide: Please send me information in regard to the financial standing and the rating of Wisconsin Gas and Electric bonds.—G. F.

Answer: Conservative capitalization, adequate current position, good security and wide margin by which fixed charges have been covered over a period of years entitle Wisconsin Gas and Electric company first 5s, due 1952, to a sound rating.

The company is an operating company, part of the North American system. It furnishes electricity, gas, and transportation services to 189 communities, with a population of almost 400,000, in southeastern Wisconsin.

Operating revenue for the twelve months to Sept. 30, 1934, were up about $280,000 from the preceding twelve months to reach $5,487,000, but higher operating expenses, depreciation, and taxes cut into net income. Fixed charges were earned 1.88 times, a substantial margin, against 2.25 times for the twelve months to Sept. 30, 1933.

Gross in 1933 was $5,326,000, against $5,680,000 for 1932 and $5,027,000 for 1931. Charges were covered 2.24 times in 1933, 2.50 times in 1932, 3.35 times in 1931 and 3.67 times in 1930.

On June 30, 1934, current assets were $1,834,000 and current liabilities were $1,267,000.

The $9,900,000 first 5s, due 1952, are secured by a first mortgage on all assets subject to only $269,000 prior liens. Funded debt represents only 45 per cent of total capitalization. The bonds are callable at 105.

Yukon Gold.

Investors' Guide: Re Yukon Gold company: Please send me whatever information you have available in regard to same.—G. J. C.

Answer: This subsidiary of Pacific Tin corporation exhausted its gold reserves in 1932. Production of tin is its principal source of revenue now, although small quantities of silver and lead are produced. Operations are conducted in the Malay States, Asia.

	Tin produced [lbs].	Net loss.	Loss per share.
1933	1,412,000	*$ 76,000	*$0.02
1932	1,606,000	342,000	.10
1931	2,214,293	395,000	.11
1930	3,389,499	220,000	.06

On Dec. 31, 1933, current assets, including cash of $153,000, totaled $368,000 and current liabilities were $35,000. There was no funded debt, but amount due to the parent company was $4,028,000. Profit and loss deficit of $18,531,000 was $1,031,000 more than capital.

Capitalization is represented by 2,500,000 shares of $5 par stock on which nothing has been paid since 1918. The stock is purely speculative.

"KNOW WHY"

If you knew the far reaching influence of a MOLER DIPLOMA you would not think of learning Beauty Culture anywhere else

Through the Moler organization with trade association and employing bodies, MOLER GRADUATES are employed the world over.

If you could be placed in a cozy little shop of your own—on Moler capital—you would realize the benefits of Moler enrollments.

BURNHAM
School of Beauty Culture
OFFERS OPPORTUNITIES FOUND ONLY AT BURNHAM'S.

WORLD'S LARGEST BEAUTY SCHOOL.

When you visit Burnham's you'll understand why more girls enroll in this school than in any other, and you'll be amazed at the unexpected and exclusive advantages which our 64 year record of turning out the best operators enables us to pass on to you —such as positions on ocean liners, positions with the best shops which DEMAND Burnham graduates, the opportunity of earning while learning, free tools, unlimited practice on living models, easy terms, and many other advantages.

Once explained, you'll see how Burnham teaching methods will enable you to master Beauty Culture quicker, easier, and better—why these methods develop the type of operator shop owners want.

If you ACT now you can arrange to pay for most of your tuition after you graduate. Call, phone, or write for FREE BEAUTY BOOK.

How to Become a BEAUTY EXPERT

What are you ambitious to be? An "ordinary" mediocre beauty operator trained to work only in the "cheapest" shops at minimum wages? Or—wouldn't you rather be a genuine beauty expert, with sufficient training, practical experience and technical knowledge to qualify you for a good paying position in a high class shop?

EASY PAYMENTS.

Unquestionably you want to be an expert and earn more money. DeLEE trains its students to be real experts. At DeLEE you will receive individual, personal instruction, under Madame Louise, who will learn the really fine points of beauty culture and hairdressing in the shortest possible time.

Come in today and talk with the DeLEE dean. Let her show you through this beautiful light, clean, colorful school and explain the low tuition fee plan to you.
